The appointment of Dr. Paine is a recognition of the newer and younger elements of the Republican party, as Gen. Odell's appointment is a recognition of the old-timers. Both are very good appointments in their way and the Republican party in Oregon seems to be traveling in both directions. It was a very graceful thing for State Treasurer Metchan to vote for both the present incumbents. That has generally been done as a sort of compliment from the hold over official in a new administration toward the old incumbents. Dr. Paine was the county chairman of Lane county, who had the energy to roll up the biggest vote ever given any state candidate for Secretary Kincaid, and was very influential in bringing about his nomination. He has been traveling, the past few months, visiting asylums, and will bring some new ideas into the work in Oregon. Dr. Paine stands high in his profession, and has good ideas in politics that are almost certain to insure the state a good administration at his hands. He can, at the start, adopt a few wholesome rules that will tend to simplify his work and relieve him of a great deal of disagreeable pressure. He should set his foot down against appointing the members of the families of officials. When a man gets into a position to draw a salary from the state, he instinctively feels that it would be very convenient to have a son or daughter, or cousin or nephew on the payroll, too. It is a human feeling and a frailty that besets men in all parties, and women, too, but it is not just to the public. Not more than one member of one family should be quartered in appointive places on the public at the same time. That would be decent, in the interest of good civil service, and of the party and the public. It is a rule that should be adopted in our American politics to head off nepotism and prevent the building up of an office-holding class by families. Pass the plums around, is a wholesome doctrine.

General Odell was shrewd enough to see the drift of things last spring and was one of the most active workers in bringing about a new deal. He had received favors of the old regime, but early saw the turn of the tide, caught on and made his fortune with the new. Marrying the widow of Congressman Thurston he inherited that able man's political friendships and is himself a well-preserved political heirloom in the Republican party, without which it would hardly attempt to keep house or do business in Oregon. Governor Lord has distributed his favors pretty evenly between the old and the new elements of the party, a not easy task in a state where nearly one-third the population has moved in from the east in the past decade. General Odell has a reputation of untarnished uprightness and probity. The office of clerk of the board of school land commissioners is one out of which a great deal of money has been made in the past. But no one expects the general to make a cent more than the fixed salary. He is not that kind of a man. He is so honest that he would surely fail in the grocery business, as he would always cut the cheese the wrong way to make any profit. The Methodist church lost a good preacher when General Odell decided to follow politics. Governor Lord's cabinet is now complete, and a touch of ministerial dignity will not come amiss, as he can do the business at the other end of the line if any cunning is necessary to right the ship of the state up in a storm, and when praying won't save it. Tim Davapout and General Odell will drive a pretty spanking team through the wilderness of the state school land department, the affairs of which are about as nearly an inscrutable mystery as it is possible for anything to be that is supposed to be public business.

The German emperor surprised all by his Pacific speech at the opening of the North sea canal at Kiel. It was an occasion when the armed vessels and naval heroes of the civilized world were assembled to do honor to the greatness and enterprise of the German nation. The warm blooded young emperor was the central figure of the momentous event. The eyes of the world were upon him as the head of the greatest monarchy of the old world. But his speech was singularly devoid of boastfulness and sanguinary notions usually connected with a mighty military and naval power. On the contrary he pledged the German empire to the support of modern ideas, the maintenance of peace throughout the entire world. Standing upon the prow of an armored battleship in eloquent words he dedicated the most gigantic engineering work of the century to the cause of universal progress and culture. Such an utterance coming from the heart of such a man in such a prominent position will stream out like rays of electric light into the hearts of millions. It was a master stroke from a man who might have won cheaper applause by boasting of the prowess and invincible might of the nation whose sovereign he is, a nation probably invulnerable at land and sea. The German emperor deserves the thanks of the civilized world for throwing his influence at this critical moment on the side of peace and against the barbarism of battlefields and that satire of civilization—standing armies. He may have seen in his heart of hearts the slight so common to his father and grandfather, blood stained battle fields, the last anguish of the fatally wounded, the grief of the widowed mothers and wives, the

The U. S. Government Tests Show the Absolute Superiority of Royal Baking Powder.
(Data from the latest Official U. S. Government Report on Baking Powders, Department of Agriculture, Bulletin 13, page 599.)
ROYAL is placed first of the cream of tartar powders; actual strength, 160.6 cubic inches of leavening gas per ounce of powder.
Every other powder tested exhibited a much lower strength than the Royal, the average being 33 per cent. less.
Every other powder likewise showed the presence of alum or sulphuric acid.
The claim that this report shows any other powder of superior strength or purity has been denounced as a falsehood by the Government officers who made the tests.

patietic sorrow of the orphaned children. With rare courage he said to his subjects, a race of fighters, I will never consent to win laurels by the slaughter of your youth and the prime of our manhood if it can be avoided by honorable means. In the presence of the assembled navies of the world he challenged the governments of Europe to a noble emulation in an universal mission of culture instead of warfare, to a generous strife for conquest in the domain of higher ideals, better education of the masses, a widening of the circles of justice between man and man, and a grander conception of the true brotherhood among all races.

There is one point continually obscured in the arguments of the single gold standard people, and that is unless we can enlarge the volume of legal tender metallic money, it is impossible to increase the volume of circulating medium, except by increasing the national debt. So conservative a man as Mr. Dulph said, in his speech to the Republican club at Portland, that the Republican party would have to provide a larger volume of circulating medium. Now, his way and Cleveland's way of doing that is to issue bonds and borrow gold, and then let the national banks issue national bank notes on the bonds. There is no other way on the single gold standard. All the silver and all the paper we issue must be redeemed in gold, enormously appreciating gold, and depreciating everything else so long as the gold standard monopoly continues. Bimetallism means that the silver dollar is added to the country's store of legal tender metal money. This would give the country a chance and even by limiting the legal tender of silver coins to $60, the only chance to get out of the clutches of the gold syndicate and enlarge the basis upon which it could issue national treasury notes, pay off the national debt and quit issuing its paper money through the hands of interested third parties—the national banks. The present truce of gold-holders, corporations and bankers are more powerful than the government, and will probably have their way. They have the president and a majority of the supreme court, and no rational financial reform can come about for several years. Gold has all the advantage and will dictate terms to the producer, and virtually own him, until relief can come from the people. What England and the South could not conquer by the sword, the Rothschilds have accomplished by the power of politics. In the next five years the country will enter upon the greatest era of stock watering and capitalist speculation ever known in history, and the N.W. World will be mortgaged to the Old to an extent not yet dreamed of.

Santiam Mines.
A big steel range and extensive cooking outfit, together with a quantity of drills, saw mill machinery and tools, will be shipped from Albany today to the Santiam mines to be used by the new syndicate. Mr. Hank Smith, one of the most experienced mining experts in the west, will go to the mines at once to assist Mr. Lawler in the personal management and directions of the linguid and mure, is the way you feel when your liver fails to do its work properly; in consequence you suffer from indigestion, biliousness, and dyspepsia. You have a "don't care" spirit and a "played out" feeling, and everything tires you.

To set the liver in action, purify and enrich the blood, and to strengthen and vitalize the whole system, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Having a peculiar tonic effect upon the lining membrane of the stomach and bowels, it makes a lasting cure of all stomach, liver and bowel disorders. By increasing the blood supply, as well as catching it, all the organs of the body are strengthened, and the nerves are fed of pure, rich blood.
Nervousness is the "city of the starved nerves for food"; nervous debility and exhaustion, sleeplessness and nervous prostration are in most instances the direct result of a starved condition of the blood. The true way to cure these ailments permanently is to take the "Golden Medical Discovery," which was discovered and prescribed by an eminent physician, Dr. J. C. Pierce, at present chief consulting physician and specialist to the Invalid Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. If you want a medical opinion on your case, write him. It will cost you nothing.
A Book of 126 pages on "Diseases of the Digestive Organs" will be mailed to any address on receipt of postage six cents. It contains names, addresses and reproduced photographs of a vast number of people who have been cured of dyspepsia, liver complaint, chronic diarrhea and kindred ailments by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

work. Already the Quartzville region is becoming a scene of wonderful mining activity. Many new claims have been located and the new syndicate is pushing the work on the road, and will start the saw mill which is already on the ground to cut the vast amount of lumber and timber required for buildings, tramways and other work. The company expects to have their big quartz mill in place before winter sets in. The development and operation of these mines promise much for this portion of Oregon.—Albany Herald.
