FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1894.

Tacoma had three real congressmen within her limits one day this week, besides as many thousand who would like to be.

A Roseburg husband and wife, Charles and Jane Davis, are suing the P. R. R. for $10,000 damages for hitting Mrs. Davis and child off a train.

Governor Hogg, of Texas, describes doctrines of the Populists as a disorganized mass of moonshiners thrown into the sights of unsuspecting voters by a cunning class of eminental clowns.

A family named Millard leave Joliet, Illinois this week to locate in the neighborhood of Salem. There are thousands more who would no doubt like to move to a better land, and surely Western Oregon is one of the best places on earth.

The London Financial Times attributes the advance in the value of shares of two English iron companies, amounting to 750,000, since the new tariff took effect, to this legislation as its cause. The coal and iron miners of Chairman Wilson's district have been cut twice since he began thus to legislate in the interest of English iron manufacturers.

A party of twenty-two Albany bicyclists, including several ladies, took a run around Albany on their wheels one beautiful moonlight night this week. They started at 8 o'clock and during the two hours taken up in this delightful experience nineteen miles were traversed according to one of the bicyclists. The bicyclists are thinking of repeating this pleasant trip some afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the near future.

The Southern States find much to encourage them in the figures of the completed United States census for 1890. Their per capita wealth increased 40 per cent, between 1880 and 1890, while the per capita wealth of the leading Northern States increased but is per cent. in the same time. The mortgage debt of the South is comparatively light, and hundreds of the town and counties do not owe a dollar. The county debts of Illinois and Kansas exceed those of all the Southern States.

A party of two are talking of going into the raising of coyotes. Coyote scalps are worth $10 a piece. Sheep are worth $10 to $25 and one ewe will raise one and two lambs during a season, whereas a coyote will raise from 6 to 7 pups. Already a couple of parties in this county have an eye to business in this direction and bring in from a dozen to fifteen scalps per year and make a nest lining out of it. Of course it pulls down on the county treasury, but somebody is making money out of it and nobody need kick.

Dallas Transcript.

Portland Telegram: It is a singular coincidence that the two biggest tramp robberies within years should occur at the same time, and yet in 8,000 miles apart. While one gang of robbers out here on the Pacific coast was looting an express car of $60,000, another gang on the Atlantic coast was making a still bigger haul. Of course these could have been no connection between the two robberies, but it does the mouths of our Eastern friends from talking about Western lawlessness. The conditions are the same down there as they are out here.

The virtuous Boston Telegraph thus paints the experiences of a reformer in that cosmopolitan city: "Mr. J. W. Hobart is a citizen of the United States, a taxpayer in the city of Boston, residing in his own house and regarded by his neighbors as a thoroughly respectable man. He saw that a gambling game was being run in Hobart's grocery. He reported the case to the police. He was taken into court, where justice he had in his power, consisting of several dollars in money, a tea service and a gold watch and chain and over the balance was taken from him, and he was not allowed to communicate with any one. The alleged reason of this outrage was that it was necessary to distract him as a witness against the persons charged with gambling. His alleged gamblers were discharged without trial and the name left un-named. Mr. Hobart has in no way complained of Mr. Hobart's loss, as he is so fond of his wife's virtue. According to the law, however, it is so to protect the law, Mr. Hobart offered to prosecute the law if the officers would get the names of a few others who steal, but the other men refused and he was forced up through his bad connection a tree."

Mrs. Gould's Smart Gown.

Mrs. Gould affects Gainsborough tailoring. A good example of a gown after the style of this painter, worn at Dorners' reception, was of vicuna cloth of a delicate shade of orange color.

Round the hem of the skirt was a band of black and gold Italian braid point. The vest was of black silk covered with the lace. A small jacket of the cloth came down to meet a high shaped belt of the lace. The sleeves were large and puffed with lace epaulettes and cuffs.

But pre-eminently smart and recherche are Mrs. Gould's yachting gowns. The harbor of Coos shows many beautiful yachting toilets, but among all the titled dames of fashion none is more tastefully dressed than the hostess of the Atlanta. All her gowns and hat bands are painted or embroidered with the word Atlanta and her monogram and yachting ensign.

Mrs. Gould wears often a very becoming red linen yachting dress over a loose blouse of black satin, embroidered with the Atlanta flag.

Another handsome white linen sailor costume is made with a blue serge collar, with white braid and black sailor knot and waistband.

Still another pretty costume worn is of navy blue serge trimmed with white cloth revers and embroidered with red and gold anchors. The skirt has the same trimming at the edge. The cap and vest are of blue and white stockings.—London Queen.

Some Notable Names.

Cloistered nuns, writes a Paris correspondent, are said to die early, and those active women of the orders of St. Thomas de Villeneuve, St. Vincent de Paul and the Augustine sisters seem to live to great ages. I know a sister of charity who was engaged in the cholera wards of the Hotel d' Dieu in 1852. She refused to retire from active service and has three times volunteered to attend smallpox patients during epidemics. Sister Rosalie, who organized the French military hospital service in the Crimea, lived to a great age. The other day the golden wedding of Sister Delphine with the Order of St. Vincent de Paul was celebrated at Romainville. She was a full year a novice before she took the black veil and has been 50 years a schoolteacher. Sister Delphine was 30 when she determined to take the vows. By the rules of the Order of St. Vincent de Paul the nuns are not allowed to aspire to extraordinary virtue through mortification. Such efforts might feed pride and cause self-righteousness. The teaching is that those who want to be angels before God call them to a higher world are liable to fall lower than ordinary mortals.

Side Laced Gaiters Coming.

Side laced gaits were very popular about 20 years ago. They were neat fitting and always looked well on the foot. The process of lacing was, however, very tedious, and when button shoes were introduced they at once jumped into popular favor because of their ease of adjustment. The indications now are that along with congress the side lace is again coming into favor. The old style, with the lacing running up the center of the inside quarter, will appear in most of the lines, but some of the houses making fine goods are introducing a new out of side lace.
