LITTLE LOCALS. Mrs. R. H. Leabo entertained her Sunday school class of young ladies Saturday afternoon in substantial style. Guy M. Powers has returned to Salem, as the steamer Elwood, for which boat he acted as agent at Portland, has tied up for the season. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson have gone on a trip to the Midwinter fair, and to visit other California points. John Irwin was down from Scotts Mills Saturday, and he says it wasn't for a few growlers up there, they wouldn't know there was such a thing as "hard times." Mrs. A. Straug came up from a visit at Portland this morning. A good crowd enjoyed the "day at Morningside" yesterday. Mrs. M. B. Bond, of West Salem, went to Portland today. I. L. Losey went to Gervais today. Mrs. Lee Steiner and baby returned today from a visit with friends at Eugene. H. H. Thompson spent Sunday at Eugene with his better half, returning this afternoon.

TWELFTH STREET.—Not a little objection will be made to the proposed improvement of Twelfth street. The school board will remonstrate, and it is understood that Willamette university, the cannery owners, the woolen mill people, the S. P. R. Co. and several other large holders will go and do likewise. Whether there will be enough to defeat the measure is not known, but the opposition will be strong.

ON TUESDAY NIGHT—May 29th, a complimentary benefit will be tendered Mrs. Frank Cooper, at Reed's opera house, when some of Salem's best and brightest literary and musical talent will contribute to the pleasures of the evening. After the program shall have been rendered, a social dance will be indulged in by those present. The sale of tickets has been very large and an enjoyable time is assured. The following is the program: Overture, Prof. McLyman's orchestra; solo, Master Oake Muellhaupt; recitation, Mrs. N. J. Sairis; solo, Mr. M. D. Fagan; recitation, Miss Mabel Carter; solo, Miss Nellie Carpenter; selection, orchestra; solo, Miss M. Davis; recitation, Miss Marie Vanderhol; solo, Mrs. J. H. Strickler; quartette, Messrs. Kundret, Wenger, Bronson and Epley; selection, orchestra.

BIG PICNIC.—Next Friday the Republican club of Stayton will give a great basket picnic. There will be a rare feast of speeches and good things to eat. Everybody invited with or without baskets.

NOT COMING.—John R. Sovereign, the grand master workman of the Knights of Labor, will not speak here next Tuesday, as advertised, as he was called back East by official duties.

Sand, gravel, lime, cement, in fact everything in the building material line is supplied in the best quality, on the shortest notice and at the lowest price by the Salem Improvement Co. Loss.—On May 13th, a gentleman's cravat pin. The finder will please leave it at this office and receive a reward. 5-21-94. A PRIZE.—You can dress like a prince, by having your laundry work done at the Salem steam laundry. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

SWINGING AROUND THE CIRCLE. The Journal Man and the Other Republican Candidates on Their Travels.

MACLEAY. Here was an immense display of enthusiasm. This is a community of rich farmers, rich farmers, and rich farmer's sons and wives and daughters came out by the hundreds to hear the Republican speakers. In this part of the county there is not over one Populist out of four voters and but few of these are property owners or tax payers. An unusual number of young men were present and they seem to be everywhere enthusiastic loyal Republicans. They are not following in the camp of the soreheads and kickers and politicians for revenue only. At the close of the review of Penney's record Mr. Barkley enthused the crowd so much a pitch that they simultaneously burst into three cheers for the ticket, and then a "What's the matter with Moore?" "He's all right!" and so on with the whole ticket. The meeting lasted three hours and when it broke up there was a season of shaking and congratulations. It was the Republicans are best in Marion county this year they are going to die hard. As the crowds drove away in their wagons cheer after cheer echoed back from the hills until they were out of hearing. "There's life in the old dog, yet," is the title of one of Landseer's paintings and it will prove true of the Republican party in Oregon this year AT SILVERTON.

Republican eloquence at Macleay raised a thunderstorm which began to fairly pour soon after the meeting was called to order at Silverton. Thunder rolled and cracked in good old fashioned eastern style. It cleared their next day just as the mists and fog of Populism will clear away to let in the sunshine of Republican prosperity after the election in June, and still more after the next presidential election.

Silverton has the appearance of considerable thrift and enterprise in spite of hard times. Streets are being graded and a number of new buildings are going up. A man who was at work on the streets said most of the men employed on that improvement were Populists, and that a number of them were ready to march with Coxe's army and tear down the government at Washington if it did not do something. He told me he had lost nearly everything he had in a timber speculation last year, but that recently Governor Penney had bought his logs for a low price and helped him out. He was for Penney for United States senator, and I did not blame him. I did not make inquiries as to whether he ever had any logs or not, but it was evident he had Penney's money. Let nobody think Penney is not rustling for that senatorship. He is buying at cheap prices a great many logs this spring which he will afterwards sell at lumber trust prices. If he don't get his money back out of the United States treasury, he will get it back from the advance on logs under Republican good times. There was the usual three-ring circus of Moores, Barkley and Hofer, with a lot of questions asked about railroad commission, school laws, roads, etc., all of which were answered satisfactorily, and Silverton was bid farewell. The local Republicans are very enthusiastic, and will poll a much larger vote than ever before. The band played well at Silverton.

SCOTT'S MILLS is the beautiful Quaker town, located six miles east of Silverton in the heart of a very rich farming region. Mr. Scott, the original proprietor, now resides at Woodburn. The townsite slopes up from fine large squares, surrounded by level streets on the south-east bank of Butte creek, and was located by the Oregon Land Co., of Salem, which is entitled to great credit for developing this fine part of Marion county and bringing in hundreds of new families. One of the best laid out and graded roads in the county has been built to Scott's Mills, and the county rock crusher is on the ground, ready to go to work to build the first broken rock road towards Salem. If anyone will come here and see the pretty new style church, school house, residences, stores and hotel, he will see why it is only natural that these people should want better roads. John S. Richie, recently of Dickey county, North Dakota, was chairman of the large meeting. Shephard Ong, one of the best music-ed young men in the county, runs the hotel and spread a grand dinner, served by his wife and Miss Ong. Scott's Mills is as full of Republicans as an egg is of meat. The young men here who are not dissipated politically, or otherwise, are Republicans, just as they are in Silverton, Macleay and Salem and all over the county.

The Scott's Mills boys are organizing a baseball club, and will soon be prepared to contest the diamond with other parts of the county. At Macleay the boys have organized a uniformed McKinley league baseball club and will be down to the rally at Salem this week fifty or a hundred strong. There should be delegations in from other precincts and carry home with them the infection of the capital city's Republicanism.

On the canvas this year the county and legislative ticket are all working harmoniously for each other and for the success of the whole ticket. There are good talkers and good singers and good musicians among them. Moores and Waters sing, Ehlen and Graham play the violin, Brown and Calvert play the organ. Barkley can sing, pray, talk or, I was going to say, dance a jig. But at several places in the country where the boys have boxing gloves and know what they are talking about say very few men ever put them on with this fighting Republican that did not come out second best, Barring myself, a better-natured, better-hearted set of men never ate, slept, talked, walked, pulled and ran together.

WOODBURN. Of course an ovation awaited the Republican candidates here. While Woodburn is the battlefield of the county, Woodburn Republicanism is not of the luke warm variety and not easily dismayed. It has a loyal rank and file, loyal leaders, a loyal Republican newspaper run by Day and Anderson and a first class band. It has Republicans who are of the right stuff and metal, who work for their principles whether they are candidates or speech makers or not. Six hundred people filled Davenport's hall almost to its capacity. The women and the young men here as elsewhere are intensely Republican and anti Populist to the core. There was the usual speech making with fun and hilarity as elsewhere. Mrs. Walter Toose sang an original campaign song with fine effect. She is a devoted daughter of Republicanism and THE JOURNAL would like to see her profile stamped on the hearts of every Republican audience in Oregon, enshrined with the memory of her sweet voice. The threatened revolt against Barkley in Woodburn among Republicans did not take place. In fact it went just the other way. The Woodburn meeting demonstrated the high regard in which he is held by all classes of citizens and men of all parties. There is no revolt against Mr. Barkley among Republicans who know the man. Wherever he is heard, his personal abilities as a campaigner are appreciated. Salem Republicans can prepare for a treat when Barkley speaks here next Saturday night. E. HOFER.
