PUT TWO AND TWO TOGETHER.

The Schemers to Contract Currency Aply Dissected.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—It would be difficult to think of more appropriate headlines than those you put over the extract from the Oregonian published May 10.

How can the people fail to see, even from the facts published in the gold organs themselves, that there is something wrong with the single gold standard? How long will the Republicans of Oregon kindly allow Harvey Scott to do their thinking for them? The array of facts in the article referred to constitute the strongest kind of a plea against the single gold standard, but Mr. Scott apparently cannot see it. He lays the whole responsibility for the government's financial difficulties to the existence of the legal tender currency. If the "surplus" of that were called in and bonds issued in its place the treasury gold reserve would be impregnable. Is it possible that any man with a set of brains can honestly come to that conclusion? Ought not any man of intelligence to be able to "see a hole in a forty foot ladder?"

If the government is to keep the currency on a gold basis—every dollar as good as every other dollar, and all founded on gold, the only possible way to do this is to keep every dollar interchangeable with gold. No one will dispute that. How else can the government do this but by paying out gold in exchange for every dollar of any other kind of currency that is presented at its counters for redemption. Neither Harvey Scott nor any other gold bug would dare to propose any other kind of currency at par with gold. Very well; as long as there was a dollar of legal tender currency in circulation in the United States, either greenback, silver certificate or any other kind of currency, either national bank note or silver coin itself, that dollar can be used to draw gold out of the treasury in exactly the way. That, in Mr. Scott's opinion, causes all the trouble. The "boomskin" would be ready to the gold gamblers hand until every dollar of legal tender money in circulation in this nation or paid out by this nation was a gold dollar. That is a cold, insurmountable fact that any man can see if he will use ordinary common sense and not allow himself to be led off and confused with side issues that do not bear on the case.

The reasons for this demand for gold and for its shipment to Europe are entirely different considerations. Why do they not go into the causes of the shipment of gold to Europe? Why do they not explain that it is sent because we owe Europe, and if it was not drawn from the banks and would, inevitably, have to leave this country for Europe just the same? Why do they not explain that even, with the balance of trade strongly in our favor, the interest due European holders of our government, state, municipal, railroad, and other bonds, profits on investments of European money in this country, expenses of Americans traveling abroad, freight money paid foreign vessels,—yes and marriage settlements from rich American fools who buy titled sons in-law, all go to make up a great balance against us and the balance must be settled in gold? Is there a school boy who cannot understand that if the final international balances were not against us we would have to ship gold to pay them, and that as long as they are against us we will have to ship gold to pay them? It is but a matter of a very short time, if present conditions hold, when our gold will all have left us, every dollar of it. Then what driving rot it is to talk about stopping the drain of gold by retiring the legal tenders; the "surplus" of them!

Mr. Scott proposes to remedy not one of the causes but merely one of the methods by which the causes work out their effects and, to do even this, he proposes hauling $500,000,000 of bonds which would create an additional demand on the treasury for gold to the amount, per year, of $20,000,000 for interest. To be consistent even with itself the plan must be carried out until there is absolutely nothing but gold in circulation. That is a manifest impossibility, but it is the very thing that the money lenders wish the government to try. Any man ought to be able to see where the money owners' interest lies. Such papers as the Oregonian call us agitators, anarchists and Populists when we venture to suggest that a rich man can be human,—that he would do such a thing as work for his own interests when they would conflict with those of the dear people. Still most people do know that in this age it is every man for himself. We do know that the rich are as selfish and grasping as the poor if not more so; we do know that the Rothschilds and a few others own a greater share of the money and debts of the world; we do know that contraction of the volume of money lowers all prices and makes a gold dollar or a bond for gold dollars worth more and more in exact proportion to the contraction; we do know that the money lenders and their henchmen are no standing shoulder to shoulder using all their mighty power to defend the single gold standard and for further contraction of the circulating medium; then why can we not put two and two together? It is very simple. "X"

ENFORCE THE LAWS.

A Eugene paper well says: "The people up this way who worked to get a fish ladder in the falls at Oregon City, will not be pleased to learn that the work is all undone by straining nets in the river below the falls so it is almost impossible for fish to get over. The law establishing the ladder was not more than half made, or it would prevent this netting of fish." The laws are made for the people. It is the duty of the governor to enforce the laws. It is an outrage on the whole state that the salmon shall not be permitted to ascend the Willamette and its hundreds of tributaries to their natural spawning grounds. Enforce the laws. Drive out the lawless nets at Oregon City.

It is said that the Willamette is full of fish nets at Oregon City, making it well nigh impossible for salmon to get up the river over the new fish ladder. These nets are undoing the good work the ladder has been doing. The ladder was put in to permit the fish to ascend the river to the spawning grounds, and the nets are heading them off. It is too bad that there is no law to reach these net owners.—Portland Sun.

Indiana's Librarian.
Mrs. Emma L. Davidson of Peru has been elected state librarian for Indiana. Miss Nancy Baker of Indianapolis was a close competitor, receiving in the joint Republican caucus 46 of 101 votes. Mrs. Davidson has appointed Miss Fitzgerald of Madison and Miss Lillian Welton of Vincennes as her assistants.

An Odd Death Notice.
The following death announcement appeared the other day in the Frankische Tagespost, Nuremberg: "The life principle of our dear wife and mother ended today in the fifty-fifth year of its existence. The material will be given back to earth in the graveyard on Saturday."

Longevity in England.
No fewer than 196 persons were reported during 1894 in the column of death notices in the London Times as being 90 or over. Their aggregate age was 18,908 years; 89 were men who lived jointly 6,296 years, and 107 were women whose ages amounted to 9,977 years.

THE BUSINESS MAN'S LUNCH.

Hard Work and Indigestion go Hand in Hand.

Concentrated thought, continued in, robs the stomach of its power and this is also true of hard physical labor. When a five horse-power engine is made to do ten horse-power work something is going to break. Very often the hand-to-mouth man coming from the field or the office will "boil" his food in a few minutes which will take hours to digest. Then too, many foods are about as useful in the stomach as a bag of nails would be in a fire under a boiler. The ill-used stomach refuses to do its work without the proper stimulus which it gets from the blood and nerves. The nerves are weak and "ready to break" because they do not get the nourishment they require from the blood, finally the ill-used brain is morbidly wide awake when the overworked man attempts to find rest in bed. The application of common sense in the treatment of the stomach and the whole system brings to the busy man the full enjoyment of life and hearty digestion when he takes Dr. Pierce's Peppermint Cure to relieve a bilious stomach or after a too hearty meal, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify, enrich and stimulate the blood. The blood is the very sugar-coated pills made of highly concentrated vegetable ingredients which relieve the stomach of all offending matters easily and thoroughly. They need only be taken for a short time to cure the biliousness, constipation and indigestion, or torpor of the stomach and bowels, toning up and strengthening them for all time. The whole system feels the effect of the pure blood containing iron, the body and the nerves are vitalized and strengthened, no dizziness, or pain in sleep, as the so-called "sugar-coated pills" and other substances do. They are sold in all drug stores and are not advertised in any of the food they seek for health. If you suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, and any of the ills which come from impure blood and a diseased stomach, you can cure yourself with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which can be obtained at any drug store in the country.
