ALONZO SWARTZ'S TRIAL

Before Judge Burnett of the Circuit Court

FOR MURDERING EDWARD SWARTZ

History of the Case—Proceedings of the Trial.

Friday evening, March 29, Alonzo Swartz, after returning to his home from Salem considerably intoxicated, engaged in a quarrel with his wife and son Edward, who had been to town with him. He threatened to shoot his wife and Edward remarked that if there was going to be murder he would be assisted by his father with a pocket knife and severely cut in the left side of the neck from the ear downward. He struck and stabbed the boy several times until the family separated them.

Friday night Dr. Byrd dressed the wound. Monday following Drs. Byrd, Smith and Morse performed an operation, tying a severed artery. Friday, April 18, he was brought from the farm to Salem and sent to a hospital at Portland in charge of Dr. J. N. Smith, where better treatment could be afforded him. He was placed under the influence of chloroform and ether and after the operation lay in a comatose condition for several days, when he died.

Saturday, April 18, Alonzo Swartz was brought before Justice Johnson of Salem, charged with an assault with a dangerous weapon upon his son Edward, committed Friday night, April 12, at the family home, four miles east of Salem. He was bound over for assault under $1000 bond. Edward Swartz was not considered fatally hurt, Dr. Byrd and Smith having dressed his wounds April 18. Slight hemorrhages continued, hindering the wound from healing over, and the doctors talked of the necessity of taking him to Portland next day.

Edward Swartz died at St. Vincent's hospital, Portland, Sunday evening, April 21. He was taken there to have a second operation performed upon him Friday, April 19, and his death was hastened by the shock, caused by loss of a large amount of blood at this time and previous hemorrhages. A charge of murder was immediately filed by Deputy District Attorney A. O. Condit of Salem.

THE CORONER'S INQUEST over Edward Swartz was held at Portland Monday and Tuesday, finding he came to his death from a knife wound inflicted by the hand of his father, April 21, and on Wednesday his funeral was held from the first Methodist church, the remains being buried in Mission cemetery.

PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION of Alonzo Swartz for the murder of Edward was held before Justice Johnson at Salem Saturday April 27, conducted on the part of the state by A. O. Condit and by Hayden McNary for defense. Drs. Byrd and Smith testified as to wound and treatment. Emma and Walter, younger children of Alonzo Swartz testified substance as given above, as eyewitnesses of the murder. Defense waived examination.

The Swartz murder trial was set for today at 1 o'clock, and defense appeared by Samuel L. Hayden and John H. McNary, assisted by Tilmon Ford. The state is represented by District Attorney McBain, Deputy A. O. Condit, assisted by Wm. Holmes. At request of the state attorneys the case went over to Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

To Play Monmouth.—Last Saturday afternoon the Salem Juniors did not play a game of baseball with the Woodburn boys as was announced in this paper. The boys had intended to go to Monmouth but the weather did not permit them doing so, and consequently there was no game at all. If nothing happens, an interesting game may be looked for at Monmouth, Tuesday afternoon when the Salem Juniors will cross bats with a team from the former city.
