The Mules Knew the Route.

A remarkable instance of the stuboness with which mules retain once impressed upon them was en one day last week. A dairyon who for years had driven his am and served his 300 or more estomers in Cincinnati personally, fled suddenly before he could give lisson a list of the customers. The atter, however, started the wagon to town at the usual hour the next my, with instructions to deliver milk wherever the team stopped.

The animals trotted along briskly ill they reached Abigail street, where they pulled up in front of a grocery. A maid with a pitcher soon ran out, md taking the name and order the lriver continued. He simply started the mules, letting them pick the route, and when they finally headed for home he found he had a list of over 300 customers. The mules had sot only stopped at all the regular places, but, as was afterward learned, ad regained several former customers who had changed milkmen recently, but who, pleased with the queer method of learning the route. sgain returned to the old milk.-Cincinnati Times-Star.

Advertising Scheme at Niagara Falls.

"I read some time ago that signs projected by electric searchlights on the clouds over London would be a novel advertising idea," said an electrical engineer. 'T've got a better one than that. Why not place electric searchlights on the Canadian side of Niagara falls and project advertising announcements on the American falls? The immense curtain of water this the defendant did not vouchsafe would make a splendid background, any intelligent reply. and the rapidly falling water would produce novel effects on the signs. it was shown that a settlement had The trolley road now operating not been made, because he would not along the falls might utilize this agree to what would practically scheme and give its patrons gigantic magic lantern shows on summer evenings."-Electrical Review.

Revolution In Eating

has been brought about by the introduction of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or indifferent butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstain entirely from everything of that kind. To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar value, widening as it does, the range of what may be eaten and enjoyed. COTTOLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food-imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion.

COTTOLENE is worthy of the careful notice of all those who value good food, of itself or for its hygienic properties.

LIFE IS SWEET.

This world would be a dreary world If there were none to love us, And dull would be the passing hours, And perfumeless the sweetest flowers, And dim the stars above us.

I often think, whene'er I sit Amid the twilight shadows, Watching the dying sun's descent Adown the roseate firmament, Which seems to clasp the meadows,

How cheerless and how drear would be The days that hover o'er us.

If Love's bright eye should shine no more If we should tread along life's shore With no bright hopes before us.

Ah, brother, mortal life is sweet While friends are true and near us— While loving lips to ours are pressed, Bestowing kisses heaven bath biessed, To make us smile-to cheer us.

True as the heaven above us. They fill our souls with peace and mirth, They orighten darkest days of earth And only live to love us

Then say not, stole, that this life Is naught but pain and sadness, While round our path bloom love's sweet flowers. While friendship paints the passing bours With her bright smile of gladness.

An Indignant Judge.

Judge Falconbridge is one who does not conceal his disgust at the action of the people who go to law over trifles. While the case of Lackie versus Lount was being tried at the London (Ont.) assizes the defendant gave evidence, and the judge remarked: Suppose this old lady, who is 83 years of age, was asking what you considered a little too much, don't you think it would have been just as well to have given it to her? It was only the use of a couple of acres of land at best for a short time." To

On this coming out, his lordship said very emphatically: "Then it appears that this suit has been brought in the high court of justice over a dispute which amounts to about $1.25 per year, the cost of which will be at least $100 to each side. It is shameful! Shameful!"-Ottawa Journal.

COLLECTING DEBTS IN FRANCE.

Points of Difference Between the System There and In This Country.

The matter practiced in the collection of debts in France and in the United States does not differ materially save in the collection and the mode of procedure. The first step which is necessary for a creditor in France to take before he can use legal means to collect a debt due him is to obtain judgment against the debtor, which is rendered by a justice of the peace, provided the amount does not exceed $40. The defendant is required to appear in court on a certain day and arrange for a settlement of the account and pay a part or the whole of it or show cause

If this arrangement is not made, the defendant is a second time summoned to appear, and should he then flatly refuse payment judgment is rendered against him. The cost of judgment, together with that of sent to the debtor. He then has three months' grace to appeal before a civil court from the judgment already handed down. Failing to exercise this privilege, the matter is put in the hands of a "huissier," whose functions partake of those of both the bailiff and process server, but his methods as well as his perogatives resemble neither one nor the other. The huissier upon request of the creditor makes an abstract statement of the condition of the debt, the fee for preparing and serving the same varying according to the length of the instrument and not ac entians, which tradition, as well as cording to the importance of the the opinion of archaeological experts, debt. Its average cost, however, may be placed at $2.50. In case the debtor ignores the docment an "assignation" is served upon him, and eight days thereafter his furniture is seized and placed in the hands of the huissier. The expense entailed in the preparation of these notices is defrayed by the creditor, but if at any moment the debtor agrees to liquidate in full he is not only required by law to discharge tem is better than the plan pursued in the United States is a matter of opinion.-Pittsburg Dispatch.

Sewing In Public Schools.

The course of study in sewing in the Boston public schools is interesting for an amateur of sewing to consider. To read of "thimble, emery, scissors," set off neatly as articles of study, and to gaze upon a printed curriculum of "basting, backstitch-ing, overcasting, half backstitching and combination of one running and one-half backstitch" is to realize most intensely the advantages Boston offers to her daughters. In the fourth year are taught, among other things, stocking darning, straight and bias felling, whipping and sewing on ruffles, hemstitching, blind stitching, tucking if not taught previously, gathers overhanded to a band, sewing on hooks and eyes and buttons, eyelets, loops, and in the fifth year there is a system of dress cutting by which girls are taught to take measures, draft, cut and fit a dress waist. - Boston Transcript.

The value of reputation is almost cynically set forth by the case of a young literary man whose rejected story came back to him from a great publishing house with a few words of praise qualified by the declaration that it showed traces of the amateur. Encouraged by this he set to work and produced a novel. This he sent teak as the principal exports from to the same house, and it was acsame publisher the rejected story at double the price he had originally asked.—New York Sun.

Johnnie-What is a parasite, mal Mrs. Newlirich-Gracious! haven't they taught you that at school? It's The Walts.

It was Lady Jersey who introduced it, and when later the Emperor Alexander visited London, an army of foreigners gave a strong impetus to the movement. Its great popularity gave rise to many disputes as to whence the waltz originally came, whether from the old Provencal "La Sauteuse," or "Volte," or the German national dance, the "Laendler." It is most universally ascribed to the last named. The "Laendler" was under the ban of the authorities as being dangerous to both health and morals, but in spite of prohibition it made its way to Vienna, where it was introduced in the opera "Una Casa Rara," by Vincente Martens. The character of the dance was, however, greatly changed and modified, the tempo being much accelerated. From Vienna it quickly passed to France. Dr. Burney saw it performed in Paris in 1780 and could not help reflecting, "how unthe summons, is defrayed by the easy an English mother would feel to plaintiff and a copy of the former see her daughter so familiarly treated and still more to note the obliging manner in which the freedom is returned by the females.

Had he lived a few years longer, the good old doctor's sense of decorum would have received a shock in the welcome accorded to the dance by English women.-All the Year Round.

The Oldest Church.

The oldest Christian church in the world is at Rome. Not far from the great church of St. Maria Maggiore. in a street bearing the same name, is the much smaller church of St. Pudeclares to be the most ancient of the Christian edifices of Rome.

About the middle of the first century a certain Roman senator named Pudens had a house on this spot. He was a Christian convert and, it is said, a distant relative of Paul the Apostle, who lodged with him from A. D. 41 to 50, and converted his two daughters, Praxedes and Pudentiana. For the religious uses of himself and guests he built a small chapel in this his original obligation, but to add to it the costs of the judgment and fees of the huissier. the nerve fluid may be termed, it an especially attractive department of science, us it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. herve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pucumagnatric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve aystem, as it supplies the heart lungs, atomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be need by the cuthe long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the proumognatric, while the numerous little branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by Irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is leasened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

Russia and Chins. It may be laid down as a safe general rule that any and every agreement made between China and Russia must be detrimental to the interests of China, for the simple reason that Russia always knows precisely what she is driving at, while China has never yet apprehended the true purport of any convention she has made with a foreign power, and usually discovers too late that her confidence in the magic power of phrases has been misplaced. This is especially true of the treaties and protocols she has made with Russia during the past generation. They have been so many steps in the Russian advance, and such they are likely to continue. - Blackwood's Mag-
