ROSEBERRY HAS QUIT.

Resignation Presented and Salisbury Summoned.

AND HE WILL RESPOND TODAY.

Will Not Take Office Until Parliament Is Dissolved.

LONDON, June 24.—The court circular tonight contains the following: "Earl Roseberry, K. C., first lord of the treasury and lord president of the council, arrived at the castle and tendered his resignation to her majesty, by whom it was accepted."

LONDON, June 24.—It is announced that the outcome of the deliberations of the cabinet, in consequence of the adverse vote in the house of commons Friday, is that Lord Roseberry, the prime minister, has tendered his resignation to the queen. Her majesty has, therefore, summoned Lord Salisbury, the leader of the conservative party, to Windsor, in connection with the formation of a conservative ministry. Lord Salisbury did not receive his summons until too late to go to Windsor tonight. He will go early in the morning.

The leading conservatives declare that the Marquis of Salisbury will not formally take office until parliament is dissolved. He will insist that the government, before yielding the seals, shall pass a vote of an amount necessary for the expenditures for two months, to enable a general election to be held. The conservatives will thus be in a position to attack, instead of defending themselves.

Then last night the situation was a serious topic at the political club. Several members of the cabinet called in Downing street in the afternoon in the expectation of seeing Lord Roseberry, who returned from Windsor about 6 o'clock and drove to Downing street, where an informal cabinet meeting lasting 25 minutes immediately followed.

It is understood the Marquis of Salisbury only agrees to form a cabinet on condition that parliament is dissolved. Nothing is known regarding the personnel of the ministry, but complete harmony exists between the liberal unionists and the conservatives.

The Irish members are extremely uneasy and dissatisfied. They state that after acting for three years as the strongest arm of the government they are deeply concerned at the sudden end of the government without passing any of the principal Irish measures. Not only has home rule not progressed, but the measure concerning the Christian Brothers, the county council bill, which reached a second reading; the grand jury bill and the proposal to extend the power of guardians were all lost. The only Irish measure now likely to be passed is Mr. Healy's municipal franchise bill, which has gone to the house of lords. The liberal Scotch members are also sore, their expectations having been disappointed. James M. Weir, minister for Home and Country, communicated with Lord Roseberry this morning and asked him not to dissolve parliament until the measure extending the benefit of the profits act to highland tenant should have been passed.

Lord Roseberry ran early today and attended St. George's chapel before breakfast. He then strolled through the grounds, alone till 10 o'clock, when he went to Frogmore, where the queen was breakfasting with the Princess Beatrice and the Prince Christian, H: then attended service at Frogmore, mausoleum with the queen and family, after which he had a private audience with the queen. A number of dispatches were received and opened by the queen. Lord Roseberry returned to the castle for luncheon and returned to town in the afternoon. He held a consultation with Mr. Asquith, the home secretary; Lord Tweedmouth, lord of the privy seal, and Arnold Morley, postmaster-general in Downing street, immediately on his return. Later he conferred with Sir William Harcourt, and a bye-line whip was issued calling upon the liberals to be in attendance at the house of commons at 3 o'clock tomorrow, when it is expected Sir William Harcourt will make the official announcement.

The effect of the cabinet discussion is more marked upon the whips and officials than upon the cabinet ministers. Lord Roseberry, on his return to town, looked decidedly sprightly, and Lord Tweedmouth, Mr. Morley and Sir William Harcourt were in a jocular mood.

It is officially announced that the Marquis of Salisbury has accepted the task of forming a new cabinet.

BALFOUR MAY BE CHOSEN. The Marquis of Salisbury conferred, this morning, with Rt. Hon. A. J. Balfour, conservative leader in the house of commons; Duke of Devonshire, unionist leader in the house of lords, and with Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, unionist leader in the house of commons, and proceeded to Windsor, in response to a summons of the queen, following the resignation of the Roseberry ministry. The best-informed agree in the belief that Lord Salisbury will accept the task of forming a cabinet, and the new ministry is to be composed of representatives of both sections of the unionist party.

You take the Daily Silverton stage that leaves the Salem postoffice at 1 p. m. and arrive at the springs for supper, $2.00 takes you through. Some price to return. The above includes a reasonable amount of personal baggage, children from 5 to 10 half fare. Mr. Fisher runs safe backs with good teams and takes you through without much dust or heat. This is the first season that a direct through stage line has been run to Willott Springs and a great many will no doubt want to patronize it.

ON THE ROAD AGAIN.

One of the "Journal" 5000-Mile Men Sees a Creamery.

ON THE ROAD, June 21.—I have just been through a creamery at Albany, and, as many of your readers probably never saw one in operation, I will tell you about it:

The milk is collected from farmers all over a territory 20 miles across, or at least 10 miles in some directions from the creamery, and is brought in the morning by the producers, beginning to arrive usually at 7, and by 9 it is rolling in, seven or eight wagons at a time. It comes in all quantities, from 1 gallon (8 lbs.) to 1500 pounds at a load. Each patron has a number and this is on the book with his name, and also on the jar that receives the samples to be tested. From the weighing can it falls into a large vat made of tin, and this is jacketed with wood, and cold water circulates around the milk all the time. As soon as enough milk arrives the separator is started and the milk is pumped into a little tank above the separator, to fall through a pipe into this machine, and in the twinkling of an eye the cream and milk is separated, the milk goes back to a vat for the patrons and the cream runs over a large cooling trough into the cream vat in another room. The separator is a beauty and takes about 10 minutes to get started, as it runs at such a high speed that everything would be torn up if an attempt was made to start or stop it suddenly. The bowl turns at the rate of 6000 revolutions per minute. To many, that gives but little idea as to the speed, but compare that with the speed of a train. A car wheel is about 3 feet in diameter, or 9 feet around. Six thousand turns would carry it about 1 1/2 miles per minute. Pretty lively, isn't it?

Once each day the big churn is set revolving and the butter is churned. A small steam engine does the work of running all the machinery, including the butter "workers," that travels in a circle and does better work and a great deal faster than our mothers used to do. The churn has a capacity of 600 lbs. of butter at a churning, but 200 or 300 is as much as they make at a time now.

All the arrangements are made to save work as much as possible. The cream seems to run by gravity from the separator to vats and from vats to churn. Every thing can be kept clean and almost at any temperature by water pumped direct from the deep well on the premises and is used freely.

Some of the butter milk is sold for summer drink now and the remainder is used for feeding. This part of the product belongs, or with the butter to the creamery company. It is enough to make one sick to think of the many many places in the favored state, where all the conditions are so favorable for butter production and yet so unclean. It is useless and worse than useless for the wives of farmers to try to make good butter, as it is nowadays to spin and weave our clothing as in grandmother's days.

As to the business of preparation in creameries, Mr. Looney, manager and secretary tells me that even as low as but a few years ago, the milk makes 45 to 46 cents per 100 pounds. E. J. Stanley is the expert butter maker and he reads the JOURNAL ONE CENT DAILY.

At the creamery, I met one of the food supervisors of the district south of Albany who is a wide-awake dairymen and fruit farmer, and has been road supervisor out there eight years. You don't see any of the home food grades in his district and he uses the high places to fill up the hollows and the food is a dairy. He says the horses are as such entitled to a level road as the locomotive, and he proposes to make them as neat that style as possible. He is a German and can't be to drain his land and knows that it don't take a 45 cent cent grade to make water run off the road. I hope Mr. Peters will be continued as supervisor for eight years more. May he truly increase.

The streets of Albany are not as good as the average county road. There is so much of holes and bumps in the gravel. They do not need to pass an ordinance against fast driving because the man who drives fast here is likely to go to the hospital and the buggy or other vehicle in the street. There are a few pretty good ones or rather with good pieces in them. Eugene sent.

THE FINANCIAL WORLD.

A Silver Man Ahead at Louisville Convention.

BRITISH COMMERCIAL SUPREMACY

Due to the Effect of the Great Bimetallic Law.

SILVER MAN AHEAD.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 24.—The Post, which strongly supports the administration's financial policy, today has a poll of delegates showing 485 for Hardin, 378 for Clay; 65 doubtful. The Post says: "There are 878 delegates, 440 necessary to a choice and polling indicates Hardin lacks only five votes. Hardin men say they have five votes.

Although Clay is called the gold candidate and Hardin the silver candidate, yet those lines are not strictly on them as are the lines for those of the Democratic administration. Carlisle's private secretary and appointment clerks are here. They were followed from Washington by ex-Representative Thompson, who is enthusiastic for Senator Blackburn for chairman of the committee on resolutions.

Aside from the silver issue there is a bitter fight between the friends of Secretary Carlisle and Senator Blackburn, and in which Senators Lindsay and Buckner, Representative McCreary and other leaders are interested, while Governor Brown, ex-Governor Knott, and others are with Blackburn. There is almost an endless list of candidates for the minor state offices and they have had their headquarters open several days.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 24.—The Democratic state convention to be held here tomorrow will be among the hottest contests in the history of commonwealth. The polling of all the Louisville papers show the gold delegates in a majority. Silver men charge that the Louisville papers claim most of the delegates are uninstructed, while they are equally divided. Lines are drawn on the endorsement of the administration, with Carlisle's friends leading for the administration and Blackburn's friends against its financial policy. General Cassius M. Clay is the administration candidate for governor. General F. W. Harding is the anti-administration candidate. Silver men will try to force nominations before adoption of a platform.

LONDON BUSINESS MEN.

LONDON, June 24.—A bimetallic memorial has been signed by numbers of the leading bankers, merchants and manufacturers doing business in the East. It first refers to the recent anti-bimetallic is justly described as a growing agitation. It then relates that instead of the commercial supremacy of Great Britain and the financial ascendancy of London having been established since the change in the currency in 1816, it was a fact before then. It adds:

"For nearly 60 years after 1816, the business world was conducted under the dominating influence of a bimetallic system. Experience of recent years has shown that British commercial supremacy during this period was due to the universal effect of the bimetallic law, and not to the operation of our single standard. With the abandonment of bimetallic our immense advantages disappeared. The experience of history, the teaching of science and the conclusions of authority, as expressed by the unanimous report of the gold and silver commission, unite in supporting the opinion that the relative value of the metals could be maintained under bimetallic. The recent statements on behalf of the French government, the resolution of the German Reichstag and the state council of the Prussian diet, and the emphatic declaration of the United States in favor of international bimetallic are proofs of their desire to join Great Britain in a serious endeavor to accomplish this end.

"In the presence of events which cannot be denied, we hope the government will not suffer a hypothetical danger to special interests or a prophetic but unsupported assertion of harm to industry or commerce to deter them from hearty co-operation with the other powers in such measures as seem desirable for securing a fixed par of exchange for the two metals and a more stable standard of value than we now possess."

THE FOREIGN MARKETS.

LONDON, June 24.—The money market is in a helpless condition. A great amount of money cannot find borrowers. The end of the half year will not be gotten over easily, and hopes of relief from improving trade are shattered by the political crisis. The market has been quiet, even for Ascot week. A speculative demand for the best securities and the repurchases of South African shares have been the only features. This dullness will undoubtedly increase in view of the coming dissolution. American railways were weak, except for the bond issues. This was chiefly due to the absence of demand in New York. The chief declines Erie and Erie seconds, 1; Norfolk preferred, 1; Lake Shore increased 1/4, and Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk were both lower. Mexican railways fluctuated a great deal, in view of rumors of negotiations for a fresh pool, but there was little change for the week. Foreign bonds were fairly strong on continental buying. Mexicans were supported chiefly from Berlin. The prospect of a further increase in Argentine is better. Brazilians were much stronger, which, it is thought, portends a new loan.

A Grand Improvement. The work of replacing the wooden walk about the Willamette hotel was begun this morning. The excavation about the building on Ferry street will be filled with gravel and a cement walk 8 feet wide will be laid. From the steps into the reading room to the corner of Commercial street, the walk will be 14 feet wide. On Commercial street, an arched walk 15 feet wide will be laid the entire front of the building. John Hydecker has the job and it will take fully a month to complete the work. An expenditure of about $800 will be involved in the building of this walk. This is exclusive of the arch work, which will be purchased at San Francisco at a cost of $200. This is a grand improvement and will add much to the appearance of the most prominent building in the city.
