To give every body a chance to see how they will look in their windows, we will have it in the window the balance of this week. The permanent stock of window shades is only equalled by our new stock, which is quality, quantity, and variety, cannot be equalled. A great many new shades to be seen, including the new lace shades, which will be in great demand, and we will be glad to have our friends call and see them. No trouble to show goods.

BETRAYED TO DEATH.

Anna Peterson of Salem, Victim of Malpractice. Oregonian, Feb. 20. On a marble at the morgue, lies the body of Anna Peterson, an unmarried woman about 22 years of age, and every indication points to the fact that her death is directly attributable to malpractice.

The story of Anna Peterson has been told and retold many times—a woman's confidence and man's perfidy. As near as could be learned last evening, she came to Portland on Thursday of last week, seeking treatment in order to hide her shame, and had some kind of an operation performed. She also sought the services of Dr. Emery H. Amosen, a physician with offices in the A. O. U. W. temple, who directed her to go to the residence of Mrs. Oct. via Gilligan, 235 Jefferson street, corner of Second. He advised her that she would either have to go to a private house to a nurse or to a hospital. On reaching the house of Mrs. Gilligan, the young woman applied for admittance there, and upon the recommendation of Dr. Amosen, was provided with a room.

On first going there, Miss Peterson told Mrs. Gilligan that she was not well, and on the next day confided to the nurse that she was in serious trouble, and that a young man to whom she was engaged to be married, was the cause of it. Her betrayer had fled about four months ago, and had he not, she would not have been left in the way she was, but everything would have been all right. During all the time she remained at the house of Mrs. Gilligan, Miss Peterson was very close mouthed, and it was with difficulty that she could be persuaded to talk of her misfortune. To the very last she refused to reveal the name of the man responsible for her condition, but finally admitted that she had had an abortion performed, but refused to say who did it.

On Saturday she took another short walk, and, returning, wrote a letter to an uncle living in Salem, asking for the loan of some money. She also wrote to a brother-in-law, inclosing a note to her mother telling her that she had found a good place to live until she found work. On Sunday she was feeling so ill that she remained in bed, and the following day suffered greatly, and it was then that Mrs. Gilligan discovered the unmistakable evidence of the sufferer's indiscretion. During all of yesterday the woman was in fearful agony, at times hysterically raving and frothing at the mouth. This continued for some hours, when she quieted down, and once got out of bed, insisting that she would sit up and not take any medicine, as it did her no good. She was persuaded to again lie down, and for a little while conversed with her nurse, but met all attempts to ascertain what had performed the operation upon her with persistent refusal. At about 6 o'clock she gave evident signs of sinking, and half an hour later breathed her last.

A NEW SCHOOL DISTRICT.—Superintendent J. B. Graham, upon the grounds of a petition, has created a new school district in Jefferson precinct, to be known as No. 17, containing about thirty school children. A temporary school clerk has been appointed to serve until the annual school meeting in March. With this new district, Marion county has 110 school districts.

Baby Politics.

TALENTED, Linn Co., Feb. 21, 1896. THE JOURNAL.—A word about numbers. I read in the columns of one of the newspapers a few days ago, to which the editor said that the journal had had enough of baby politics and old women's talk and motions of the legislature. Mr. Editor, I could send almost any two old ladies in the state of Oregon to the legislature, and they would do more for the people in one year than all the baby politics that are done since the legislature met. Why don't they settle on our men. Take a man that has never had his name up, and give him a surprising majority.

John E. Smith, of Hood River, Wagon county, Oregon, a great and good Republican, a man of intelligence and an honor to any state or county.

You Don't Have to Swear Off. THE OREGONIAN.—The Journal of Agriculture is the most valuable paper in Oregon. It is the only paper that gives the farmer all the news that he needs, and it is published in a way that is both interesting and profitable.

CHILD SICKLY.

Strength Is Not Enough for Proper Growth. The Young Body Fails to Grow Well Nourished. Needs Richer Bone and Tissue Forming Food. Body Cannot Grow Without Pure, Sturdy Blood. Unequal Value of Paine's Celery Compound.

From birth till past the age of 30 there is growth; some of the bones do not completely knit till 35.

All this time in addition there is the steady waste of the tissue that must be repaired. The demand upon the vitality and upon the powers of assimilation is thus enormous during these years.

Without plenty of rich, nourishing blood, growth must be defective and tardy. But when it courses through all the arteries in a full, vigorous stream, growth goes on steadily and perfectly.

What countless numbers of frail youngsters physicians see whose pitifully thin and boneless faces cry out for better nourishment. All this does not escape the vigilant insight of parents. In thousands of homes it is well known that the boys and girls are somehow badly nourished.

The weak stomachs and organs of assimilation cannot extract the food for growing nerves and brain in sufficient quantities from the ordinary diet. A special diet is what they need.

Paine's celery compound is Prof. Edward E. Phelps, great preparation for nourishing these little frames and making them grow into strong, active men and women.

Dr. Phelps, upon whom colleges conferred their highest honors for his invaluable investigations in medicine, knew from his experience the exact needs of these little sufferers.

It is valuable in all wasting diseases, in clearing the blood of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, and supplying new and healthy vital fluid—its value can neither be weighed nor measured.

As the great modern nerve and brain strengtheners and restorers, Paine's celery compound is pronounced invaluable by all progressive physicians. Give this grand invigorator a fair trial, and be convinced.
