INDIAN STYLE.—The Pendleton Tribune says: The funeral of Moses Minthorn, the deceased Indian, took place at the Agency yesterday and was largely attended. Rev. W. E. Potwine, of the Church of the Redeemer, conducting the affair. A number of Indians, together with whites acting as pall bearers. Notwithstanding the education of Mr. Minthorn, and the fact that he had adopted the customs and life of the white man, his Indian friends insisted on a few things being done according to what they considered the right way to bury a brave Indian. He was wrapped in a blanket, placed in his coffin with accoutrements and personal effects, and another blanket wrapped around the whole. A weird dirge was chanted at the grave by all the aborigines in attendance. One of the chiefs delivered a big talk in the Indian tongue, relating the virtues and deeds of valor of deceased.

STREET WORK.—The street work on High street south of the mill race is now finished as far as grading is concerned. The graveling will be done as soon as the creek is lower, when the good people of that section will have as good a piece of street as there is in Salem. The Salem Improvement company is doing the work. The abutting property owners have shown good judgment in having the work done on their own motion, thus getting it just as they want it, and securing the benefit of lower prices than if done through the usual methods.

CRIMINAL.—Chas. Mackey, of Morrow county, was today committed to state's prison, two years, for larceny of a gold ring. A. I. Arnold, sentenced from Linn county last July to serve five years for arson, was today pardoned on petition of the jury convicting.

NOTICE.—The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will serve dinner and supper at their hall on Wednesday, April 4, to all the hungry people who feel disposed to give them their patronage. A good meal and prompt service is guaranteed. Price 25 cts.

A CORRECTION.—Through a misunderstanding on Mrs. Coleman's part, she will not be assisted tonight by Mrs. Willman, who had not definitely promised to play when the programs were printed.

UNITY PROGRAM.—Salem people will be interested to know that Miss Gladys Byrne and Carl Denton will take part in the Unity church program this evening.

GEN. COMPSON ON COXEY.
 The Chief of the Oregon National Guard on the Industrial Army.
 General H. B. Compton, of the Oregon National Guard, is in the city and was asked today as to the Coxeys movement.
 "It is due to hard times and stoppage of improvements all over the country. These times come every ten or twenty years, when a general settling up of accounts takes place as a result of over-speculation and over-production. It would set the men at work in the great undeveloped states of the west, to redeem waste lands. I am in favor of government appropriations to employ this labor at building ditches and reservoirs to redeem the arid lands, rendering them productive, affording new homes for settlers, and the unemployed laborer would soon be earning his own living instead of having to be fed at public expense and kept under by military force. His labor in improving these lands would soon make vast tracts of worthless regions very valuable for agriculture, and would repay the government ten-fold for all the money expended upon them, and the very men who are now a menace to our government would settle and make homes where now there is nothing but wild tracts covered with sage-brush." The General seemed very confident of the correctness of his position.

A Successful Artist.
 Miss Ella Arbogast demonstrated beyond a doubt at her benefit concert in the capital city Saturday evening that she is a successful musical artist and has a great future as an entertaining vocalist if she continues to pursue her career so well begun. In her singing, she relies entirely upon her natural gifts and a powerful voice, carrying high notes with ease and skill of delivery. A home entertainment has many disadvantages, but Miss Arbogast is not easily discouraged. Her personal appearance was, of course, the subject of much favorable comment, and it is not saying too much to assert that Salem and Oregon may well feel proud of this young woman, who proposes to devote her life to surmounting the difficulties of the histrionic stage. Her first public appearance in the role of concert work, with a brief training of only six months behind her, is very gratifying to all her friends, and significant of great success. The public at Salem will feel a growing interest in her progress as a prima donna.

Supreme Court.
 Following decisions were handed down today:
 State vs. John Hanson, appeal from Clatsop county, re-hearing denied.
 State vs. Linn county, affirmed.
 Avery et al vs. B. R. Job et al, appeal from Benton, affirmed.
 Wade & Co. vs. Creighton & Quivey, appeal from Benton, affirmed.
 Babbidge vs City of Astoria, reversed.
 Street assessment ordinance held invalid.
 A. C. Hanna and Wilhelmina Hanna vs. Wm. and Agnes Oity, appeal from Clackamas, argued and submitted.

Important to Taxpayers.
 Taxes became delinquent April 1st, but Sheriff Knight is not enforcing the penalty for delinquency. Under the present law the county court has no authority to extend the time for payment of taxes, but Sheriff Knight has taken upon himself the responsibility of allowing those who have not yet been able to pay, an opportunity to square themselves without incurring further expenses and liabilities.

The Beezely Estate.
 In the estate of Silas W. Beezely, deceased, F. R. Smith, the administrator, has presented his final account and the same will be heard on Monday, May 7th, at 1 p. m. John A. and Mary J. Shaw, as co-executors of the last will and testament of Angus Shaw, deceased, have filed their final account with the county court and Judge Hubbard has set the 5th day of May as the time for hearing the same.

A Night Office.
 The demand for THE DAILY JOURNAL has so increased that it has been found necessary to make arrangements whereby orders and subscriptions can be received after office hours. THE JOURNAL business office closes at 5 p. m., the postoffice closes at 6:30 p. m. Persons who cannot receive their daily before those hours can be accommodated until 10 o'clock p. m. at Bennett's newsstand, next door to the postoffice.

Local Elections.
 At Dallas, in Polk county, councilmen were voted for and the Democrats carried the day. J. D. Smith, F. J. Hayter and J. J. Williams were elected. At Woodburn J. A. Knight was elected recorder, A. Beach marshal, and Messrs. Harper, Spencer, Wright, Tomlinson and Doud will be the councilmen for the ensuing year.
 DELICIOUS ROCK.—Joe Clark, who succeeds Clark & Eppley the Court street grocers, has just received an invoice of Rock Candy Drips, the best syrup made.

PERSONALS.
 John H. Porter, of Stayton, was in town today.
 Gen. W. H. Odell went to Portland this afternoon.

 Ex-Mayor D'Arcy was at Marion today on legal business.
 Dr. Williamson was a passenger for Eugene this morning.
 D. E. Swank and Chas. Miller, two prominent Populists, are in the city today.

The board of managers of the orphan's home meets at the usual time and place Thursday.
 Miss Ella Arbogast is quite ill of neuralgia at her mother's home in the new bank block.
 Paul Oberlein sustained a fall this afternoon while walking home. He cut his head some, but is not seriously hurt.
 Lewis Pettyjohn, who celebrated his golden wedding the other day, was overjoyed at the arrival of a pair of twins two days later at his house.
 M. O. Wilkin, of Corvallis, has been appointed official court stenographer by Judge Fullerton for Benton, Lincoln, Lane and Douglas counties.
 Augustus C. Schwatka, a printer formerly of Salem, but now of San Francisco, has lately been elected president of the typographical union in that city.

J. M. Wallace went to Corvallis today, and will investigate the fruit interests of the agricultural college before returning. He was accompanied as far as Albany by his brother, H. F. Wallace.
LITTLE LOCALS.
 B. E. Critchlow went to Portland on the steamer Elwood this morning, whence he leaves by steamer for Frisco.
 Mrs. Geo. Griswold went down on the Elwood this morning. J. M. Warren has sold out his express business, and will locate in California.
 E. J. McCausland, of the Salem Improvement Co., was at Silverton today.
 Tickets will be on sale at Patton Bros., at 10 a. m. Wednesday to the Ovide Musin concert. Geo. W. Davis returned from Portland last night. Mrs. J. W. Cook, of Portland, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. J. F. Miller. Rev. Geo. W. Grannis was at Portland yesterday. F. Van Wassenhoven, of Champeog, was in the city yesterday. Miss Lella Waters leaves this evening for a visit in San Francisco and Southern California.
 St. Joseph's society of the Catholic church in this city had an election and installation of officers last night. A. Hucklestein was elected president, F. J. Fagan vice president, F. Barr recording secretary, Rev. J. S. White treasurer, F. Verhaag marshal, and W. M. Kaiser, N. Haas, and J. Albrecht on the board of directors. This society is in a flourishing condition. The members have a comfortable hall with billiard table and games. F. M. Townsend yesterday disposed of a half-interest in his, the "Club," livery stable to Henry Downing and the new firm is now known as Townsend & Downing. The young ladies of the Independent Evangelical church gave a surprise social, for the benefit of their pastor, Rev. J. Bowser, at the W. C. T. U. hall last evening. A very enjoyable evening was passed, the pupils from the blind school assisting very materially in the rendering of a well prepared program. John A. Shaw returned to Mill City today after spending a few days with his family in Salem. L. V. Ehlen, the Republican candidate for county clerk, is in the city. Bishop C. S. Haman preaches at the C. P. church this evening. A number of delegates to the Prohibition convention are in the city and more coming from every direction. Gus Hoefler, the popular Champeog-Aurora stage line operator, is in the city today. Dr. Wing Lee seems to be a skillful advertiser. Mrs. W. W. Skinner was slightly injured yesterday by a collision with an electric car. City council meets tonight. Beautiful garden weather. Conrad Schaffers and San Anton Schaffers took out their citizen papers today. M. Schrydecker, the landscape artist, went to Portland this afternoon. Ralph Moody was a passenger for Portland on the afternoon train.

EVERYBODY.—Wants a daily paper until after election. ONE CENT DAILY for four months at $1.00.

SONG OF THE WEBFOOT LAND.
 I sing of a land and a golden strand
 That lies on the Pacific shore;
 There tall fir stands in phalanx grand
 Keeping time with the ocean's roar.
 There peaks of snow with lordly brow,
 Watch o'er the valleys wide
 The torrents flow and ice streams plow
 Their way down the mountain side.
 These steep sublime great oaks and pine
 Have graced for years untold.
 The elk and deer roam hither and here
 Fear not the hunter's bold.
 Here big black bear, in peaceful lair
 Cheats lamb, and youthful swine;
 His toothsome fare, sleek cougars share
 And all have a lovely time.
 There many a stream like a happy dream
 Glides down the valley so fair,
 And willowets' gleam in the sunshine gleam
 Makes a crown of jewels rare.
 On her banks we stand, while on either hand
 Are plains and woodland's shade,
 The landscape soannd, says "Here's the land"
 That God's own hand has made.
 To tell the tale of hill and dale
 And stream, all time and space
 Would surely fail, nor words avail,
 That my poor pen could trace
 For field and mine with woods combine
 Is timber, gold and wheat,
 To show in line that Eden divine
 All things on earth complete.
 Here luscious pear, and peach compare
 Their cheeks with the beautiful rose,
 With prunes of blue and silver hue;
 The red apple's glossy, green,
 And cherries fair, with grapes so rare
 The touch and taste invite;
 All that trees bear, "Fruit Palace" there
 Presents a royal sight.
 The air so still, sweet blossoms fill
 With scent from trees and vine
 Till zephyrs trill o'er wooded hill
 With snail of ocean brine,
 Though there's no fear of cyclones here
 Will streve you out the plain
 Should one appear, from far and near
 They'd gather you up again.
 When fall breezes blow, don't look for snow
 With blizzard in its train,
 The Oregon mist, will never desert
 Till summer resumes her reign;
 When the gentle fall drops over all
 A veil of glistening rain;
 Potatoes, not small, and turnip tall,
 Rise up to grow again.
 With sweetest back, they say 'tis a fact,
 Through the mud the granger plods,
 And where there's lack, the grass on his back
 Springs into quite verdant sod;
 His donation claim is a king's domain,
 With gold his purse is filled,
 If 'twill but rain with might and main
 All care in his breast is stilled.
 His spouse so good; a likely brood
 Of "native sons" has reared;
 Would Williamette's food merge Mt. Hood
 No danger need be feared.
 For one and all both large and small
 Would puddle themselves to land
 For between their toes, a touch at a grow,
 Kind nature's "Webfoot" brand.
 Nor is her son, the only one
 To sound fair Oregon's fame,
 For those who come from the rising sun
 Will honor, too, her name,
 Then from 8 o'clock, to the six o'clock
 We will shout on every hand,
 "Hurrah for the Webfoot land!" W. P. E.
 CHENAWA, Or., APR. 2, 1894.

Krug's Partner.
 SEATTLE, April 3.—The trial of Henry Krugman, a wealthy broker, indicted with ex-City Treasurer Adolph Krug, for misappropriating city funds, has begun. As Krug was convicted in the same court a few days ago, it will be difficult to find a jury. It is said that Krugman will go on the stand in his own behalf with a frank statement about all his transactions with the city.

PERTINENT PERSONALS.
 Voorhees was not so fierce for bloodshed during 1890 to 1895.
 Speaking of extravagance in our state government the Oregonian today says of Governor Penney, "he has done nothing to check it." That is simple truth.
