DEFENDING THE BOOK TRUST.

Throughout the state the several Committees of One hundred are referring to "the school-book trust." such reference has any possible connection with the American book Co., which is neither a trust nor a combine. Of its own free will it has reduced the prices of school books, and it has no monopoly in text books, but meets fair competition everywhere. It is now supplying our school books and as the books are entirely satisfactory, as cheap, as reliable, and of as good quality as those offered by any competing firm, we are unable to see why the citizens of this state should at this time be bur dened with the enormous expense s change of text-books would entail .-Salem Statesman.

The above statements sound very strange in the face of the printed report of the Portland committee. In the first place that committee showed that the American Book company is a trust composed of such publishers as Appleton & Co., A. S. Barnes & Co., Harper Bros, and a number of other old-time publishing houses that have for years been the fiercest rivals. Now these people have incorporated the American Book company, which the above item says is neither a trust nor a combine. Said company furnishes the books of any of the publishers who belong to it. and it is not natural to presume that these people have thus organizeed and combined their interests in order to voluntarily reduce the price of its books,

The statement that their books are as good or as cheap as any is as false a statement as was ever printed. The Portland committee of One Hundred sword may be piaced with honor in the showed conclusively that the books dominion parliament at Guawa, which furnished Oregon are of inferior quality, and only such as are discarded in all the Eastern states. On top of this it is a well known fact that in Oregon school books bought of this company which is "neither a trust nor a combine," cost just double what better books cost the taxpayers of California.

Evidence was supplied by the Portland committee that this trust used thousands of dollars to bribe school teachers, legislators, and newspaper publishers, in order to force its rotten books upon the people of the state at fancy prices. This may account for the fact that many teachers and editors are now so vigorously protesting against a

American Book company "has no monopoly" is most ridiculous, when it is known that over 80 per cent. of the books used in this state under the iniquitous contract law are supplied by this company. If it has no monoply why is it crying for "no change?" The plain truth is, all the above claims, that it is not a trust, has no monopoly, and that it voluntarily reduces its prices, are flat falsehoods, circulated in the interest of this most merciless combine ever organized to rob the people.

Bob Ingersoll is going for the superintendent of an eastern Reform school, and nere is what he says: "I do not believe that one brute by whipping, beating and lacerating the flesh of another can reform bim. The lash will neither develop the brain nor cultivate the heart. There should be no bruising, no scarring of the body in families, in schools, in reformatories or prisons. A cultivated man doesn't believe in the methods of savagery. Brutality has been tried for thousande of years and through all these years it has been a failure.

Last week a Portland sporteaman fired into a flock of sandbill cranes and when his bird reached the ground Mr. Davis was surprised to find that it had but one leg. The other had been shot off near the joint and completly healed over. More surprised was Mr. Davis last Sunday when he again took his gun and brought down a bird which had undergone precisely the same experience.

The Sward of Wolfe.

Canada is concrutatathing horself upon having secured a relie of the glorious opening page in her history as a Britisl colory-name is the short worn by General Wolfe at the capture of Que bee in 1759. For nearly a century the sword lay a few fast under the ground on the heights of Abraham, where Wolfe fell mortally wounded, and evencally found its way into the kands of a Pronto go. fleina, Major Dunn, who used it in the charge of Palaklava. In as now been purchased in London from Major Dunn's descendants by the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Canadian minister of militia, in his private capacity, together with the medals which Major Duna received for his acrivees in the Crimes and elsewhere It is significant of the change which times have brought in the relations between the French and English on the North American continent that French-Canadian paper such as La Minerve of Montreal are a sting that the English journals are reciprocating with the wish that the sword of the gallant French commander, Monteaim, should now be sought for and placed in the same casket as the sword of General Wolfe to emphasize the union of two races under one flag -London Chroni-

Bright Arctic Nights.

Erroneous opinions are widely entertained concerning the character of the long winter nights of far northern regious. We are apt to think of such nights as being dark, gloomy and de pressing in the extreme. As a matter of fact, they are brightened and made cheerful by brilliant moonlight, by the aurora borealis and by the reflective propfaces.

Attention was recently called to this subject at a meeting of the English Iron and Steel institute, when the ore treasures of Scandinavia were discussed. The objection was raised against that part of the world as a mining country that for six months it was buried in almost continual night.

In reply to this the facts recited above were pointed out, and it was shown that, in consequence of the nocturnal brightness there, the people are able to carry on work throughout the year without interruption.

The absence of direct sunlight proves a less serious hindrance to their activi. erick Warde. ties than is the oppressive heat endured under a perpendicular sun by the inhabitants of the equatorial regions of the globe.

Making Dead Men Breathe.

Many methods of restoring the apparently dead have lately been advocated, but the most original plan is that inaugurated by Dr. de Baun. Dr. de there is no good reason why he should black velvet ribbon. not live, and the medico proceeded to throat. Closing the mouth, he forced ter. air through the tube from a rubber bag, inflating the lungs. He then re-leased the pressure from the mouth and found, as he expected, that the clasticity of the muscles of the chest caused immediate contraction of the lungs. forming a complete respiration. This is said to have been kept up for 45 min ntes, at the end of which time natural respiration was restored, and the life of the child was saved. The success of English melton, cheviot and hunting this experiment induced Dr. do Baun to tweed. make further tests, and he is reported to have discovered that animation may often be restored by th's means within 15 minutes.
