

THURSDAY, AUGUST 1, 1885.

The action of the Republican state convention of Iowa in endorsing the national platform of 1892 and endorsing Senator Allison for the presidency is significant of the fact that the Republican party will not be easily precipitated into an attitude of hostility to silver, and above all will not endorse the plan of gold monometalism proposed by the Cleveland administration.

That platform declares that the American people from tradition and interest, favor bimetallism and that the republican party demands both gold and silver as standard money. In Senator Allison all Republicans find a friend to silver, not an enemy. He will never, as president contend for the single gold standard system that Cleveland advocates.

The Republican party has so compromised on this question long enough, and the only way to increase the volume of legal tender circulating medium is to increase the basis of legal-tender metallic coin and that can only be done by the coining of silver. A friendly policy toward the white metal is the only thing that will help the producing classes, as it is plain the manufacturers and middlemen can thrive under the present tariff and financial system while the producer cannot. It is humiliating that when Chinese wants to borrow $100,000,000 of silver the loan made of France by the agency of Russia, when it should be furnished by our country as the largest producer of silver in the world. When China spares furnished the Hawaiian monarchy ten million dollars worth of silver coin was made a clear $2,500,000 on the deal. That is the policy of the old world Jews, to furnish governments and peoples their gold and silver at a big bargain like the Belmont Morgan syndicate, let Cleveland have to job lots of gold. Unless the American people want to go clear into the hands of the shysters they must insist on gold and silver and treasury notes issued by the government—that is coined by the government for the government for the people, and inside twenty years we will be the richest government in the world. If we don't do that we will be the poorest of the masses or the downfall of our government. The true friends of silver in the Republican party have a bigger task before them than in '60.

THE Oregonian circulates the lying rumor that Congressman Hermann would bolt if not renominated for congress in this district by the Republicans and intimates that he would run independent. Of course, this is all an invention of the Dolphites at Portland who have promised the place filled by Mr. Hermann since twelve years to some tool of theirs. If anything can make Mr. Hermann's calling and election sure it is such a course as this on the part of the Dolph worshippers at Portland. They simply want to run every man out of public life who will not kneel and worship with them. They will have a hard time downing such able servants of the people as Mr. Hermann has proven himself to be. THE JOURNAL is not a Hermann paper, but it will post the people on such moves as this and they can apply the remedy. The people have no use for a bone-ridden party in Oregon, and if there is any bolting or independent action in this district it will be by the rank and file if the bones put up too big a dose for them to swallow.

CALLING attention to the sacrifices Mrs. Leland Stanford is making to keep Stanford university open, the Portland Oregonian editorial says: "What is the matter with just letting it close?" Nothing could more perfectly express the unfriendly, unsympathetic, unfriendly attitude of the editor of the Oregonian toward higher education in general than this cold, brutal fling at the efforts of a noble woman to perpetuate a monument of civilization. Harvey Scott makes no such sacrifice.

A Portland minister preached on bicycles Sunday night. He had his pulpit decorated with wheels and the wheelmen attended. He had the good taste to say that he left to the good taste of the women the style of dress they should wear. It is difficult to see however what the bicycle craze has to do with the mission of a minister of the gospel of Christ to teach to all mankind. Such performances in the pulpit show an utter misconception of the spiritual truth that the world is dying to hear.

CROPS AND WEATHER.

Western Oregon Weather—Generally cloudy weather, with the temperature cooler than the average were the principal features of the weather during the past week, consequently the sunshine was deficient. There was a total absence of precipitation.

Special grain report—Harvest is progressing rapidly in all sections; some threshing has been done and already some grain has been shipped, from the progress which has already been made with the harvest, it is expected that the bulk of the fall-sown grain crop will be harvested within the succeeding week or ten days, within a few days the entire winter oat crop will have been harvested, and the spring oat crop will soon be ripe enough to harvest. Much of the spring crop of oats on the higher land has already been cut, though on the lower lands they are green. Spring-sown wheat has ripened so rapidly that within a day it will be ready for harvest in some localities; in the southern counties, also in Linn and Lane counties, the crop suffered somewhat by the warm, dry weather, though there is a wide divergence of opinion as to material injury. Wherever barley is grown the crop is good. In the Willamette valley it is not generally grown, but in Douglas, Josephine and Jackson counties it is one of the principal crops, and an excellent one this year. In Tillamook and Clatsop counties very little grain is produced, but in the other coast counties—Lincoln, Coos and Curry—much grain is raised; in those counties the harvest has commenced, though it has not so far advanced as in other sections.

It is expected that the yield of fall-sown wheat and winter oats will average at least 20 per cent above the yield of 1894, and the yield will be in excess of that in 1893. The grain cut off the whole is the best for three years, or since 1892. It will not only exceed the 1893 and 1894 crops in yield, but in quality. The quality will be much superior that of 1893, when, owing to the injuries of a small green bug called "grain aphid," the yield and quality of grain was materially lessened. This year the grain aphid also appeared in many localities, but in smaller numbers. Out of several hundred reports received from our correspondents in the western portions of the state, not one reports injury done by this little insect, which caused consternation last season. The size and fullness of wheat and oats are commented upon by correspondents in all sections. Hope has made good progress recently. The weather has favored the growth of hops, but at the same time it has encouraged the propagation of lice, since it has been cloudy and cool (conditions which favor the increase of hop lice), speculations as to the probable result has become general. A correspondent from Aurora Marion county writes: Hops are burning; lice rather on the increase, but so far they seem to be inactive, rather dormant; if will remain to be seen whether they will go into the burns as these form. Some hopards are thin, while others were neglected, owing to lack of remunerative features last year. Notwithstanding the fact that some hops were destroyed, owing to their apparent unprofitability, the acreage is thought to be larger; with this consideration in view it is evident to the best-informed that the product will be larger for the state than in 1894. The crop will be more profitable, and the quality depends upon the weather, for the remainder of the season.
