Advice to the Aged. Age brings infirmities, such as slug-gish bowels, weak kidneys and blad-der and torpid liver.

IMPARTING VIGOR BOLD EVERYWHERE,

Ages, Sages and Wages.

If you have a wife and half a-dozen daughters, you can keep them all well by very simple mean. Let them use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is good for women of all ages. will not need to spend all your wages for it. These ancient sages, the M. D. of a century since, did nothing but dose and bleed their patients. Wed better to day: We use Dr. Pierce's remedies. For womankind, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is Indispensable. The young girl needs its strengthing help at that critical period when she is blossoming into womanbood. The matron and mother find in it vigoration and relief from the numerous ills which beset their existance. And ladies well advanced in years universally acknowledge the revivifying and restorative effects of this favorite and standard remedy.

Head quarters for all daily papers, at

OUTLAWRY EAST AND WEST.

Vigorous Reply of a Missouri Editor to an Alleged Superior. It is always the joy of a certain class of people to seem scholarly, superior and philosophical. Persons of this sort talk about geographical influences on civilization and spin theories about character and climate. They do not understand these theories, but they think they will startle common people much as the witch tales of the garrulous grandsire scares the children.

People who talk about the prevalence of outlawry in the west are of this ilk. Given a little less intelligence, and they would operate a "divining rod" to locate gold; a little less, and they would hunt up "charms" in the dark of the moon to drive away the "roomatiz;" a little less, and they would be voodoo doctors, dispensing snake oil and broth made of black cats' eyes. There are very few removes from the voodoo priest to the piggish simpleton who gibbers about the outlawry of the west. There is no more outlawry in the west than there is in the east. It wasn't so very long ago that Oliver Curtis Perry, a New York highwayman, robbed a train and stole an engine on which to make his escape. Just last week a gang of tramps, less than 100 miles from New York, stole a train of Pullman cars and held it 24 hours, and the officers dared not approach to molest them. The Homestead affair happened at the east; the Borden murder and the Christy Warden murder both occurred in a portion of the east that is particularly effete; Mrs. Halliday of Newburg, who killed a mess of summer boarders for breakfast and butchered her husband for tea, is an eastern product. The man who raked $105,000 out of a treasury vault was an eastern man, and Carlyle Harris was of the east eastern. He rolled his "r's," broadened his "a's" and wore a pointed

The list might be continued indefinitely and the whole west searched for a parallel to any of the horrors of the east. The "outlawry" in the country beyond the Missouri river sounds wise, ponderous and scholarly when used on the other side of the Alleghanies, but it will not two of these musicians are charged in bear a close inspection. Outlawry has no "pent up Utica," Ithaca, Elmira, Albany, Kings county or Springfield, Mass., to contract its powers. It is as broad in extent as man is depraved .-Kansas City Star.

Upon an irregular square peninsula of ragged limestone rock, less than 15 acres in area, the fort of Melilla stands. From a height of 60 feet to 100 feet and more its grim, gray walls frown upon the dark blue waters. It is a stronghold of approved mediæval and romancist type; mighty walls, strengthened by many high, round towers, drawbridges, portcullis, profound gateways, dark casements and rock hewn labyrinthian passages and dungeons. Within the devious lines of the fort's walls is built the true Melilla, a town of ups and downs, whose streets are lanes barely wide enough to let a panier laden donkey pass. Without, on still more irregular and uneven ground, an outer and inferior wall incloses probably 20 acres of land given over to a kind of market place by the water's edge and a few shanties and places of business.

The outmost girdle consists of six detached stonebuilt forts. Three are like those at Spithead, and the others are larger works of rectangular shape akin to those on Chatham and Potsdown heights, but of course without the big ditches. The Spaniards have evidently bestowed care upon all of them, as they are far superior to anything our military authorities thought fit to erect at Suakin. At this moment it is a town crowded beyond all English notions of dangerous overpacking.-London Telegraph.

An Indian Adept and Fortune Teller. Delhi rejoices in the possession of a remarkable fortune teller, whose exploits, according to a correspondent, are causing much excitement, and it is strange to have to record that the man appears to have the power of second sight or rather to be able to anticipate the questions he is to be asked.

He is either a very clever impostor or a wonderful phenomenon, for he places no restriction on the questions he should be asked, so that from the most important to the most trivial queries are put to him and answered correctly. He discloses the past and reveals the future with equal facility. A native gentleman, well known and respected in Delhi, visited the "Joshti" with the express object of testing his capabilities for thought reading, and on being admitted into the "Joshti's" presence the atter at once said: "I know what you have come to ask. You wish me to tell you the date and hour of your birth," and, mirabile dictu, the "Joshti" furnished the gentleman with every particular of his birth, giving the correct date and even specifying the hour of the occurrence. To say the least of it, the man does most extraor dinary things.—London Globe.

The woodwork of the cornice was easily set in flames, but it never got much of a start. The fire was discovered by Miss Olive Catlin, one of the teachers. She informed Professor Bartholomew, who at once ran up stairs and threw a bucket of water on the blaze.-Louisville Con-Professional Jealousy. "Talk about professional jealousy," said a young woman who can dance a minuet like her great-grandmother.

"Why, it makes me feel old when I think "I appeared once at a benefit matinee performance, for which I had rehearsed two whole weeks. A Studio Trick.

In the corner of an artist's studio in this city is an ingenious arrangement of screens, upon one of which, over an aperture about the size of a face, is an inscription, "Likenesses taken instantaneously." The innocent visitor peeks through the hole and is astonished to behold an exact likeness of himself as a humpbacked jailer in a scarlet coat, opening a prison door. The secret of this effect is simple. The jailer is a lifesize painting strongly rendered. The place for the face is cut out and a mirfor inserted, reflecting the features of the spectator. The conception of this amusing fantasy is not entirely original. It was imported from the studio of Wiertz, the Belgian artist.—Philadelphia

British Army Fifers.

Fifers do not appear in the pay list of the Coldstream guards till 1797, when the company of grenadiers. After the restoration the hautboy, or oboe, appears among the other instruments of the band. A warrant of the time of Charles II was issued in 1678 for payment of the state clothing of the hautboys and four drummers.

In the early years of the following century hautboys were introduced into the different regiments of foot guards. The pay of the soldiers who served at St. Quintin's in the reign of Mary was not so unlike that of the present day. The private soldier received 8d., a drummer or fifer 1s. and a trumpeter 1s. 6d. a day.
