Paine's Celery Compound Makes Vigorous Nerves.

Else Can Do.

As a spring remedy, Paine's celery compound stands easily first in the careful judgement of the physicians of this country.

This remarkable discovery of Prof. Edward E. Phelphs, M. D. L.L. D., of Dartmouth college, is in fact so certainly first in the estimation of thinking men and women in every calling throughout the United States today that there can fairly be said to be no

For strengthening the sick, restoring the spent enegeries of those who have become nervously exhausted, for purifying the blood and making people well, Paine's celery compound has never yet been approached by any sarsaparilla, tonic or nervine. It is as superior to them all as strength is superior to weakness. The remarkable results weakness. The remarkable results from the use of this great remedy are today known at first hand in every city and village in America

The people are today thoroughly satisfied by personal experience that Paine's celery compound makes people

Where the nerves have not been properly fed and neuralgia, nervousness, inability to sleep, rheumatism, and such evidences of debility have entered, Paine's celery compound has created a new appetite, restored lost strength and given new courses new nd get well. Try it.

THE GAMBLING VICE.

The disposition to gamble is inherent in humanity and crops out in a hundred forms. It is as strong in the civilized man as in the savage, and only zines.

disappears before the highest culture and adherence to the noblest ideals, There has recently been a crusade against gambling in this city that has stimulated this vice, if anything. There have been no forms of gambling suppressed and several new forms have been added-as dealing in wheat options and raffling for bicycles. If crusades against gambling only increase it, what is the remedy? The gambling vice, like any other mmunity to talking about it. As evil communications corrupt good manners, so setting the whole public talking about an evil only increases the capacity for absorption and spreading of that evil. It gets just the recognition it thrives upon. It flourishes by agitation. It is diminished by pushing society along other lines of improvement, in place of pushing everybody right into the fire we seek to quench. Those who would seek to diminish a public evil should not go about it as is said of some Nimrods who hunt ducks with a brass band. They must be wise as serpents but harmless as doves.

An enlightened public sentiment is really only the aggregate of the morals and ideals of the community. What are our ideals of education? What are our ideals of family life, of bringing up our children? Do we teach them in all cases to scorn getting money otherwise than by honest industry? Do we teach our boys that no dollar is theirs which has not been honestly earned by service rendered or for which they have not given full value received? Or do we seek to engender the idea that strength and given new courage, new blood, and a strong, healthy will to live they must in some way learn to make their living by their wits, by sharp practices or by any hook or crook except honest industry? If we can rightly answer and practically apply these inquiries, we would begin to strike at the root of the gambling vice.

Few sadder deaths occur than that of C. T. Williams at his home in East Salem on Thursday, April 25.

He had been employed continuously for more than five years as guard at the main gate at the prison, and on Monday morning, Feb. 18, while whittling It Purifies the Blood as Nothing vice, is stimulated by setting the entire kindling to start a fire, cut his thumb slightly, which, within two days, developed into blood poison and later into erysipelas. In spite of the best of medical skill he grew steadily worse until, after nine weeks of intense suffering, death came to his relief.

Mr. Williams was born in Kentucky on Feb. 14, 1842, and came to Oregon ia 1862. On Oct. 14, 1866, he was married to Miss Jane Daly, a step-daughter of the late Capt. L. N. Englsh, and with the exception of two years spent in San Diego, Cal., and three years in Morrow county, this state, has made Marion county his home.

He was a man of generous impulses, and his popularity among those who knew him best is attested by the fact that during his protracted illness the to have $10, and as the ring was a valfamily was interally overwhelmed with proffered assistance by the entire neighborhood, and especially by his associates among the prison employes.

Vegetarian Buildogs.

Jim Boyes, a San Francisco gentleman who keeps what is known as the list of premiums offered on another Golden Shore butcher shop, has two vegetable eating buildogs, who have managed to live and thrive on potatoes. A fashlon journal free. "The Queen | carrots, turnips, cabbage and other varicties of vegetables, together with a little fruit occasionally by way of dessort. Pavidy, the male deg, 6 years of age, has been living on green goods for about five years, while Nellie, the mate, has eaten the food since her acquaintance with Paddy, which is of about two years' standing. Mr. Boyes recently fed the dogs in the presence of an Examiner reporter. He threw a big Early Rose po tato down the sidewalk, and Paddy When you are visiting your friends reached the prize first, took it in his mouth, bit it in two pieces and dropped t again. Nellie took the largest piece and ate every fragment. Paddy then ook the other half and gulped it down vhole.

"He doesn't care much for potatoes but he will eat them if Nellie does, said Mr. Boyes. "You must not imagine that he broke the potato in two as it was a turnip.

As intimated by Mr. Boyes, Paddy prefers turnips and always peels them himself. Mr. Boyes then threw Paddy a white turnip about the size of his fist The dog caught it in his mouth, rolled it around a few moments, spit out a handful of peel and quietly munched the tender heart with as much relish as Ward McAllister would dissect a tenderloin. His mate used the same care while eating her turnip, but swallowed the potatoes skin and all .- San Francisco Call.

A Ring Puzzle.

In this city recently the possessor of a diamond ring requested a friend to take the ring to a reputable house and borrow $10 upon it. The friend complied and soon returned with the money. The ring was placed in the safe by the man who furnished the cash, there to remain until it should be redeemed. Later on No. 2, who pawned the ring for No. 1, concluded that he would like nable one he returned to the man with the safe and asked for the money, which was readily furnished, the safe man supposing the ring belonged to No. 2, the man who pawned it. Nos. 1 and 2 now had $10 each, provided they had more than 20 years his most intimate not spent it, which is more than likely. Later on it happened that the safe man went home for the night, and his place was taken by another. The second safe man knew nothing about the transactions of the first safe man concerning the diamond ring. When another man (No. 8) presented himself and courteously stated that he had left a ring in the charge of the first safe man and desired to get it, the second safe man, being convinced that the ring belonged to No. 8, handed out the glittering circle of gold without unnecessary delay. No. 8, on obtaining possession of the ring, found that he also needed some money, and at once. He therefore lost no time in putting up the ring at his uncle's The result: The first safe man is out

Ben Wood and Bennett.

Ex-Congressman Ben Wood tells a characteristic anecdate of his first meeting with James Gordon Bennett, the elder.

Mr. Wood took an active part in local politics before he was of age. One day he was traduced, as he thought, by a newspaper reporter, and after the fashion of those days sought personal satisfaction by giving the reporter a physical castigation. Mr. Bennett in The Herald took the matter up and roasted Mr. Wood editorially. The next day the latter went to the editorial office, firmly resolved to beat Mr. Bennett too. He found the editor at his desk, and thrust ing a copy of the morning paper under his nose said:

"I want to know who wrote that article, sir. Mr. Bennott laid down his pen, and looking up at him curiously and benig-19-4w nantly asked:

'Are you Ben Wood?'

"Yes, sir. That is my name." "Well, Wood, how old are you?" "I am nearly 20."

"Indeed," rejoined Mr. Bennett, with the bread Scotch secont. "Well, Mr. Wood, den't you think it a great thing for a man as young as you are to be dignified and advertised by a notice in the editorial page of The Herald? My dear sir, I congratulate you.

Mr. Wood was taken aback with this new view of the thing. The two men had a friendly chat, and the man who come in angry went away in high good autnor and with the editor's blessing. New York Mail and Express.
