THE LOCAL RESUME.

A contingent of the Salvation Army has arrived in the city.

A new postoffice named Morrison has been established in Lincoln county.

The educational classes begin their winter work at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening.

Mrs. Dageny, who so narrowly escaped being kicked to death yesterday by a vicious horse in the rear of her husband's saloon is able to be up and around today.

MORE CORDWOOD AFLOAT.—"It never rains but what it pours," and while this is not literally true of Oregon, it seems to be in the case of Ridell & Moffatt who yesterday evening lost another raft of cord wood. As this is the second raft so lost within the week it will be heavily felt by the losers.

AN EPISCOPALIAN HUPPER.—The ladies of the Senior Guild of the Episcopal church held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon and said from routine work, decided on holding in the near future, a supper, the benefits of which will go toward strengthening their work.

B. & L. A. LOANS.—At the meeting of the Salem Building & Loan association held last night three loans were made as follows: $1,041.00 at seventy-eight months' interest in advance; $299 at seventy-nine months; and $215.00 at seventy-seven.

FIRST IN AGE.—Best in work, first in the thoughts of its patrons. What? The Salem steam laundry of course. Why? Because the best of work is done there at reasonable prices and only white people are given employment.

STOCK ATTACHED.—Sheriff Knight went to Woodburn this morning and served a writ of attachment on the firm of Bayne & Linn for a claim of $600 in favor of W. C. Noon Bag Co., of Portland.

Mothers bring your little girls to theader millinery store on Saturday for only trimmed hats at $1.

PERSONALS.

Cooke Patton has returned from Portland.

Chas. Borggraff went to Woodburn today.

W. S. Hart, of Aurora, was in the city today.

C. Marsh left this morning for Drain, to be absent several days.

Sheriff Knight went to Woodburn on this morning's overland train.

Senator Elmer L. Patterson went to Portland this morning on business.

E. C. Herren went up to Linus and Lane counties today on hop business.

J. L. Mitchell returned last evening from a short business trip to Portland.

The board of examiners will probably finish its work this evening.

HARD AT WORK.

The delegates assembled at the Willamette Hotel are evidently not there for fun nor their health, but for good hard, earnest work. They held a most interesting meeting last evening, and today has been occupied largely with clinics. This afternoon the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, and it is supposed that all the delegates have arrived.

CERTIFICATE SEEKERS.

Some five applicants for dental certificates have been making their calls today endeavoring to solve correctly the 300 different questions that need to be answered by the young aspirants. The examination is considered a very fair test of the student's understanding of the work.

The board of examiners will probably finish its work this evening.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Immediately after the roll call, upon official invitation from the superintendents of the penitentiary and insane asylum, those institutions were visited, after election of officers:

President, W. C. Logan, Astoria.

Vice president, J. C. Griffith, Salem, Secretary, J. T. Tate, Portland.

Treasurer, Wm. Kehler, Portland. Two members executive committee, M. Haider, Dallas, and W. A. Moore, Eugene.

The knights of the temple have been too busy so far for any social privileges, but it is understood that a fine banquet will be indulged in on invitation before they leave the city.

THE PLAIN PROOF.

Of Awards to Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder at the Fairs.

An avowed New York competitor, who tries to sell inferior goods by labeling them "absolutely pure," seeks to win the award of highest honors to Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder at the World's Columbian Exposition by denying that such honors were conferred.

The award to Dr. Price's is proved by the official records.

Chief of awards J. S. Browning writes: "The records of this department (agriculture) show that the executive committee on awards officially announced some time ago that an award had been granted the Price Baking Powder Company on the exhibit of baking powder."

The Hon. John Boyd Thacher, chairman of the executive committee on awards, also writes under date of February 14, 1894: "I herewith enclose you an official copy of your award, which in due time will be inscribed in the diploma and forwarded.

Why did the New York competitor not exhibit? Was it because his powder contained ammonia?

The award of Dr. Price's at Chicago was for strength, purity and general excellence.

On similar grounds it received the highest award and Gold Medal at the California Midwinter Fair.

MARRIED.

WALKER-CARTER.—At the M. E. church at Turner, Wednesday, October 3, 1894, Mr. Leonard Walker and Miss Anna Carter, Rev. G. W. Grannis officiating.

SAUVAIN-KAYS.—In East Salem, at the residence of M. V. Kays, at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 3, 1894, Mr. Charles E. Sauvain and Miss Vina Kays, Rev. G. W. Grannis officiating.

STARBUCK-WHITE.—At the home of the bride's mother in Polk County, October 3, 1894, by Rev. W. C. Kantner, D. D., pastor of First Congregational church of this city, Mr. T. E. Starbuck and Miss Lizzie P. White.

EDGAR-SKINNER.—At the residence of Mrs. J. H. White in Polk County October 3, 1894, by Rev. W. C. Kantner, D. D., Mr. J. W. Edgar Jr. and Miss Edna G. Skinner.

As seen in the notice above these two weddings occurred at the same time and place. A large company of friends were present who joined in kind wishes for the happiness and prosperity of the contracting parties.

PROCEEDS OF THE FAIR.

At a meeting of the Methodist Ladies Aid society held yesterday afternoon Mrs. John Hughes was elected president of the society, Mrs. Dargorn secretary and Mrs. A. N. Bush treasurer. The committee in charge of the restaurant during the week of the fair made a report to the effect that after all bills incurred by the society for this work had been paid there remained a balance of $100 or $150.

FREE TRADEMAKERS MAKE MONEY.—The net profit for the fair week will probably be $100. The entire receipts from this restaurant will reach $100. The fair must tomorrow afternoon when the bills will be presented and paid.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

NO. 5.

On the train Sept. 28th. We stayed at Jamestown, N. Dak., the metropolis of the Jim River valley. The state fair was in session. A three thousand town with six thousand people in it is a most uncomfortable place. With two ladies, three children and nine pieces of baggage to care for and eight coming on without even standing room at the hotel, it is aptly described by the title of a book recently published "Hell Up to Date." I stepped in front of a building that I thought was the Fire department. "The Alert" was written on the door. It proved to be a live evening daily newspaper office. The editor was secretary of the state fair. His wife was president of a local entertainment and ball. He offered me a ticket to both places but what we needed was entertainment in the shape of sleeping quarters. A newspaper man is a friend of the police. I handed my card to the first man I met wearing a star and he soon went over to a very nice private house, where we were given splendid beds and old old neighbors, former residents of Waunakee, Wis., Mrs. John McFay and daughter, Mrs. Linda McCullum et al., were accomplished hospitable Dakota women. On the train we met a man by name of W. H. Becker, who had stopped with H. W. Savage on the Cascade road. How the whole world is bound together by acquaintances! We are all one community when we begin to travel.

STRANGE RIGHTS.—In North Dakota we encountered a new race. The broadest short figure of the Russian peasant is a common sight at the little stations. He seems well dressed and well fed, and no doubt prefers North Dakota to Siberia. Along with this immigration has come a political issue in the shape of the Russian cactus or thistle. It was first observed in South Dakota, but now makes its presence felt as an agricultural problem in ten states. In the last congress representatives of these states got a million dollar bill to extirpate the Russian thistle put into the general appropriation bill, but the managers killed it. It is made political capital of here, against the administration, but it is difficult to see how the national government could undertake to clear up vast areas of farming lands of this weed-pest. The state agricultural colleges and experiment stations are issuing bulletins of information, telling the Dakota farmers how to fight the thistle. And that is probably the way the farmer will have to do it. Absence of water and absence of forest are the greatest evils the Dakotas have to contend with. No one pretends that the government can rid us of all the evils and make good all the shortcomings of the different states. This earth would be a first-class stygian indeed instead of a second class pandemonium, if the government could supply all the deficiencies that we encounter.

DAKOTA RIVERS.—Late rains have made several of the larger rivers visible in places. We caught several distinct glimpses of the Jim river, in riding down it about sixty miles to Oakes, where our brother Frank, who has spent two winters in Oregon, met us and took us to his fine large farm in Dickey county. A great many Dakota rivers that appear well on the maps are only a kind of elongated wallow through a swale in the prairie. An occasional puddle of yellow, brown or green water, crusted around the edges with alkali, indicates the existence of the river. Only in times of great flood does a Dakota river get a move on to itself. In North Dakota the county commissioners went out recently to let a bridge contract that had been ordered built and located by the county surveyor last spring. After driving all over the supposed location of the river, they asked a farmer, who headed the petition for the bridge to indicate the course of the stream. Pointing across the country, he said: "The last time it was seen was over in that direction. But I think it has been all plowed up and a crop of millet sown on it." The contract can not be let until the river can be traced down and identified.

The rivers go dry on the last provocation. One prohibition orator has been known to dry up all the streams in a county with a few speeches. Elk river has not been seen for seven years. It is being searched for, but with little hope. A careless muskrat has let the bottom out of more than one Dakota river and its usefulness destroyed. One of the commonest sights is a train of flat tank cars to distribute water to the farmers of a dry country. The cattle are driven up and watered when the rains come in. Coal is burned the year around, and is advertised at many places at $1.75 a ton. It is cheaper than wood if wood were furnished free in the tree. It may be that water will be supplied cheaper by rail than it could be by river.

The possibilities of the railroad have not begun to be reached. If the people ever get the full use of rail transportation and its application to all human needs and human industries, a state of civilization will result that we now little dream of. We are still far from it, however. The people still have a very slight use of their greatest birthright of development.
