

Mr. J. M. HAGERTY of Portland writes very clearly about the silver question and the Oregonian in answering him omits one very essential element in the history of the first issue of $64,000,000 of coin demand notes which it erroneously calls "greenbacks." They were issued at the beginning of the war and at the time when the state bank note circulation was still very large. The state banks took up these coin demand notes almost as fast as they were issued and held them as a reserve in place of coin, selling the coin at a premium and circulating their own depreciated notes instead. The men at the head of the national treasury were much perplexed at this. They saw that the more demand notes they issued that were receivable for customs, taxes and dues of the government, as those were, the larger a basis they gave for the issue of a state bank circulation the poorer the country ever had. This led up to the adoption of the national banking law which did away with the state bank notes and gave the people a national bank circulation founded upon the purchase of government bonds. But no more of the coin demand notes were issued for the reasons above stated which are more fully referred to in Blaine's history. "The first legal tender issue," as it is mistakenly called by the Oregonian, was not a "greenback" in the sense that the later issues that were first declared not a legal tender by the supreme court of the United States. Undoubtedly Mr. Hagerty is right in saying that because they were by law made "receivable for all debts, incomes or revenues due the government," they always remained at par with gold or silver, just as the silver certificate is today at par for the same reason. Deprived of the full legal tender privilege and the silver certificate would go down to the bullion price of silver. The moment the silver dollar is made a full legal tender dollar it will never change in bullion value or current value of coin of our country.

ATTORNEY T. H. CRAWFORD, of Union, Or., makes a very able reply to the attack of J. N. Dolph, of Portland, on the supreme court decision in the case of Schmidt vs. the Oregon Gold-mining company. He reviews that case at length, shows that property valued all the way from $50,000 to $500,000 was bid in for $9,000 by the original owners, that the attorney fees were fixed by the lower court at $5,500 on the sum of over $600,000. This sale Dolph, Nixon & Dolph asked to have set aside, the lower court refused, Dolph appealed and the supreme court confirmed the original sale. There was no question before the supreme court as to the amount of the attorney fee or how it should be paid. The right of an attorney to appear and make all the representations in the case for his client is not questioned in this state. If the attorney over-reached his client the client has his remedy. Until the client finds fault with the way he was represented by counsel it must be considered that he acted in good faith. As the supreme court bears matters only on appeal on law points and never on the question of facts there was no way for the supreme court to pass on the question of the reasonableness of the attorney fee. In his review of the matter Mr. Crawford uses these words about Mr. Dolph: "In his application for a rehearing in this case before the supreme court, the language that he used and the sentiments that he incorporated therein, were an insult both to the bar of this state and the judiciary thereof." In the whole matter Mr. Dolph has shown himself to be a great deal smaller man than the people had any idea that he could be. He is completely whipped out by Mr. Crawford on the facts and record.

"LOOKOUT for a big tidal wave to knock the bulkheads out of several congressional booms now swelling themselves in the breeze." If that isn't mixed metaphor for you! It's regular chow-chow but it's true.

SALEM is a fine summer resort for those who can't get away.

Nervousness

Cannot be permanently cured by the use of opiates and sedative compounds. It is too deeply seated. It is caused by an impoverished condition of the blood, upon which the nerves depend for sustenance. This is the true and only natural explanation for nervousness. Purify, enrich and vitalize the blood with and nervousness will disappear. Hood's Sarsaparilla will give vitality to the blood and will send it coursing through the veins and arteries charged with the life-giving, strength building qualities which make strong nerves. If you are nervous, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and find the same relief of which hundreds of people are telling in their published testimonials. Get Hood's Pills and Hood's and Only Hood's because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only True Blood Purifier prominently in the public eye today. Hold by all druggists.

Geo. C. BROWNELL will probably run for congressman.—Oregon City Courier. Unfortunately for the people of this state Mr. B. has still a term to serve as state senator and the people cannot avail themselves of his ability to represent them in congress this time. But there may come a more favorable time for this commonwealth, when her stars may be in apellation, astronomically speaking, when the Hon. Geo. C. Brownell may sit in the national house of representatives.

Bob Hendricks of the state reform school came down town Friday to discipline the bad boys at the Statesman office. He found Irvine and Frank Davey off working up another spiritualistic seance. While the managing editor was chasing down spirit rappings someone had got in a savage attack on Dolph. The Statesman this morning fairly humps itself to set Dolph all right.

Whatever the effect of Senator Dolph's criticism of a recent supreme court decision, no one questions but the criticism was an honest and able one. It will at least, serve to remind the public that a little law is a dangerous (and as in this case a very expensive) thing.—Statesman.

What do you mean is "dangerous" Dolph or the court.

That is a rich joke the Oregonian got off in its editorial column in yesterday's issue when it declared itself to be the organ of the common people.—Ex. It is the only way the common people or any other people can get the news at Portland.

ONE Salem minister is onto his job. He says: "As the weather gets hotter I have been making the sermons a little more interesting, and find it holds the crowds just as if half the people were not at summer resorts."
