Of Interest to Athletes.
James R. Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton College, Princeton, N. J., says:
"I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds, rheumatism, etc. Shortly after entering upon my profession, I discovered such a remedy in Alcock's Porous Plasters. I tried other plasters, but found them too harsh and irritating. Alcock's Porous Plasters give almost instantaneous relief, and their strengthening power is remarkable. In case of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In 'sprain,' and 'distance' races and jumping, the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on the muscles affected."

In the House.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Representative Holman today said: "I will not present my Hawaiian resolution, for the members of the foreign committee are acting very fairly trying to solve the problem. One thing is certain. The question of restoring Lillookalani to the throne is for all time abandoned, not only in executive but in congressional circles. It will never be heard of again."
Before the house resolved itself into a committee of the whole for the consideration of the tariff bill, Bouteille made another fruitless attempt to bring forward his Hawaiian resolution. Reading of the tariff bill then began.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15.—At the opening of the senate this morning there was the unusual flood of petitions protesting against the passage of the Wilson tariff bill. After transacting some business of minor importance, the senate went into executive session on Hornblower's nomination.
The ways and means committee completed its amendments, which it will propose to the tariff bill. They do not change its general scope, being all of a minor character.

Not Half Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A table made up from the latest blue books containing a list of persons holding positions in the various departments, shows that Oregon has but 34, and is entitled to 75, while Washington has 23, and is entitled to 83.

Carlisle Wants Relief.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Carlisle has written a letter to Voorhees, in which he makes a statement of the condition of the treasury, and of the necessity for measures for its relief. He says the time of the house has been assigned to the tariff bill until the 20th, last, and for this reason he appeals to the senate to take the initiative in a measure to replenish the treasury. He adds that if prompt action is not taken by congress it will be necessary for him to issue bonds under existing laws.

THE CORBETT MITCHELL MATCH

Associated Press Details of the Fight.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. Jan. 15.—In the preparations for the fistic battle between James Corbett, champion pugilist of the world, and Charles Mitchell the British boxing champion, the question of who will act as referee was settled without a wrangle. Corbett and Mitchell and President Mason of the Duval Athletic Club mutually agreed upon John Kelly of New York, better known as Honest John, which title he gained when he was umpire for the League Baseball Association. Kelly was the official time keeper of the Granite Athletic Club in which Jake Kilrain and Frank Slavin fought for $10,000 and he has been referee of several glove contests.
It has always been the custom for the referee to stand in the ring and separate the contestants when they clinched, which is contrary to the Queensbury rules. In the Corbett and Mitchell contest, according to the articles, the referee will not be allowed in the ring, but will take his position outside the ropes. This will be a great advantage to both of the contestants for in case of a protracted struggle should either clinch or close, the referee will not be on the spot to rush between the tired ### boxers and push them apart, which often was a detriment to the weaker man.

Mitchell, who has been training steadily by spells since the match was arranged, arrived in Jacksonville on December 28. Corbett was also promptly on the ground and began training at Mayport.

In regard to the place for holding the fight, new arrangements have been made. The management will return to its first hobby, and the old building on the fair grounds will be remodelled and enlarged to 250x400 in size and will seat nearly 14,000 spectators.

In the center of the theatre will be a raised platform upon which the men will fight, in size 24x24 feet, and three feet six inches above the floor level. About this on all four sides will be the press tables and desks and the accommodations for the telegraph operators, the whole filling a space eight feet in width.

The arena seats will comprise 24 tiers, commencing even with the level of the boxes and rising gradually upward to a height of 22 feet. The arena on three sides will extend back from the boxes 40 feet, and on the north side 45 feet. There will also be two galleries above the arena, one at each end of the building. The total seating capacity will be divided as follows: Arena 8562, boxes 5033, galleries 1248, total 12,233.

The $20,000 which the Duval club was to put up for the fight was deposited in a Jacksonville bank Saturday. The commander of the state militia has been stirring about considerably but seems to have no authority to interrupt the fight.

Self Praise.

Self praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that ALCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for over thirty years and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them. Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALCOCK'S, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

In Case the Hawaiian Queen is Restored.

THE WITHDRAWN DISPATCHES.
Willis' dispatch of Nov. 16th, withheld by the president in his message of December 18th, was included today. It states that Monday, Nov. 13th, by appointment, the queen, accompanied by the royal chamberlain, called at the legation. No one was present at the interview but Willis and the queen. After a formal greeting, the queen was informed the president of the United States had an important communication to make to her and was asked if she was willing to receive the minister alone. She answered in the affirmative. Willis, continuing, said:

"I then made known to her the president's sincere regret that, through the unauthorized intervention of the United States, she had been obliged to surrender her sovereignty, and that the president hoped, with her consent and her co-operation, the wrong done to her and her people might be redressed. She bowed an acknowledgement. I then said: 'The president expects and believes that when reinstated you will show forgiveness and magnanimity; that you will wish to be queen of all the people, both native and foreign; that you will make haste to secure their love and loyalty; to establish peace, friendship and good government.' She made no reply. After waiting a moment, I continued: 'The president not only tenders you sympathy, but wishes to help you. Before fully making known to you his purposes, I desire to know whether you are willing to answer certain questions, which it is my duty to ask you.'

"She answered, 'I am willing.'
"I then asked her: 'Should you be restored to the throne, would you grant full amnesty, as to life and property, to all those persons who have been or are now in the provisional government, or were instrumental in the overthrow of your government?'"

"She hesitated a moment and then said: 'There are certain laws of my government by which I shall abide. My decision would be as the law directs that such persons should be beheaded and their property confiscated to the government.'

"I then said, repeating her words: 'It is your feeling that these people should be beheaded and their property confiscated?'"

"She replied: 'It is.'

"Inquiring if she fully understood the meaning of what I said to her and her replies, she answered: 'I understand and mean all I said, but I might leave my decision to my ministers.'

"To this I replied: 'Suppose it were necessary to make the decision before you appointed any ministers, and you were asked to issue a royal proclamation of general amnesty, would you do it?'"

"She answered: 'I have no legal right to do that, and I would not do it, these people were the cause of the revolution and the constitution of 1887. There will never be any peace while they are here. They must be sent out of the country or punished and their property confiscated.'

"I then told her I had no further communication to make, and would have none until I heard from my government. I asked her to give me the names of four of her most trusted friends, as I might, in a day or so, consider it my duty to hold a consultation with them in my presence. She named J. O. Carter, John Richardson, Joseph Nawaiha and E. C. McFarlane. I inquired if she had any fears of her safety at her present residence, Washington square. She replied she did have some fears, for while she had trusted friends who guarded her house every night they were armed only with clubs, and stabbily dressed men were often seen prowling about the adjoining premises. I informed her I was authorized by the president to offer her protection, either on one of our warships or at the legation, and desired her to accept the offer at once. She declined, saying she believed it best for her at present to remain at her own residence. I then told her that at any moment, day or night, this offer of our government was open to her. The interview thereupon, after some personal remarks, was brought to a close."

Willis then states he concluded for the present not to hold any consultation with the queen's friends, for he feared her declaration might become public, to her detriment, if not danger, and interrupt the plans of his government. Reviewing the queen's friends, Willis states that Carter and McFarlane are the only two to whom ministerial bureaux could be safely entrusted. Continuing, Willis says:

"I am satisfied there will be a concerted movement, in the event of restoration, for the overthrow of the constitution of 1887, which would mean the absolute dominion of the queen. I need hardly add, in conclusion, that the promptest action is necessary to prevent disastrous consequences. I sent a cipher telegram, asking that Blount's report be withheld for the present and another telegram that the 'views of the first party are so extreme as to require further instructions.'"

DOLE'S REPLY TO WILLIS.

President Dole reviews the political events in Hawaii for a number of years past, and concludes his reply to Minister Willis as follows:
"No man can correctly say that the queen owed her downfall to the interference of the American forces. The revolution was carried through by representatives, now largely reinforced, of the same public sentiment which forced the monarchy to its knees in 1897, suppressed the insurrection of 1880 and which for 20 years has been battling for a representative government in this country. If the American forces had been absent the revolution would have taken place for sufficient cause, for it had nothing to do with their presence. I therefore, in all friendship for the government of the United States, which you represent, and desiring to cherish the good will of the great American people, submit the answer of my government to your proposition, and ask that you will transmit the same to the president of the United States for his consideration. Though the provisional government is far from being a great power, and could not long resist the forces of the United States in a hostile attack, we deem our position to be impregnable under all legal precedents, under the principles of diplomatic intercourse, and in the form of conscience. We have done your government no wrong, no charge of discourtesy is or can be brought against us. Our only issue with your people has been that because we revered its institutions of civil liberty, we have desired to have them extended to our own distracted country, and because we honor its flag and deem that its beneficent and authoritative presence would be for the best interests of all of our people, we have stood ready to add our country as a new star to its glory, and to consummate a union which we believed would be as much for the benefit of your country as ours. If this is an offense, we plead guilty to it."
