

THE CAPITAL JOURNAL. PUBLISHED DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY. BY THE Capital Journal Publishing Company. Postoffice Block, Commercial street. HOFER BROTHERS, - - - Editors.

THE PATRIOTIC ORDERS. Devoted to the Fraternal Societies of the Department of Oregon.

[This department devoted to news and discussion of matters of interest to the Grand Army posts, Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans of Oregon will appear each Saturday in the DAILY CAPITAL JOURNAL. It will not only get all the news of the orders in Oregon but secure this complete news and press daily newspaper, send items, news and subscriptions direct to the publishers, Hofers Bros., Salem, Or.]

SONS OF VETERANS. J. W. Wilson, the efficient adjutant of the Division under Col. Drake, is now captain of the Sherman camp. He is a hard worker, full of the right spirit of enthusiasm to promote the welfare of the order in that large city.

At Lebanon the three orders held out installation Jan. 6th. They have a beautiful hall and Comrade C. B. Montague made an excellent address. The veterans told camp fire stories, and a bountiful supper was served by the Relief Corps. Gen. Meng's camp is offered by men chosen for their special fitness for the place and the camp will soon be made one of the flourishing ones of the coast.

Jan. 4th, upon invitation, the colonel of this Division installed officers elect of General E. D. Baker camp, Oregon City. It is a uniformed camp and Division Chaplain W. E. Johnson has been chosen captain, to succeed E. S. Callif. The installation was witnessed by a number of the Post, and passed off very pleasantly. Inspiring speeches were made and the installing officers were hospitably entertained by post captain C. A. Hermann, of the Railway Postal service.

Emmett Clark of Puget Sound Naval station has begun publication of the "Sons of Veterans" devoted to the interests of the order whose name it bears.

All camps in Oregon report substantial growth in the past quarter but one. Reports are now due and should be sent in at once.

Send in items for this department and try the DAILY JOURNAL a month for 25 cts.

Owing to the kindly interest of Division Commander Cooper a camp has been organized at McMinnville, Arthur Cooper was chosen captain. The installing officer reports excellent material for a camp. The captain is a well educated young man, patriotic to the backbone. Several G. A. R. men assisted in the work and the organization of the young men of Oregon for this noble order goes bravely forward. Capt. Wilson, of Portland, rendered excellent service on this occasion to Oregon division.

CAMPFIRE ITEMS. Sargeant Campbell, of The Dalles, G. A. R. Post, will lecture Saturday night on the battles of the war of the rebellion 1860-65. His descriptions are illustrated by a large sized stereopticon and has drawn large houses wherever he has been. Comrade Campbell was in the war five years and knows just what he is talking about. He deserves the hearty support of all who want to be posted by a man "who was in it."

Sumpter camp No. 8, Sons of Veterans, last evening installed the following officers: Fred M. Rowley, captain; Howard Tuttle, first lieutenant; Frank Gard, second lieutenant. The camp has a fine staff and being at Division headquarters for Oregon have a sense of their responsibility. They voted recently to become a cavalry camp, but no steps have been taken in that direction. Captain Rowley is very devoted to the order and makes a good sponsor to Capt. Browne who retired.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL. Local Correspondence from Towns in the Valley.

FROM MARION. Everything is quiet at Marion this week and news is scarce.

Alfred Cook has purchased two lots near the Presbyterian church, of G. W. Epler, and will move his house to town.

Rev. C. R. Scott will preach at the Friends church next Sunday, at 11 a. m. His text will be Gen. 1st chapter and 1st verse.

Jason Pickett made a business trip to Albany, on Tuesday, and to Salem and Portland on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

There will be political speaking at the school house next Saturday evening. Mr. Swanik, a representative of the People's party, is expected.

Ford and Hunter are now running their saw mill full blast. They have a large contract for sawing oak timber for Collins, Vaughn & Co. The latter have taken a contract to furnish a large quantity of timber for the S. P. R. R. company.

A sister of J. L. Farnham, from Tacoma, Wash., arrived here on Monday night's overland, and will visit several days with her brother and family.

White Bros. now occupy the farm recently bought of C. M. Skeels, and are erecting several poultry houses, expecting to invest extensively in the poultry business.

FROM BROOKS. Mr. Hoover is reported as gaining slowly.

Rev. Royal will continue the revival next week.

Elliott Shaw and Guy Looney went to Salem Monday.

Mrs. McClard came down from Chemawa Tuesday.

E. K. Shaw and J. W. Shaw went to Portland this week.

Geo. Sturgis and family dined with Mr. George Massey Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dodge dined with Jas. Fruit one day last week.

Geo. Massey will soon have a new house under course of construction.

The new officers of the Epworth League were installed Sunday evening.

Miss Nancy Bashor of Albany, came town Monday to visit her sister, Mrs. Geo. Massey.

Messrs. Willie Jones, Wm. Collard and Geo. Massey were passengers to Salem Tuesday.

Guy Looney returned home Friday for a two weeks' visit with friends and relatives near Eugene.

Mr. Ira Taylor, a penman of Salem, is in this vicinity for the purpose of organizing a class in penmanship.

Last Friday evening 30 of Mr. and Mrs. Ednot Savage's friends met and gave them a surprise dance. A nice light supper was served at midnight. All present reported an evening very pleasantly spent.

The Epworth League will give a literary entertainment on Wednesday evening, Jan. 24. Everybody cordially invited to attend. No admission will be charged. An oyster supper will be prepared immediately after the program is closed. Come eat, drink and be merry.

On Saturday evening a number of R. v. Royal's friends gave him a surprise in the shape of a "pound party," celebrating his 73rd birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Collard, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. H. Jones, Prof. Myer and wife, Mrs. E. W. Chapman, Roy Sturgis, Mrs. J. J. Bidinger, Masses E. Jones, Nora and Mary Bidinger, Albert and Nellie Hoover.

BANKS AND BANKING. The clearing house of London was the first of its kind, established in 1775.

The Bank of New York and the Bank of Massachusetts were founded in 1784.

The Bank of Venice had its origin in a forced loan by the government from wealthy citizens.

The Bank of England was projected in 1694 to meet the difficulty experienced by William III in raising funds for the French war.

The word bankrupt comes from two Italian words signifying a broken bench. A broken bench implied a money changer without funds; hence the term.

The Bank of Genoa was ruined in the last century by being twice pillaged by a foreign foe; first by the Imperialists in 1746; second by the French army under Massena in 1800.

The British parliament in 1812 passed an act that members of the house of commons becoming bankrupt, and not paying their obligations in full, should vacate their seats.

The National Bank of Austria was founded in 1816 for the purpose of extricating the government from the financial difficulties occasioned by the French wars. It is a monopoly.

The "South sea bubble" began with the establishment of an improvement company in 1710 and exploded in 1720. All the directors' estates to the value of $2,000,000 were seized and sold.

The Bank of England is guarded every night by a company of soldiers from the regular army, to whom an elegant reward and extra pay are furnished. The service is taken in rotation by the regiments quartered at the capital.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

RAILROAD TIES. More car couplers are patented at Washington than any other line of devices.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, at their recent session in Boston, adopted resolutions favoring the abolition of Sunday trains.

MONKEY AND BULLDOG. The Stuntan Found the Canine THH It's Heart Ceased to Beat.

"The most novel fight I ever witnessed," remarked Mr. James Meehan, "was between a bulldog and a monkey down in Cuba. A friend of mine had a bulldog that had licked every canine on the island, and he was very proud of him. A gentleman from South America said that he had a monkey that could whip the bulldog, and the owner of the latter laughed at the idea. After some talk, a wager of $500 was made, and the only advantage that the monkey was to have was that he was to be allowed the privilege of using a baton about the length of a policeman's club, but not so heavy.

"The fight was in a public place, and in a pit that was surrounded by an iron grating. There was a big crowd out to see the fight. Of course everybody thought that the dog would chew up the monkey. After a few minutes, however, the audience was surprised at the sagacity displayed by the monkey. The bulldog would make a rush at the monkey, and the latter would jump aside and allow the bulldog to hit his head against the iron gratings. This was kept up for 20 minutes or more, and then the dog began to get tired. The monkey began to fight. He would let the dog make a rush and then jump on the dog's back and strike him several times with the baton. This was kept up for an hour or more, and finally the dog fell on the floor completely exhausted, and the monkey actually pounded him to death. The monkey would strike the dog several blows and then place his ear to the canine to see if he still breathed.

"Finally the owner of the dog agreed to give up the fight, but the monkey's owner told him that it was too late, as the monkey would not quit until he had killed the dog. This was one of the peculiarities of the monkey. They always kill their victims. The owner of the dog said he did not want his dog killed and insisted on taking the monkey off. While they were talking the monkey belted the dog several times with his baton, placed his ear on the dog, and with a sudden jump leaped on the shoulder of his owner and commenced to use monkey language. The dog was examined and found to be dead. The people applauded the victory of the monkey, and it looked as if the monkey understood it."

The Folly of Fear. A great deal of talent is lost to the world for the want of a little courage. Every day sends to their graves a number of obscure men who have only remained in obscurity because their timidity has prevented them from making a first effort and who, if they could have been induced to begin, would in all probability have gone great lengths in the career of fame. The fact is that to do anything in this world worth doing we must not stand back shivering and thinking of the cold and danger, but jump in and scramble through as well as we can.

It will not do to be perpetually calculating risks and adjusting nice chances. It did very well before the flood, when a man could consult his friends upon an intended publication for 150 years and then live to see its success afterward. But at present a man waits and doubts and consults his brother and his particular friends, till one day he finds he is 60 years of age. Then he has lost so much time in consulting his first cousins and particular friends that he has no more time to follow their advice.—Sidney Smith.

Monotonous. "You look very dull this morning," said the fresh traveler to the conductor on a western train. "What's the matter—sick?"

"No, only bored. Why, man alive, we haven't been held up and robbed for three whole days!"—Life.

Compulsory Affection. Aunt Jemima (visiting)—Well, Tommy, do you love your little baby brother? Tommy—Yesum.

Aunt Jemima—And why do you love little brother, Tommy? Tommy—It hurts less than getting licked.—Chicago Record.

Justly Accused. He—I assure you I would never dare to rob those sweet lips of a kiss. She—You hypocrite! Didn't you attempt it last night? He—Never! Far from intending to rob you of a kiss, I was trying to give you one.—Truth.

Reconciliation. When he begins to say it was his fault, and she begins to declare it was hers, walk softly out of the room. That is the kind of a difference of opinion that leads to an agreement.—Acheson Globe.

The Effect of the Weather. A short time before the eminent Judge Foster's death he went the Oxford circuit in the hottest part of one of the hottest summers that had ever been known. He was then so far advanced in years as to be scarcely able to discharge the important duties of his office, and when the grand jury of Worcester attended for the charge he addressed them as follows:

"Gentlemen, the weather is extremely hot. I am very old, and you are very well acquainted with what is your duty. I have no doubt but you will practice it."—Sala's Journal.
