GOOD AND BAD LUCK.

These Influences May Be Determined by the Law of Probabilities.

A great deal of sophistry has been wasted in vain attempts to prove that there is no such thing as luck, good or bad; that nothing happens by chance, all results coming from some definite cause. Even though the latter statement could be proved or should be admitted, it would not preclude the existence of luck to the individual.

That which occurs, favorable or unfavorable to him, from any cause beyond his control, is good luck, and there is no doubt that luck plays some part in the history of every one, but it is of much less importance than the idle or indifferent suppose. The individual may or may not take advantage of the fortuitous circumstances or luck which he meets. That depends on himself, his abilities, his industry, his boldness, his character, a thousand qualities of mind or person. Moreover, as one cannot control luck, the important thing in life is to prepare oneself to meet it and turn it to some account. Those who lay too much stress upon luck seldom deserve good fortune. They are indolent, without enterprise or zeal, and spend their time in complaining of their own hard luck or in envious consideration of the good luck of others.

Lowell in one of his essays says that "luck may and often does have some share in ephemeral successes, as in a gambler's winnings, spent as soon as got, but not in any lasting triumph over time." It is of course conceivable that an ephemeral success, arising from luck, may lay the foundation for lasting success due to hard labor and deserving, but the rule is that unearned advantages cannot be held; the winner is not fitted by training and habits to hold fast to that which he has gained. Cobden pictures the subject truly, so far as young men are concerned, when he says that "luck is ever waiting for something to turn up. Labor, with keen eyes and strong will, will turn up something." The last sentence is one of great significance to the young.

Much that is called luck is not really such, but follows deserving. Real luck is a mere matter of chance, upon which we can no more depend for a living or for advancement than upon the turn of a card. He who would command a good fortune must depend upon his own industry and character. He may meet with hard fortune, it is true, but industry, zeal, honesty, will surely lift him out of it in the long run, and if not his fortune cannot be altogether bad when he retains to the end his honor and independence. The young may properly recognize that there is such a thing as luck, but they should place no dependence on it, but think only of fitting themselves to make good use of it if it should come their way. The chances which may come to every one and which are wholly beyond control are innumerable, but he who speculates upon them will lose as surely as the gambler, or, when he wins, show a gambler's recklessness in getting rid of his winnings.

There is a German proverb that "luck seeks those who flee and flees those who seek it." The wise man will therefore not seek it, but moving through the world as though no such thing existed will depend upon his own intelligence, his own industry, his own good purposes to command fortune. Thus, self-reliant, he will be ready on the instant to take advantage of any fortuitous circumstances to further his designs or be equally ready to avoid or overcome the "hard luck" that would overwhelm one who was not thus fortified.—Baltimore Sun.

THE GREAT ARTISTS.

Valesquez was a self educated painter. His scenes and models were generally taken from peasant life.

Durer was the son of a goldsmith, and showing an appreciation of art was apprenticed to a draftsman.

Pordenone's saints were depicted with so great a display of muscle that it was commonly said all his holy men looked like prizefighters.

Tintoretto's real name was Jacopo Robusti. He was called Tintoretto from being the son of a dyer, the word Tintore having that meaning.

Vecchio's pictures exhibit one female face which recurs from time to time so frequently as to attract attention and excite curiosity. It is the portrait of his daughter.

Romano has the credit of completing a great number of Raphael's works, left unfinished at the death of that master. He was selected for that purpose by Raphael himself.

Cimabue's "Madonna," now in the Church of St. Maria Novella in Florence, when finished, was carried from his house to the church in solemn procession, with bands of music and great pomp.

FAMOUS EXILES.

The Earl of Clarendon wrote his famous historical works while in exile.

All the princes of the Bourbon family have for a long time lived in exile from France.

Buchanan, the Scottish poet, while in exile and prison wrote the famous "Paraphrases of the Psalms."

It is said that at this time there are 22 ex-royalists residing in different parts of Europe, none of them in the countries they once ruled.

A great many of the popes have been forced into exile, generally by enemies among the turbulent Roman populace. A few were restored, but most of them died in exile.

The Emperor Charles V lived in voluntary exile during the last years of his life. His chief occupation in his retirement was devising new viands to tempt his gluttonous appetite.

Ex-Empress Eugenie lives in England as the guest of Queen Victoria, who is her warm personal friend. She often goes to the continent and is said on one or two occasions to have visited Paris incognito.

After the downfall of Napoleon, his mother, Marie Bonaparte, went to Blois and thence to Rome. She returned to France during the hundred days, and after Waterloo went back to Rome, where she died in 1833.

Isabella II of Spain was exiled by her long suffering people in 1870. She has since lived in Italy, and while in no means good repute, with respectable people before she had been much less careful of her conduct, since her enforced retirement from the throne.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Fairly Big Fish.

Paddy has been telling the story of a big pike he caught, too big to get into the boat, so that he had to be towed behind (with the gaff in it, it must be understood). Then followed this dialogue: "What weight, Paddy?" "Divil a know I know, but he was an ogre bast." "Was that the biggest you ever saw, Paddy?" "That a description of the biggest." "What weight, Paddy?" "Borra a bit I know—he was a terror." "How big, Paddy?" "Sure, I can't tell to a fat or two, but a man could walk down his throat." On this incredulity, but Paddy "climbed the matter and silenced all controversy" by adding, "Did his hat on."—Angler's Evenings.

Dangers of Figurative Speaking.

"Mrs. Brigham is a charming woman," said a visitor to Salt Lake City.

"Yes," said her husband enthusiastically. "My wife is one of a thousand."

"Goodness gracious!" exclaimed the astonished visitor. "I didn't suppose you ever went in as steep as that, and I had understood that of late years polygamy had been abolished anyway."—Pittsburgh Journal.

FORCED TO TAKE A TITLE.

Its Acquisition Forbidden by Law.

CONTRARY TO THE CONSTITUTION.

How It Has Been Fastened on a Newspaper.

The Constitution of the United States forbids the acquisition of titles.

In the far west not much respect is paid to titles. Nearly every man is a "Colonel," or an "Honorable."

It is so little thought of that many men prefer to be called plain John Smith, Tilford, Jo Simon.

But titles are sometimes conferred by accident, and become a really good handle to catch hold of. In that case the people catch on and use the handle right freely and properly.

A CURIOUS CASE.

A stack of letters is received at this office in every mail and while many of them are printed in large letters "The One Cent Daily, Salem Oregon," a great many are written and there is a great variety of ways of writing it. Here are some of the forms:

"1 ct. 1., Salem, Or."
"1ct. DAILY, Salem, Or."
"ONE CENT DAILY, Salem, Or."
"THE ONE CENT DAILY JOURNAL, Salem, Or."
"THE GREAT ONE CENT DAILY JOURNAL, Salem, Or."
"THE HONORABLE ONE CENT DAILY JOURNAL, Salem, Or."

That's a queer title for a newspaper to get isn't it? About the last on earth, anyone would think of!

"THE HONORABLE!"

Just think that over, what it means in connection with journalism.

Honorable with itself.
Honorable with the people.
Honorable with its readers.
Honorable in its politics.
Honorable with its contemporaries.

Honorable in all its dealings.
Honorable towards other communities.
Honorable towards every human being.

That's what a newspaper should be.
Perhaps?
Perhaps what?
Perhaps this is all a lie.
Maybe it is.

But the people keep on addressing their letters HON. ONE CENT DAILY, Salem, Or.

In every mail come orders with the money. It is true the amounts are small. But they aggregate enough to pay our paper bills, to pay Mrs. Jones her rent, to pay our employees, to pay the Water Company for power to run our press, to pay the Electric Light Co. for lights in the office, to pay for ink, to pay the cabbage head editor who worries the Statesman and Oregonian so. We don't know what would become of them if we had real live editors like they've got, instead of just a common dutch cabbage head.

But the orders keep coming for THE ONE CENT DAILY.

25 cents in silver for a month.
50 cents in silver for two months.
$1.00 in silver for 121 days. (Do not send stamps.)

We can't stop them sending in the orders.

But we can and do stop THE ONE CENT DAILY when you time is out. No papers sent but what you pay for.
