But, say, he waren't a marker

To our captain's little kid. We was cruisin just off Sandy Hook, A-shootin at a mark, An little Jack stood on the bridge An thought it all a lark. "Stay right up there!" his father said, An knew the little kid Would meet no harm, because he'd do Exact as he was bid.

When, just like that, a shell with fuse Alight came rolling t. An men an boys they skipped one side Just like as they were daft, "Twas just a silly trick o' some Fresh mischief makin mid, But it seemed all dead in earnest to The capitain's I ttle kid.

He gave one hasty look aroun, His lip curled up in scorn, Then swung hi self down on the deck, An true as you were born. He grabbed that burnin fuse in both His little hands, he did, An yanked it out! Say, did we shout Then for the captain's kid?

The captain came, an he was mad: "How dared you disober?"
"Well, pops," the little chap spoke out,
"You see 'twas Just this way!
You wan't here; but, pops, I knew
Just w'at you would 'a' did,
An so I took my chances. Was I right?" The plucky kid!

The captain, w'y, he just broke down.
An fairly ploed his eye
An nodded "Yes;" he was that choked
"Twas all he could reply.
That's why the men all stick to Jack: He touched their hearts, he did, That dago wasn't in it with The captain's little kid!

A Candied Tale.

"Here," said a Lewiston detective, is a queer thing to convict a man of burglary with," and he held up the head of a hammer which he had kept in a drawer in his table It was an ordinary hammer head, only the striking end of it was battered in a strange and peculiar way. One side of it was broken off.

"A break was made in a Lewiston nome during the winter, and besides a small lot of jewelry a bundle of papers was carried away. The papers were of a private nature and such that the owner desired as much to recover them as he did the jewelry. The robber had entered the house through the kitchen and while picking the lock had set a hammer down in a pan of molasses candy that had been put into the back entry to cool during the night. When he took up the hammer, it had left the imprint of its head in the candy. I saved that pan and kept it on ice all summer in an up town icehouse. The next winter I was in a local junk store and found this hammer in the pocket of a coat in the pile of old clothes. I knew it by the head of it to be the one dropped into the candy

"Whom did you buy this of? I asked.

"The dealer happened to remember, and I took the hammer head and went to the man's house. There I found that he had died during the summer, but his widow recognized the hammer. I asked if her husband had left any old letters or papers, and she brought out the lost bundle. She knew nothing about any jewelry, but her husband had left $300. I took the papers to their owner and told him the thief was dead."-Lewiston

The greatest whirlpool is the maelstrom of the Norway coast. It is an eddy between the mainland and an island, and when the current is in one direction and the wind in another no ship can withstand the fury of the waves. Whales and sharks have been cast ashore and killed. The current is estimated to run 30 miles an hour.

The rate of wind varies from five miles an hour-a light breeze-to 80 or 100 miles an hour-a hurricane. From 30 to 40 miles an hour is reckoned a high wind or gale. At 50 miles an hour it is called a storm.
