RIVER NEWS.

The river is still falling but it is to be hoped that there will be a change in the stage of the water soon.
 Steamer Eugene arrived in Salem last night at 8:15 p. m. from Portland and after discharging her freight she proceeded on her way to Dove's landing. After laying there over night she proceeded on to Albany this morning. She returns to Salem late this evening.
 The Hoag arrived at Salem on her trip up the river last night at 7:45 with a good load of freight. After discharging her freight and lying at her dock over night she proceeded on to Bucna Vista this morning, returning this afternoon and will go on to Portland in the morning.

Steamer Altona arrived at 5:15 p. m. Saturday with a large load of freight, after unloading which it was too dark for her to proceed on her way to Independence owing to the low water. She remained at her dock in Salem until 8 o'clock Sunday morning and then went up to Independence, returning this morning and leaving for Portland on time with about thirty passengers. She took on eight tons of freight at Salem and will reach Portland about 3 o'clock this afternoon. When the Altona quit making her trips on the river on the 20th day of July, the river was 2 1/2 feet above low water mark while now it is only 2 1/2 feet above low water, the river being 4 inches lower than in the middle of summer. The regular trips of the Altona now are accounted for in this way. During the extreme low stage of the river in July, the water was confined to one channel and thereby sluiced out a larger and deeper channel which makes navigation on the river easier now, at a lower depth, than during the summer with deeper water. In spite of the rumors that the Altona would withdraw from the river, her managers say that she will run all winter and should the water reach a stage that would make it impossible for her to make her regular trips, another boat will be put on the river in her place. The managers realize the good patronage they have from the people and to hold the same they intend having the Altona make her regular trips.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The County Convention Held in Salem a Great Success.

This convention of enthusiastic young people began Friday afternoon and lasted until late Sunday evening. The full program appeared in these columns, and with a few slight changes was most agreeably carried out. The local clergy, the Y. M. C. A. and kindred organizations rendered valiant assistance, helping not a little in the success of the occasion.
 Sunday evening H. S. Gile, who was Oregon's only delegate to the national convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., at Cleveland, by special request gave a report of that great event. His remarks were full of interest, and he gave a very comprehensive idea of what such a monster convention is, and of the wonderful energy and enthusiasm that is being put into this great Christian work. His remarks were interspersed with songs that were sung at the great convention, which made an agreeable feature.
 The following corps of officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mr. C. E. De Lashmunt of Woodburn, president; Mrs. Day of Woodburn, vice-president; E. M. Bronson of Salem, treasurer; and Miss M. M. Magers of Stayton, secretary.

The following delegates in attendance upon the county Christian Endeavor were Bertha and Jennie Jones, of Gervais; Lulu Edmunds, Irene Townsend; Mrs. Harold, of Rosedale, C. D. Lashmunt, Eugene Moshberger, Zack Riddle, Frank Reeves, May Smith, Lena Seehorn, Mrs. Jones, Fannie Kamp, of Woodburn; D. F. Earburn, F. J. Van Buren, O. C. Darby, of Aumsville, Bertha Savage, Martha Wilson, Mrs. Riley Thomas, W. E. Huntley, Mrs. M. M. Magers, J. E. Barson, E. F. Webb, Stayton; Edward Cox and Maggie Hamner, of Prune Ridge; Orpha Cravitt and Rex Thompson, of Willard; Estelle Woodington, Arvelha Beach, Walter Leonard, Rose Woodruff, Miss Clinton, Grace Sultor, H. Caldwell, Mrs. H. S. Gile, Mrs. Cooley, Nina, Mattie and Elia McNary, Mary Van Wagner, Marie and Jennie Mellette, Sallie and Laura Shaw, W. W. Brooks, Marie Vandorsol, Ella Weller, J. M. Woodruff, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Templeton, E. M. Bronson, Fred Lockley, Jr., and J. W. McCulloch.

A Test Alarm.

This morning before 5 o'clock an alarm of fire was sounded by the fire bell and the department quickly responded, being on the street within 35 seconds after the first tap of the bell. The alarm was sounded by Alderman Duncan, who was desirous of knowing how quickly a morning alarm would be answered. The boys tell it that in his excitement, the alderman rushed up to the hose wagon, and inquired if they had sufficient steam to put out the fire. One fact was brought prominently to the front this morning, and that was that Salem needs a fire alarm system. The apparatus was on the street in double quick time, but was delayed at the corner of State and Com'l for at least two minutes, on account of not knowing the direction of the fire. As it happened, there was no fire, but if there had been, the delay would have been the same. In the early morning, when few people are on the street, the only way the department has, of locating a fire, is by the red light reflected on the sky above, and a four minute delay in some instances would more than cost the amount required for a complete fire alarm system. This a matter that the council would do well to consider, for Salem has too well drilled a fire department to have its efficiency impaired by such a lack.

Why?

Complaints of all kinds, charges against all manner of people, and miscellaneous grumbling against everything are all the time coming to the newspaper office for ventilation. Why should the newspaper be made a cat-paw for everybody's grievances, imaginary or real? All manner of charitable institutions, which pay for every other commodity under the sun, invariably expect the newspaper to serve them "free gratis for nothing." The press as a rule is generous, and probably no class on earth gives as freely for its income and substance as the newspaper fraternity, but to be the only free horse, as it is asked to be on many occasions, grows wearying. Many people consider it smart to hamper a newspaper in every possible way, forgetting that it is the best friend a community has. In the first place, a newspaper conducts a legitimate business, and supports a pay-roll much larger than the average business of a place. Its wage roll contains numerous people, and as a rule all their earnings are spent at home. Next, the live, intelligent newspaper is a constant public benefactor, and is entitled to the help and co-operation of all good citizens rather than indifference or their ill-will. This is not a plea for the JOURNAL, for it considers itself as well treated as any paper on the coast, but is simply a gentle reminder for the thoughtless who are a thorn in the side of enterprise.

BENNETT CAMP.—The Indian war veterans of Bennett camp No. 8 held a meeting late Saturday. On motion a committee consisting of John Minto, J. H. Elgin and Benj. Hayden was appointed to present the claims of the Indian war veterans to congress for adjustment. A committee of three, composed of E. H. Piper, John G. Wright and John Hughes was selected to arrange for a picnic to be held on the day of the annual meeting in June next. Present were E. H. Piper, Wm. Rennie, C. L. Keller, J. H. Wiltchen, A. F. McAtee, Wm. Townsend, F. S. Lull, T. H. Scudder, John Savage, Mr. Thompson, L. N. English, J. C. C. Lewis, Charles Wilkins, F. Van Frank, J. H. Elgin, T. B. Wait, Frank Smith, John G. Wright, Benj. Hayden, and W. A. Denton as sons of veterans.

LARGEST AND BEST.

A Salem Institution, of which the City Can Well Be Proud.

The Capital Printing Company, located at 329 Commercial street, has undoubtedly the largest and best equipment of type and printing machinery that can be found in the state of Oregon, outside of Portland. The Salem office can compare with it in press facilities. In fact, all the other job printing offices in Salem combined, cannot do as much press work in a day as can the Capital Printing Co. It can do any class of work, from a mammoth poster to a visiting card, in the best manner and at the most reasonable rate. It recently bid upon an order for 50,000 letter heads and 300,000 envelopes, and will furnish them at figures that cannot be duplicated elsewhere in the city. The letter heads will be printed from photographs—in sheets of four, and those who have seen the work will testify that it is fully equal to lithography. This class of work has heretofore been sent to the East or to San Francisco, because no Salem office had the facilities to do it at a reasonable figure; but now that we have an establishment here that can handle all such work, it is hoped that our merchants, bankers, and other business men will patronize a Salem industry and keep the money at home. When in need of any kind of printing, call on the Capital Printing Co., 329 Commercial street.

The End.

While the Willamette valley has had a most delightful fall season it would now appear that the end has come. Yesterday was a magnificent autumn day, with an Indian summer effect, and thousands of Salemites enjoyed a pleasant walk or drive in the sunshine, but last evening the wind shifted to the south and this morning the gentle Oregon mist descended. It is really needed, for many farmers have stopped plowing on account of the continued dry. There has not been such pleasant fall weather in this valley since 1890, the year of the Labish wreck, when, it will be remembered, many weeks of clear bright weather were had after October.

A PLEASANT EVENT.—Mrs. Taylor, of the Avenue greenhouses, gave a reception to the public several afternoons the past week, in order to give all an opportunity to see her magnificent display of chrysanthemums in bloom. Hundreds of Salem's best people went out and it is safe to say that none went away disappointed. The newest specimens of this popular flower are there to be seen in all their glory. This "chrysanthemum fair" was a good thing to have in our city, and more such efforts would not come amiss, both for their educating influence and the good name.

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. SPiritualistic Fakir.

Exposed at Portland—Some Prominent Citizens Being Gulled.

The Sunday Sun reports a case in some respects similar to the one lately at Salem. It says a match struck suddenly and without warning in the dark last night was the cause of an astonishing discovery to twenty or thirty persons. The match was lighted in a hall at First and Salmon streets during a seance conducted by a man named Garrison. Before the match was lighted a number of gullible and credulous people, seated in a ring holding each other's hands, were fondly believing that Mr. Garrison was also one of the ring with his hands imprisoned, and thought that the draughts of cold air that swept across their faces and the playing of floating stringed instruments was caused by the presence of supernatural beings.

By the dim light of the match, however, Garrison was discovered capering around inside the circle moving a stick with a fan attached, which undoubtedly was the cause of the cold draught. Garrison made frantic efforts to put out the match by striking it with the fan, but it was too late, and, for the present, his dark circles are over with. The man who lighted the tell-tale match was Mr. J. A. Johnson, of 341 Water street. He went there with the intention of exposing Garrison, and managed it more successfully than he had expected. Afterward the place was lighted, and Mr. Johnson, with two friends who had accompanied him, was ejected from the hall.

This man Garrison has been holding these seances for some time, and, it is stated, has been humbugging a number of intelligent persons who attend his meetings. Among those who attend are Dr. Glendenning, Dr. Dickson, of the East Side, Woodson A. Scoggin, John L. Vestal, and William Beck, formerly of the William Beck Arms Company.

A Case for Charity.

An ex-convict, who has been enjoying his freedom but a few days, was today given five days in the cooler for over-indulgence. Right here would be an opportunity for a good christian person to exercise some practical charity, not by giving the man money, but by affording him what is more needed at this particular time, some friendly advice and assistance in procuring work. It was probably the lack of any society of an elevating character that drove this man to drink, to drive the sorrows of what he considers a cold world from his mind. A little kind human sympathy extended in the right manner just at this particular time of his life would save that man from future misery and destruction. That would be practical charity, and would not cost a penny.
