The Mehama Celebration.

There were at least a thousand peo ple at the Mehama celebration where the fine new grove and camp ground on the bank of the roaring Santiam shops, and is getting fairly started was dedicated to the public with a fine program of music, speech and song. It was a beautiful day and the Mehama band and Grand Army post combined carried out the most successful celebration ever held in the county. The grove was fanned by the cool breeze that always blows up the river all day and the dense cool shade was one large family pienie ground with natural bowers and lover's retreats on every

The Mehama house served a grand dinner and fed several hundred people again at midnight during the recess of the ball, given at the hall by the band, The choir and band furnished music at the grounds and made themselves very pleasing to the large audience. The beeswax found in large quantities on Nehalem beach has from time salemites are busy making all arrange- to time for years past attracted the atments for a pleasant outing. The chief tention of the curious and culisted the thing for comfort is to have a supply of inquiry of reientists. The generally accepted theory that in some prehistoric era a vessel, wax laden, went ashore at that place is frequently disturbed by some less probable surmise for a time, and after exciting some speculation and comment drops out of sight. The latest of these comes from Mr. Odlum, who, in connection with the department of archeology of a British Columbia college, is collecting data from which he proposes to show that the Indians of the Pacific coast are descendants of certain Asiatic races. He desires to know whether the wax found at Nehalem is actual beeswax or mineral wax, hoping to forge a missing link in his chain of evidence by means of information upon

> It has been shown by careful scientific analysis that the wax is of mineral origin, but it may be said in this connec-tion that the substance is to all appearance genuine beeswax; that this appearance is corroborated by the faint, subtle odor of beeswax, which lingers that have been from time to time brought up from the beach, and that no one from tasting it could tell that the piece sampled was not identical with that surreptitionsly bitten from the vellow, thread marked ball which was a part of the furnishing of his mother's workbasket in his boyhood. More than this, the wing of a bee has been found imbedded in the wax, furnishing irrefutable evidence of the true nature of the substance.

The Pacific coast Indians may be de scendants of an ancient Asiatic race but it is not likely that any more conclusive proof of this will ever be devel oped by the most painstaking research than that which this little brown bee's wing furnishes of the fact that the Nehalem beeswax is beeswax. How it came there will probably never be known definitely until the secrets of the unremembered ages are rescued from the tomb of time and incorporated in the written history of the days that were, but now are not. Practical people are not looking for an occurrence of this kind; hence they are prepared to accept the evidence of their senses in regard to the nature of this mysterious deposit in the sands of the seashore and to abandon attempts that are more than likely to prove futile to discover how and when the beeswax, fantastically molded and curiously stamped, voyaged thither and was thrown upon the beach.—Portland Oregonian.

WOMEN IN SMOKERS.

A Squabble on In England Over the Desire of Women to Ride In Smoking Cars.

Englishmen and women have been discussing to the extent of column after column the indignant letters in one of the great dailies on a subject which, it is safe to say, will not soon arise on your side of the Atlantic. It is a growing practice of women to ride in the smoking compartments of the railway carriages. All the woman haters have joined the chorns of denunciation of the invasion. They argue that the sign 'Smoking' means for men only, just as her compartments are re women only. This is resented by the new privilege seeking women, some of whom admit frankly that they love tobacco fumes, while others allege the superior germ killing and sanitary advantages of a tobacco laden atmosphere in promiscuous company. The men retort that selfish women go among the smokers because they receive courtesies and attentions which they do not get from their own sex. The squabble is developing a degree of heat and bitterness that is truly alarming.-London Cor. New York Sun.

Sam Jones' Prescription For Billionsness. After the tremendous men's meeting the other night Brother Sam Jones was thoroughly exhausted, and he felt sick. Brother Jones is of a bilious temperament, and his sallow complexion tells plainly that while all is well between Brother Jones and his soul there is war between him and his liver. Brother Jones felt bad at bedtime, and Brother Owens told him: "Go to God with it, brother. He'll straighten you out."

"Take a dose of pills," suggested the reporter. And Brother Jones followed the advice of Owens and the reporter, and as a result when he got up this morning he was all right and much refreshed. He said:

"Prayer was the thing, but I must mimit that the pills did much good, and from now on my prescription for biliousness will be one prayer and three pills before bedtime."—Waco Dispatch in Galveston News.
