SENATOR QUAY WINS

Two Republican Conventions May Be Held

IN THE STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA

Two Factions of the Republican Party in That State.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 28.—Both factions of the Pennsylvania Republican party held caucuses last night, with the result that Quay has apparently won the fight, the caucus of his followers containing 152 delegates whose seats are uncontested, or seven more than the number necessary to a choice. The anti-Quay people got together first, but their session was secret and a short one, lasting only 10 minutes. There was no roll call. It is understood that Senator Burns, of Philadelphia, presided. Governor Hastings offered a resolution asking that a committee of five be appointed to draft the business of the caucus into shape, and to "arrange other business necessary," which was adopted. The caucus adjourned until tomorrow.

The caucus of the Quay delegates met in the Quay headquarters at 9:35 o'clock, and reporters for newspapers were admitted. Senator Perrose, of Philadelphia was made chairman. In taking the chair he made a short speech, in the course of which he said:

"The people are against the combine, and resent the treatment of Senator Quay. We have won our credentials honestly and will elect Quay tomorrow. No other man could have won against the combined power of patronage and money that we have contended against."

At this juncture Senator Quay was escorted to the hall, and a scene of wild enthusiasm resulted. In a speech he said:

"The battle has been fought in the interest of good government generally, and the purity of Republican politics. You fought under unfavorable circumstances. The next time you wage war with your opponents the state will go overwhelmingly in your behalf."

The day was one of intense excitement. From early morning delegates have been arriving. Visitors poured into the city and tonight the streets and public places are jammed with adherents of the two factions, shouting at the tops of their voices the names of their favorites. The prospect of an exciting convention has brought Harrisburg many of the tough element from the larger cities, and trouble is looked for, although up to midnight there has been nothing more serious than an occasional fist fight. At this hour Quayites are parading and their exuberance is so infectious that many of the anti-Quay men are joining their ranks.

Today's convention is to select candidates for the state treasurer and superior judgeships. Haywood, of Mercer county, will probably be chosen for state treasurer, but in the light of the events it is possible that the six judges who were appointed by Governor Hastings, and who, it was thought, would be unopposed for the nomination, will find themselves cast aside by the Quay people and new men named for their places.

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS. HARRISBURG, Aug. 28.—The convention was called to order at noon by Chairman Gilkeson. Speaker Walton

YOUNG PIETZEL'S BODY

Is Found in Holmes' House in Indianapolis.

WAS BURIED BENEATH A STOVE.

Evidence Against the Swindler Is Strong.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 28.—Indianapolis will claim the right to try H. H. Holmes for murder. The claim will be placed upon the developments yesterday, which include the finding of the charred remains of 9-year-old Howard Pietzel, and evidence which before any jury in the country would convict Holmes of murdering him and then partially burning his body in a stove. Detectives Geyer, of Philadelphia; Richards, of Indianapolis, and Inspector Gary, of the Fidelity, Insurance company, have been at work for weeks hunting for traces of the boy's body. He was traced here with Holmes and disappeared. The city was scourged and work began in the suburbs, hunting for a house rented by Holmes on October 10, 11, or 12, last year. Detectives went to Irvington, a pretty suburb of this city, and the seat of Butler college and before they had been at work an hour, their attention was called by a local real estate dealer to a small vacant cottage situated in the woods at the edge of town and far removed from any other dwellings. The party went to the house and a few minutes later the officers found beneath the side porch the missing missing trunk which was taken from the Circle house in this city, October 10, by Holmes, and which was thought to contain the body of the boy. Great excitement followed and hundreds of people flocked to the scene as soon as the discovery leaked out, although the officers tried to keep it secret. The house was guarded and work began, searching for additional evidence. Developments followed thick and fast, and the chain of evidence is damaging.

In a barn connected with the house was a large stove of cylindrical shape, of the same pattern as those Holmes bought in Cincinnati. He rented the house under the same alias. The stove had been moved to the stable by the owner of the house after Holmes left. It was concluded that the body had been burned in the stove and search began for the remains. Late this evening, Dr. Barnhill's attention was called by a small boy named Walter Jenny to the stovehole, where the stove had been. It was filled with refuse. This was pulled out, and the remains of the boy were found. Physicians and dentists were there, and in this refuse hundreds of pieces of charred bones were found.

The teeth showed that the body was that of a boy between 8 and 10 years old, and the other bones confirmed this. All were charred and pieces of flesh clung to some of them. The skull bones and pelvis added the same truth. The boy had evidently been burned in a cob fire in the huge stove found in the barn. Howards overcoat was found at a grocery store nearby, where Holmes had left it, saying the boy would call for it. He never came. Owners of the house recognize Holmes from the pictures and several neighbors remember the face. Several people have identified him, and all doubt is removed. Other developments are expected tomorrow, and with this evidence, Indianapolis will demand Holmes for trial.
