THE MCGEE FAMILY BENEFIT.

Churches and Lodges Exert Themselves to Drive Dull Care Away.

This original melodrama was presented last night at Reed's by its author and a company of Salem artists for the benefit of the McGee family, about $85 being realized. The entire play and the stage management gave great satisfaction.

Billy Dugan and Chas. Burggraf took the comic parts. The latter made his first appearance and surprised all by the finish of his work, which was maintained throughout with an evenness that was surprising.

Authr Lawrence had the part of villian and did some good acting as Hall Weston. Mrs. Holland as Harry Raymond's true wife played well as usual and that is saying it was extraordinary amateur work.

All Salem educational institutions closed their doors Friday for the Christmas holidays. The business houses were thronged with shoppers and today being Saturday the streets are crowded with people purchasing Christmas supplies in anticipation of Sunday to be followed by another holiday, Christmas proper.
