SOME CONGRESSIONAL PREPARATIONS

To Protect the Lawmakers from Coxeyites.

ST. PAUL, April 30.—A conference in session in Minneapolis between Debs and representative commercial bodies of the two cities, looking to a settlement by arbitration of the Great Northern strike. Debs said today: "We expect to win the fight within 48 hours."

ATTACKING THE MILITARY.

At Grand Forks, N. D., a special train bearing four companies of United States troops from Fort Snelling, arrived today. There are 101 men under command of Major J. A. Peters. Several missiles were thrown at the train at St. Cloud, one soldier being hit on the head with a brick, and another in the pit of the stomach with a coupling pin.

A MOB AWAITS THEM.

At Crookston, some one fired a shot at the engineer. The train brought a pile driver and two bridge crews to rebuild the burned bridges west of Minot. As soon as these are replaced it is believed a train will be sent through to the coast.

A special from Hinckley, Minn., junction of the Great Northern and the Eastern Minnesota, says: "A mob of 200 hundred is waiting to prevent any train from going through."

Kelly in Des Moines.

DES MOINES, April 30.—Des Moines is in a state of intense excitement over the arrival of Kelly's industrial army. The men had marched 27 miles last night without food, and were held by the police five miles out of the city in a driving rain storm all day, with no provisions or shelter. When met by the police Kelly was informed he would have to pass on through Des Moines to a deserted stove factory, where ample food and shelter were provided. This Kelly at first flatly refused to do, saying his men must be fed before they marched the additional distance of 1 1/2 miles. He finally consented, however, and the army was kept on the move until the stove factory was reached. A mass meeting of laboring men has been called for tomorrow, committees are soliciting food and money, and threats are made that, unless transportation is secured to Chicago, radical steps will be taken.

Sympathize With Kelley.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 30.—Bumors of a general tie-up of all railroads running into Des Moines, are rife today. The labor leaders said today, if Kelley is not furnished transportation inside of four days, the strike prepared by the leaders of the American Railway Union should be inaugurated.

At Albina, Or.

PORTLAND, April 30.—At a late hour last night the prison-train was moved down to the Albina coal-bunkers, where with the river on one side and a deep lake upon the other, it could be more easily guarded in case of surprise. During the evening all sorts of rumors were rife on the streets, but after midnight everything was quiet, and scarcely a soul was moving on the streets. Up to a late hour this morning the prisoners were sleeping quietly in the cars, and all was quiet around the jails.

U. S. Troops Ready.

PORTLAND, April 30.—Word is received late this afternoon that the steamer Harvest Queen is lying at Vancouver with three hundred U. S. troops on board ready to proceed to Klama at a moment's notice in the event of trouble with the Commonwealers at Puyallup, Wash. A Northern Pacific special is in readiness at Kalama to convey the troops to Puyallup.

PORTLAND, April 30.—Fifty-two leaders of the industrial army were arraigned in the United States court this afternoon, on a charge of contempt.

Hogan's Men Prisoners.

Congress Under Guard.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Evidences of preparation for the Coxeyites were seen about the halls and corridors of congress today. A double force of officers was on duty. Officers were stationed at all the entrances of the capitol. The lobbies were patrolled, also the halls giving ingress to the congressional galleries.

Our Coxey Lords.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—The time of the senate was occupied today in sly colloquies between Hale, Teller and Aldrich, on one side and Harris and Voorhees on the other, upon the question why no better progress is being made with the tariff bill.

"I want to say here" said Voorhees in the most impressive manner, "that in spite of other changes may be made, no matter what may be floating in the air, the income tax will stay with this bill."

The Coxey Commons.

CAMP GEORGE WASHINGTON, BRIGHTWOOD PARK, D. C., April 30.—Although they provided tents in the promised land, the commonwealers did not find it flowing with honey. While General Coxey and Marshal Brown stepped into the hotel, the shabby tents provided for the accommodation of the common leaders and privates swarmed like rats in the commissary wagons. Many were sleeping without blankets.

A RACE TRACK THEIR CAMP GROUND

All Day the Road Was Crowded with People to See the Army.

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 30.

Citizen G. S. Coxey, commander-in-chief of the Good Roads army of the commonweal, standing on his rickety wagon in the center of Brightwood Driving Park, waving aloft his alpine hat to one of the most cosmopolitan and extensive audiences ever gathered in Washington, announced Sunday afternoon that the greatest march of the 19th century had been accomplished. Three hundred and fifty of miserably-dressed, woebegone, grumbling, out-at-the-elbows and run-down-at-the-heel specimens of humanity marched into the park, led by a wheezing apology for a band, pitched tents and stretched themselves in the sun.

GENERAL COXEY INTERVIEWED.

The question which has been most agitated of late was propounded to him by a reporter:

"What do you intend to do when the police prevent you from holding your meeting in the capitol grounds?"

"No one will prevent us," he replied, and then asked: "Does not the constitution guarantee the right to peaceably assemble and petition congress?"

"But there is a police regulation passed by congress, which forbids persons and assemblies on the capitol grounds, and the police will stop your army if it attempts to trespass."

"The constitution was written before any police regulations," replied the general. "If they come in conflict with the constitution they are void. We stand squarely upon the constitution; that is our platform."

"How do you intend to enforce your rights?"

"There is but one way: By an appeal to the courts. We will go before the highest courts in the land, if necessary. In the meanwhile we will wait here in Washington, if it takes all summer. If the courts refuse us our rights, there will be a revolution. I do not advocate a revolution, nor do I desire it, but it will be irresistible, and it will be the greatest revolution of history if the American people are only thoroughly aroused."

The conversation of Coxey was broken into by a trumpet call, which summoned the choir of the army. Following Carl Brown, the choir of a dozen privates in the army came out to the platform. The choir sang in various keys, a key to each individual, a parody of the revival hymn, "Hold the Fort." Across the racetrack in front of the improvised platform the grand stand seats were filled with solid rows of men and women, as on a race day.

Public men are either reformers from principle, or for revenue and political office. Governor Pennoyer clearly belongs to the latter class.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

GOVERNOR PENNOYER'S SPEECH.

The carefully prepared campaign speech of Governor Pennoyer appears in a verbatim report in this issue of THE JOURNAL. It bears the marks of skillful preparation and is undoubtedly the best effort of the governor and his able private secretary, Mr. Munly. These two gentlemen have taken a great deal of their time for which people pay them to construct this great campaign speech, which is to promote their individual political fortunes and will probably take the bulk of the time they remain in the public service to advance their private ends? This speech is not the free thought of frank men, but the cunningly studied-out result of lying awake nights and thinking in daytime to secure popularity and political power. There is no such thing as devotion to political principle or adhesion to a party platform. It is personal politics pure and simple. It is overt Pennoyerism gone to seed.

THE JOURNAL is frank to confess that Governor Pennoyer has been a good governor in some respects. The finances of the state have been safely conducted. No actual outright stealing of state funds has taken place. The governor's management of the state penitentiary has been above reproach. But beyond that very little can be claimed justly to Pennoyer's credit.

It is not our intention here to review those parts of the governor's record open to criticism, and they are perhaps no more vulnerable than some other public officials. With his recreancy to the Democratic party which elected him twice by the aid of Republican votes we have nothing to do. With his attacks on Cleveland, Harvey Scott, Dolph, Hermann et al. we have nothing to do. Those gentlemen will defend themselves.

The governor's exhibit of state and legislative extravagance is not new. He renews his recommendations to the legislature, and of course seeks to show that all he ever said or advocated was wise and right. In theory Pennoyer has been a reformer. In practice he has himself joined in extravagance and taken all that was in sight for himself, as nearly everybody else seems to have done. He says he recommended the abolition of the domestic animal commission for service on which he gets $250 a year for doing nothing. If he had had the Jeffersonian simplicity and Jacksonian honesty to refuse to take this $2000 he draws in 8 years for doing nothing he would be a true reformer. And so with thousands of dollars he draws on other boards and commissions. He clearly does not earn a dollar of this money on the Domestic Animal commission which has nothing to do and never meets. If he were an honest reformer he would not draw this money. One act of returning a dollar, thus dishonestly and illegally squandered by law, would do more for the cause of reform than all his long tirades about economy. The governor says: "Do not do as I do but do as I say," and then he goes on drawing unconstitutional compensation. While revealing in his great wealth rolled up under the lumber and shingle trust, and taking near four thousand dollars a year for about two day's work in the week for the people as governor, when the constitution allows him only $1500 a year for six day's time in the week, he has the cheek to make pleas for the poor. Of course, the world will continue to be full of people who want to be humbugged, and Governor Pennoyer will continue to catch suckers in his peculiar way. As a check upon an extravagant state government he has not been a howling success, to say the least.

The governor says the People's party has no money to spend on speakers, etc. But he is himself spending thousands of dollars on this campaign. He is furnishing his speech stereotyped to hundreds of newspapers, costing him probably not less than $10 for each paper, including express charges. His private secretary, who is on a salary by the taxpayers, has his time largely taken in working the typewriter to push Pennoyer's personal book. He is taking the people's time and the people's money to make himself United States senator and political dictator of Oregon.

An Awful Tragedy. Thousands of lives have been sacrificed; thousands of homes made desolate by the fatal mistake of the "old-school" physicians, still persisted in by some, notwithstanding the light thrown upon the subject by modern research that consumption is incurable. It is not. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs, and any remedy which strikes right at the seat of the complaint must and will cure it. Such a remedy is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a certain specific for all scrofulous complaints. It was never known to fail if given a fair trial and that is why the manufacturers sell it under a positive guarantee that if it does not benefit or cure the money paid for it will be refunded. The only remedy possessed of such remarkable curative properties as to warrant its makers in selling it on trial.
