From the point where the Grand riv er leaves the plateau and plunges into the deep pool below the falls its course for 25 miles is through one of the most remarkable canyons in the world. From the appearance of the sides of this gorge and the zigzag line of the river the indications are that the stream has slow ly forced its way through this rocky chasm, cutting its way back, foot by foot, from the edge of the plateau to the present position of the falls. Recent investigators estimate that a period of 6,000 years was required to form the gorge below Niagara falls, or, in other words, that it has taken that time for the falls to recede from their former position at Queenstown Heights to their present location. If it has taken this length of time for the Niagara falls to make their way back a distance of seven miles by the crosive power of the water acting on a soft shale rock supporting a stratum of limestone, the immensity of time involved by assuming that the

An ingenious woman in Florida has a method of getting a list of names of persons scattered throughout the country, which list is available as a commercial commodity, as advertisers in various lines of trade pay a fair price for addresses by the thousand. The Florida lady sends out letters to prominent newspapers in the north offering to send free of charge, on the receipt of a 2 cent stamp, specimens of southern plants, mosses, etc. The 2 cent stamp pays for her trouble, as she pays only 1 cent for postage on the return package. The list of names she collects grows year by year and has an increasing selling value. Many persons have wondered why this lady was so thoughtful and generous in making the offers which the papers print gratuitously. They will understand it better when they begin to receive circular and letters, not only from the sellers of curios in Florida, but from the retailers of books, patent medicines, hair dyes; etc., from all over the Union .- New York Mail and Express.

France's Army of Good Looking Men. It is stated that every year the conceils de revision examine from 850,000 to 370,000 young men. Of these, 32,000 are exempted as unfit for any kind of duty, 38,000 are classed in the auxiliary departments owing to defects which render them unfit to serve in the different regiments, while upward of 65,000 are sent home to await a fresh examination. The men who are accepted for regimental duty and those who contract voluntary engagements in France amount to from 210,000 to 220,000 per annum. It may be quoted, by the way, that "extreme ugliness" is on the list of the various defects and infirmities disqualifying men for military service, among which also figure short sight, stammering, slight lameness and an
