

CROPS AND WEATHER.

The Oregon-weather Bulletin No. 23, of the Oregon state weather service, for the week ending Monday, August 27th for Western Oregon, as follows:
Weather—The temperature averaged slightly warmer than the normal. There was an excess of precipitation in the Willamette valley and coast sections and a slight deficiency in the southern counties. There was an average of sunshine, except in the coast sections, where dense fogs were frequent.
Crops—The attention of all is being directed to hop picking and to securing the fruit crop. Hop picking was delayed several days by the rains the first of the month. At Lafayette, Yamhill county, picking commenced on the 6th; the crop is reported to be heavy in this section but owing to the reduced compensation for picking necessary labor has not been secured. The crop is being secured in good condition; lice have done some damage in a few yards and mould is reported from a few fields. Farmers have completed thrashing. Grain is being hauled to the warehouses. It is estimated by our correspondent at Carlton that the warehouses of that place will receive only half as much grain as was stored from the crop of 1891. This falling off is due to attention being given to raising of other produce, principally hops, and partly to falling off in yield. The weather was favorable for all crops. Potatoes have been benefited by the rains and pastures have noticeably improved. The curing of prunes will begin this week. The prune crop is not an average except in the southern sections where particular mention is made of the silver and golden varieties. The trees are heavily laden. The plum and prune crops of Clatsop county are medium as to quantity and of good quality. A correspondent from Lane county states that the prune crop is ripening rapidly but will be light. The fruit shipments from Hood river are very large; the quality is excellent. Much fruit is being shipped east to supply the demand for Oregon fruit, which is increasing. The fruit crop is free from codlin moth injuries than it has been for years. The bean and onion crops have proved a success in all sections where they were grown.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have done much to help in its curative power, and they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A TRUST ARGUMENT.

What the state wants is that the prices of the text books to be used in the schools for the coming six years shall be fixed in a competitive contest, in which every school book concern in the country shall have a chance to bid. This is the plan that the law contemplates.

It need not follow that there is to be a change of books. If the present books are good and the prices the lowest, no change need be made. If they are in whole, or in part, inferior, and higher in price, then a whole or a partial change will be true economy, and those who animadvert against it, stand in their own light.—Corvallis Times.

This "Times" does about what most of the trust school text book trust organs do—it argues for a change. What is the use of talking about competition? There is little or no competition in text books. Then the "Times" argues: It does not follow there will be a change. If there is to be no change then what is all this machinery to be set in motion for?

Simply this: To force a change and to fix the present high trust prices upon the necks of the people of Oregon and prevent any possible relief for six years to come.

VILLARD'S PROFITS.

Having wrung three million dollars out of the Northern Pacific in a few years Villard left for Europe. The German government should be asked to surrender that man, who, more than any other individual wrecked magnificent property in the Milwaukee, Wis., federal court Monday Henry Villard's profit of $863,691 in the Manitoba deal was one of the most interesting things disclosed by the report of Master in Chancery Carey in the Oakes investigation. The report shows just how the money was made by the great financier. It states that the amount paid by the provincial government of Manitoba for the road, and expended to complete it after it had passed into the hands of the Northern Pacific & Manitoba Company, was $4,862,571. The master then inquires into the amounts of money received by Mr. Villard on account of the road, and finds that the first item was $4,389,500, which was the proceeds of the first issue of $5,200,000 first mortgage bonds of the Manitoba road, sold at 8 1/2 per cent. The next item was $396,250, received by Mr. Villard upon the sale of the terminal bonds of the company. Added to these, were two items of $532,250, and $323, received by Mr. Villard as subsidies from the province of Manitoba for the construction of the road. These made a total of $5,213,253, and the excess of receipts over the cost of the road amounted to $396,691, which equalled the value of $396,000 of the first mortgage bonds of the Northern Pacific & Manitoba Company turned in by Mr. Villard to the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company to be exchanged for Northern Pacific consols, valuing the bonds at 92 per cent. of their face. Discussing the transaction, Mr. Carey says:

"That these gains were unlawful, does not seem to require much discussion. Mr. Villard was a director of the Northern Pacific, chairman of its board of directors, and under its by-laws, was charged with the selection and appointment of committee for the board and the conduct of the financial affairs of the company. These were positions which required the utmost good faith on his part in the discharge of official duties and in all of his transactions with the company. If he entered upon the construction and acquisitions of the Manitoba roads with the expectation that the Northern Pacific Company would take them off his hands at their cost, he was bound to see to it that such cost was reasonable and not make any profit out of the enterprise, beyond a reasonable compensation for his services. On the other hand, if he undertook their acquisition and construction as an independent enterprise and afterwards sold them to the Northern Pacific, by reason of his official relations with and duties toward that company, he could not make an unreasonable profit."

The master was therefore obliged to find that Mr. Villard had made unlawful gains to the extent of $863,691. The report also found that he owned a one-fifth interest in the Rocky Fork Railway and Coal Trust, which has 100 shares of a par value of $100, but the master says that no unlawful gains were made out of that deal, although he says with regard to Mr. Villard: "Circumstances may point the finger of suspicion toward him, but they fall short of establishing the fact that he made profit out of these transactions."

Amber is the gum of a conifer, but of what species no one knows. It belonged to the first period of vegetation of the earth. No one knows in what climate these trees grew, and no fossil traces of them are left for the geologist. It is not improbable that they produced amber and were stately trees millions of years ago. Dr. R. Klebs of Konigsberg, the highest authority on this subject in the world, says there are 2,000 different varieties of insects found imprisoned in amber, and this gives us a pretty correct idea of the fauna in the remote age in which they lived. They give us besides evidences of that period of which we have no other trace. It is very interesting to compare these insects with those now existing, as the common fly, for example. Others, again, are entirely different, showing extinct species. Dr. Klebs's theory is that the amber was carried to East Prussia during the glacial epoch and imbedded in the pine earth where it is found. This pine earth is a very heavy clay, and the strata vary in thickness from 8 to 27 feet. Dr. Klebs considers that this imbedding process occurred in what geologists term the tertiary period.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Use Water in Carnival Time.

During carnival time in some parts of South America there is a general revolt against nature in withholding rain the greater part of the year. Water is showered from the balconies and house tops with wanton extravagance, and all classes joining in the frolic. I was in Lima during one of these periods of justification and found that there was not a street where one could be secure from these watery attacks. In all parts of the town passersby were treated to a shower bath, and toward evening the sport increased in intensity, every successful delivery of dipper or bucket being greeted with shouts of laughter. All classes met with the same reception. Roughly dressed men sauntering along the street would on meeting a richly dressed lady dash a cup of water, which they held concealed behind their backs, straight in the lady's face. The ladies attacked in this way would merely smile grimly and pass on. I saw hundreds of men and women showered in this way, but in no instance were the least signs of resentment or anger displayed.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Exercise.

One reason for the fact that the general health of the community is growing better every year is that more people take regular exercise. Exercise, however, has its difficulties. If indulged in a little too long, or so violently as to make one liable to take cold, it results in stiffness and soreness of the muscles and joints.
Alcock's Porous Plasters are invaluable in such cases. Placed on the back, the chest, on the limb, they afford instant relief and leave the muscle all free from soreness. Some athletes cut them into strips and apply them to parts of the limbs where they could not put a whole Plaster and find that they are a great relief and assistance.
