FACILITATE EMPLOYMENT.

The governor of Oregon says two-thirds of the workmen of this state are out of employment. Granting it is true, for the sake of argument, what has he done to facilitate employment?

There is great distress all over our country for want of employment. In those conditions it is always a question, what have these in authority done to alleviate the conditions of labor?

The last legislature levied taxes for half a dozen state institutions, from an asylum in Eastern Oregon costing $500,000 to a $300,000 jail at Salem.

Even the convicts in the state prison who are under the governor's immediate charge are not employed. There are three hundred men there begging for work and they could as well be employed at breaking rock in the prison yard and making material to improve the state highways.

Can anyone show that Governor Penney has done anything to facilitate employment of labor the past year? The construction of a fish-ladder at Oregon City was placed under his personal control.

There will be a watch meeting held in the M. E. church next Sunday evening. Mrs. Bailes was a passenger to Salem Friday.

Many a wife and mother, who seems to be doomed to die because she suffers from diseases peculiar to women, which sap her life away like a vampire, and kill the skill of the family physician, can be saved by employing the proper remedy.

This necessitates a raise in Clackamas in Coos and a 20 per cent. raise in Marion, Polk and Tillamook; and a reduction in Gilliam, Multnomah, Umatilla, Wasco and Washington and a 10 per cent. reduction in Columbia and 15 per cent. in Malheur.

Shares of stock were raised 15 per cent. in Wallowa, 20 in Jackson, and 40 in Yamhill; money, notes and accounts 20 per cent. in Wasco, 12 in Josephine, and 50 in Clatsop; and in the other counties the assessment on money, notes and accounts and shares of stock was permitted to stand as equalized by the county boards.

The Catholics held midnight mass Sunday evening. There was a good attendance. Mr. Miller spent Christmas in Salem.

Rev. Royall's son-in-law and little daughter made a short visit with them last week. J. W. Shaffer was in Port and on business Saturday.

George Massey's family visited with J. W. Shaffer Sunday. Guy Looney went up near Eugene last week to spend a week with his cousins.

E. K. Shaw and wife spent Xmas with Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Erwin of Silverton. Mrs. S. A. Jones and Burk drove to Sublimity last week.

Miss Bertha Jones came home to spend the holidays. The Xmas tree was a grand success. The house was filled to its utmost capacity. Plenty of presents in spite of hard times.

There will be a watch meeting held in the M. E. church next Sunday evening. Mrs. Bailes was a passenger to Salem Friday. Prof. Meyers and wife left on Saturday's train to spend the holidays with Mrs. Meyers' relatives near Salem.

Mrs. E. K. Shaw was at Salem Thursday. Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Ridinger went to Salem one day last week. Mr. Hoover is reported better.

E. W. Chapman drove to Salem Thursday. A number of the young folks met and gave Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Pruitt a surprise Tuesday evening. An unconquered large crowd was in attendance.

THE COBWEB CURE.

Not a Fine Spun Theory, but a Proved Specific For Asthma. Sufferers the world over from that distressing disease, asthma, will be interested in the following, the truth of which the writer knows, as well as many of the reputable citizens of this city.

For several years—in fact, almost since infancy—Miss Katie Faber, the 17-year-old daughter of George Faber of this city, has been a constant sufferer with the distressing complaint. Her father spent hundreds of dollars with noted specialists and in buying many preparations guaranteed to cure.

About a year ago, while Miss Faber was suffering from one unusually severe attack, a neighbor who had happened in said that a missionary who had returned from India had told her that the Hindus cured asthma with cobwebs, and explained that the method of taking it was to gather a web, roll it into a pellet and swallow it.

Neither the young lady's mother nor the lady who had told of the cure had any faith in it, as they were afraid of poison. Not long after Miss Faber had a very severe attack of the disease, and to use her mother's words: "Kate said, 'I may just as well be dead as to suffer this way, and I am going to try the cobweb cure.'"

But a week after Mrs. Faber concluded to try the cure again, and went to the icehouse, where she found an uncommonly large web, rolled it into a pellet and gave it to her daughter, who drank it with a cup of water. No bad effects were noticed that afternoon nor the night after the pill was taken, but the following day she was very sick.

This was early last June, and from that time to this she has never had an attack of the disease, although the attacks before were daily, and in a few months, from being a pale, delicate looking young woman, is now rosy cheeked, and where she formerly weighed 104 pounds now tips the scales at 138 pounds. Persons who doubt the truth of this story need only write to Mr. and Mrs. Faber, and they will verify it.—Wooster Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Blow to Romantic Venice. A short time ago a United States firm made a proposition to the municipal heads of Venice to run electric boats along the canals and lagoons through and about the city. The trial of the first boat took place recently and, almost strange to say, met the approval of the council.

Major M. P. Turner of the Florida Fruit Exchange estimates that this year's orange crop will be between 4,000,000 and 4,500,000 boxes. The crop would have been fully 4,500,000 boxes had it not been for the fall storm, which blew a great deal of fruit to the ground and injured other fruit on the trees by battering it against the limbs and thorns.
