In a talk with John G. Wright, proprietor of the Pioneer cash store, and a veteran fruit dealer at Salem the fact leaked out that he is agent for N. W. THE CROWDS FLOCKING TO NEWPORT

Delightful Weather - The Valley People Who Are Here.

NEWPORT, Or., July 20.

EDITOR JOURNAL: For many years I have visited this summer resort, but generally to remain only a few days; this year sickness compelled me to resort to the seaside for health and recuperative properties found only in the strong, bracing sea air, and the longer I remain here the more I am delighted with Newport and its surroundings as a pleasant retreat from the hot and disagreeable weather of the valley.

During our stay here of some fourteen days, with one or two exceptions, the sky has been cloudless, while the sun's rays have only given warmth enough to make out door exercise pleasant and agreeable.

On the south beach, an overcoat could be worn with comfort, though not necessarily required. Newport, with its beautiful bay, possesses in this feature alone great advantage over any other watering place north of San Francisco. Here, at any hour of the day, one may find amusement in sail or row boat riding, while to vary the pleasure fishing in the bay or for deep sea fish can be successfully enjoyed by any one, it requiring no practice or skill.

The other day Mr. Amos Strong of Salem and one or two other gentlemen caught 80 lbs. of flounders in about two hours, one of them weighing 30 lbs. Besides the amusements of the bay, one can find pleasure in rambling among the cottages on Nye Creek, and around over the hills, from any one of which a fine view of the bay and ocean is obtained.

When you add to these attractions the fact that almost every day some coasting steamer crosses the bay and comes to Newport for supplies, often remaining several hours, to say nothing of the coast steamers which ply regularly between San Francisco and Yaquina City always stopping at Newport, one can readily understand the advantage this place possesses over Long Beach or Clatsop where there is nothing else but ocean, ocean, beach, beach, and when one takes his life in his hands if he attempts surf bathing. Speaking of surf bathing I can truthfully say that the beach here has no superior anywhere.

There is no undertow, nor any dead line, no grind as at Clatsop or Long Beach. Bathing can be indulged in by old and young, the bathing grounds being made doubly pleasant by the protection from the winds which the jetty affords. No life has ever been lost in surf bathing at Newport.

Pleasure seekers are beginning to arrive, every boat bringing from 20 to 40. Last Sunday there were five steamers lying at Newport, one of them being the Columbia, the government light house ship. The Oregon Pacific train arrives at Yaquina City at 5 p. m. and passengers reach Newport at 6 p. m. All are delighted with the safe, rapid and pleasant ride over this road, as well as with the obliging conduct of its officers. Many go to their cottages on Nye Creek to remain six or eight weeks, while others occupy rooms in Newport which they have previously engaged.

Board at hotels from $9 to $12 per week, according to accommodations desired. In private families, board can be obtained for $1 per day. But two persons by renting a furnished room, and boarding themselves, may live comfortably and well for from $5.50 to $6 per week.

Dr. Jeffrey and Mr. J. I. Thompson, of Salem, have their families here, and expect to remain some six or eight weeks. The latter occupies a cottage on the hill, with a beautiful view of the bay, though a long and steep hill must be ascended to reach them. Thompson says the exertion of his long required in the ascent, has already enlarged their capacity so that he feels them bulging out from under his armpits, and he thinks before the season is over he will have more lugs than he can find any use for, but believes he can tie them on his back, and hold them in reserve for blowing the fog horn, in case the one near Newport should get out of repair. I have been quietly urging him to purchase a rock cod, flounders and some crabs, but he has objections to all. The flounder, which has its mouth and eyes crosswise with its body; he is afraid to tackle it for fear of becoming cross-eyed, but I think he will eventually be induced to try these fine deep sea fish, as well as the rock cod, rock oysters and clams with which the market abounds.

Mr. Damon and family, our Salem neighbors, arrived on the boat last night. They will remain several weeks. We are looking for several families from the capital city, who have rooms engaged. Last Sunday an excursion brought over 100 passengers from Albany and way points. Some seventy-five of them taking advantage of the fine surf bathing.

I leave Newport with many regrets, but greatly improved in health and strength.

E. M. WAITE.

ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

NEWPORT, July 19.—Via the only railroad in Oregon not effected by the strike, we have been to Newport, the popular Willamette valley resort. We dug clams, bathed in the surf and dug rock oysters etc., which were "out of sight." The Hotel Monterey bustook us out, where Mrs. Fitzpatrick made us perfectly at home at the Monterey, which located as it is, is not surpassed as a coast resort. Everything is quiet and comfortable, and away from the bust and hum of the business world. Bathing, hunting, fishing and the beach are close by. Our time was short but we thoroughly enjoyed our short stay at the Monterey and are going again.

The following guests are here: Attorney J. A. Carson and family, Salem, Eugene Farmer and Ben Piller and family, Albany; M. sees Maggie Knapp, Cole, McKnight and Mr. Cole, Salem; C. E. Thompson and family, Corvallis. The hotels generally, are doing a light business yet.

At the Bay View are registered: Mrs. Cap. Edwards, Mrs. Chas. Wilson, wife of Conductor Wilson, Mr. McDermott, E. R. Clornen and wife, T. F. Cowing, Oregon City; Mrs. La Croix, Sublimity; Con. Sullivan and Chas. Clark.

At the Ocean House we found Judge Fullerton, whose straw hat and linen duster were not in order. Attorneys J. Fred Yates, J. K. Weatherford, of Albany, and W. S. McFadden, of Corvallis, also Geo. Buhl and wife, of Lebanon, on their wedding tour. We congratulated them and they were the usual attractive bride and groom.

A large number of cottages have been taken by parties from all the towns of the valley, among whom we saw: The Misses Flynn, Salem; Oakley Darr, Portland; Rev. E. J. Thompson and family, Corvallis; Judge Hewitt and family, Albany; J. M. Nolan and family, Corvallis; Mrs. M. C. Webster and family, Frank Gilbert, Salem; S. W. Condon and family, Prof. Condon and family, Eugene; Mr. Van Duyn, Portland, and many others.

The Oregon Pacific is bringing in from twenty-five to fifty passengers on each train, and but few are leaving. The surf bathing was never better, three bath houses furnish ample accommodations. The young people find a great deal of amusement on the beach, tripping the light fantastic by the light of a bonfire; it is the latest attraction. The Oregon Pacific's new time card is perfectly satisfactory to pleasure seekers, and Mr. Clark's employes make the patrons of the new road and Newport as comfortable as possible.

We cannot forget Toledo, the appreciation of the JOURNAL, as shown by the list of names added to our subscribers' list, while there. Toledo people know a good thing when they see it, and have got the money to pay for it.
