DR. APPLEWHITE'S CRIME.

CORVALLIS, May 12.—Dr. J. M. Applewhite, an Agricultural College regent, and well-known man throughout the state, recently indicted by the grand jury, charged with adultery with Mrs. Lucinda Kenyon, wife of Charles Kenyon, which case is now in the supreme court for its ruling on demurrer, is a fugitive from justice, for attempting to take the life of Charles Kenyon. On yesterday, while Kenyon was in town attending to his usual business, he received a very threatening letter from Applewhite, and upon the advice of his friends armed himself before leaving town with his wife late in the afternoon. Mr. Kenyon and his wife drove in their farm wagon toward home, and Mr. Kenyon alighted at a farm gate, about half a mile from his home to open it, leaving his wife in the wagon. Before he opened the gate, however, Applewhite, who had secreted himself thereabouts, knowing they would come that way, sprang out from behind a tree and said to Kenyon: "Now, you g—d—s—I have got you," and opened fire upon him, firing as rapidly as he could, Applewhite's right hand being already crippled.

Meanwhile Kenyon hurried to his wagon where he had left his cartridges and as soon as he could load his pistol returned fire. Some twenty-five shots are said to have been fired. Applewhite finally succeeded in getting to where Mrs. Kenyon was and held her in front of himself as a shield and Kenyon ceased firing. Thereupon Applewhite compelled Mrs. Kenyon to go with him and they left the place rapidly on foot. Mr. Kenyon was shot once in the leg above the knee but not seriously hurt.

The report reached Corvallis at about 8 o'clock and the sheriff and a posse of men immediately started for the scene of battle in search of the fugitives. At midnight news reached town that one trace of them had been found, clothing on a wire fence, where they had climbed over, and it was thought that they were within a ten acre tract then surrounded.

Sheriff D. A. Osborn is now on the ground with a large party of deputies and the wire has been liberally used to points throughout the valley to be d Applewhite and Mrs. Kenyon. Applewhite is about six feet tall; light complexioned; has a small moustache; will weigh over two hundred; right hand thumb gone.

FINDING THE CORPSE.

J. M. Applewhite and the corpse of Mrs. Kenyon were found at 9 o'clock today. Applewhite says Mrs. Kenyon was accidentally shot by himself, in the fray with her husband at the gate, and he, finding that she would not live, administered poison to end her life. Applewhite has been brought to his home, with a large gash cut in his throat, and also on his wrists. In cutting the artery of his wrist he also cut the tendons which prevented him from doing further violence to himself.

A coroner's inquest will be held this afternoon over the body of Kenyon. Applewhite is under arrest and will live. He seems perfectly rational, but his friends say he is crazy. Mob violence is threatened, but the officers will probably prevent lynch law. The place where the parties were found was a desperate sight. Surgical instruments and physician's medicines were thrown around, and Applewhite was one mass of blood, the stain of the most foul murder known in Benton county.

A TERRIBLE SCENE.

The bodies were found in a brushy ravine half a mile from the scene of the shooting. They lay side by side. The woman was dead from the effects of a twenty grain dose of morphine and Applewhite was suffering from the effects of a dose of the same drug, with two gashes from a pocket knife in his neck and cuts in each wrist. He made an attempt to open his arteries. He was entirely conscious, talked freely and said he had tried to kill Kenyon but meant no harm to the woman. When he found she was shot he administered poison to her and to himself. He attempted to use his revolver when the officers approached, but the cutting of his wrist tendons rendered him powerless.

FURTHER DETAILS.

Dr. J. M. Applewhite is treasurer of the State Agricultural college, a prominent and very active Democrat, a member of the Odd Fellows order and of the M. E. church south. He is not worth very much property, and what real estate he has is in his wife's name. He has two grown children, a son in California and a daughter in Portland; he has besides four children from one to four years of age. He has always been a kind and loving father in his family, a tender husband. Mrs. Applewhite is a very fine woman and is the only party to be pitied. She has only recently condoned and forgiven her husband for his adulterous conduct with Mrs. Kenyon and received him into her home, where he is today being cared for.

MRS. KENYON'S CORPSE

lies at the morgue. She was a fine looking woman with dark hair and eyes and very fair complexion. She was of medium size, finely built and very lively and animated in her young days. She has no children, her husband being simple minded and feeble in other respects. Applewhite was the family physician and undoubtedly took advantage of his position as such to bring about Mrs. Kenyon's ruin.

THE FIRST REPORT.

CORVALLIS, Or., May 12.—A report reached town at 7:30 last night, that Charles Kenyon and his wife had been shot by Dr. J. M. Applewhite, treasurer of the state agricultural college. On complaint of Kenyon, Applewhite and Mrs. Kenyon were arrested recently on a charge of adultery, for which they were indicted by the grand jury and the case is now pending in the supreme court. Mrs. Kenyon turned state evidence before the grand jury and the charge against her was dismissed.

The shooting affair is the outgrowth of the amour and is supposed to have been done in a fit of jealous rage. The tragedy occurred near the Kenyon farm house three miles from town. Kenyon was in town during the afternoon and after receiving a threatening letter through the mail he says that he purchased a revolver and cartridges and started for home. He got out to open the gate when Applewhite stepped from behind a tree and began firing. Mrs. Kenyon who sat on the seat behind him, leaped from the wagon exclaiming "I am shot." She fell but rose again, when she was seized by Applewhite who shielded himself with her person. The affair, after several shots had been fired by both, terminated in the disappearance of Applewhite and the woman. It is not certain that the woman is wounded. Sheriff Osborn with deputies and half a hundred citizens are in pursuit of the pair. Kenyon's wound is not serious.

A Terrible Accident.

BAKER CITY, Or., May 12.—A shocking accident occurred here yesterday, which probably cost Jake Canaday, a carpenter, his life. Preparatory to raising the city flag pole, a thirty-six foot pole, to which the tackle rope was attached, was raised. It was supported by four guys fastened to twelve inch stakes driven in the ground. Canaday climbed to the top of the pole to adjust the blocks for raising another support, tying the end of the rope to his waist. The stake gave way and the pole fell. The unfortunate man was unable to extricate himself and struck on his head, sustaining a compound fracture of the skull and a broken ankle. The other pole struck Chas. Walz, a carpenter, on the shoulder. He was picked up unconscious, but soon rallied, and is not seriously injured.

Small Bank Failure.

TACOMA, May 12.—The State Savings bank of Tacoma suspended this morning. It is a small institution and will not cause much loss, as it is understood they have been doing little business for some time.

The State Savings bank of this city has asked for the appointment of a receiver today. It holds $90,000 of the city's funds. There is a big scandal behind it involving ex-City Treasurer Boggs. The city has $59,981 deposited in the institution. The total deposits are $104,040.99. The total assets are not known accurately, but the officers claim that they greatly exceed the liabilities.

An Outlaw Killed.

PURCELL, I. T. May 12.—From Lexington, across the river, comes the intelligence that on Wednesday James Head, a noted outlaw, whom the law has been looking for, was surrounded in a thicket several miles east of Lexington. As they were searching shots were heard, and the members of the posse hastening in the direction indicated found Head on the ground, and also William Harrison, one of the posse, both shot in two places, and both dead.

After Breckenridge's Scalp.

LEXINGTON, May 12.—William C. Owens, Col. Breckenridge's chief opponent, is to speak in Lexington some day next week and the women of this city have conceived the idea of emphasizing their protest against Breckenridge's candidacy by personally joining in making the meeting a big ovation for Owens. The women are so thoroughly aroused they are withdrawing patronage from merchants favorable to Breckenridge and in several instances family physicians have been dismissed.

Blame the Tariff.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Bradstreet's Review of Trade today says: Warm weather has stimulated farm work as well as sales in reasonable lines of merchandise, but the renewed tariff uncertainty tends to prolong the period during which merchants will continue to buy for actual needs only. Significant evidence of general trade is found in the report of gross railway earnings during April.

Being Hunted Down.

DES MOINES, May 12.—A tramp yesterday entered the house of a widow named Grubbs, living near Maxwell, and assaulted her daughter Stella, aged 13. Over 100 men, with dogs, started in search of the villain.

SILVER AND ENGLAND.

The Lodge amendment to the tariff bill was tabled by a straight party vote. The purpose of that amendment to the Democratic revenue bill was to force Great Britain to a realization of the fact that closing their mints to the coinage of silver was a vicious discrimination against an important product of the United States. Three-fourths of all the silver produced in the whole world is mined in North America and the bulk of it in our country. It is our greatest coin product. It is as important as all but two or three agricultural products. It is far more important because the silver states are not great agricultural or manufacturing states as a rule. It is the policy of England, Germany and India to depress the price of the American silver product.

So long as those governments continue to exclude silver from their mints and insist upon a single gold standard, they will depress the value of our silver, and with it the value of all American export products. That is undoubtedly the purpose of those countries in pursuing their policy of hostility to America's silver product. It has been highly successful, as the price of silver has fallen from $1.06 per ounce in the first year of Harrison's administration to about 59 cents per ounce at present. The hostility of Wall street and the Cleveland administration to silver necessitated the suspension of silver coinage and silver purchases in our country, and by so doing has played right into the hands of the pro-British combine to depress silver and drive it out of their mints.

The Lodge amendment forced recognition of this great fact. The people of the United States will one day understand that those countries have no moral right to expect to trade in our markets upon equal terms with countries that do not exclude silver from their mints. The proposition to enact discriminative duties in return is just one, and in line with the great policy of international reciprocity that was introduced by Blaine for the protection and extension of American commerce. It is by that policy alone that our country can hold her own or achieve predominance in the foreign commerce of the world. The Democratic senators showed their hostility to that doctrine by voting solidly against the amendment.

Democratic uncertainty in political appointments leaves the Democratic party helpless to do political battle. Democratic uncertainty in finance and the tariff leaves it no principles to contend for.
