OREGON STATE FAIR.

What Was Done Sunday—Arrivals of Horses.

Sunday was a busy day at the state fair grounds. Carpenters and exhibitors were busy building and erecting exhibits. Hundreds of sightseers visited the city out on the prairie.

The state fair, which this year is for ten days, opens Wednesday, September 25. Already the grounds present a scene of activity.

THE HORSES.

A glimpse of the speeding horses in training on the track, the unusual stir of officers, laborers and those who have secured privileges, is ominous of a successful fair.

There are now 165 head of horses on the ground, among them Maley & Boley's string from California; Marcus Day's from Montana, and an aggregation of Oregon favorites. There are others yet to arrive from Montana. The track is in excellent condition; the weather promises to be perfect. Pacers, runners, jumpers and trotters will be here, and the speed ring will surely be one of interest. A prominent horseman, who has never attended the fair before, said the Oregon State Fair Association track is all right, and the best races ever held in Oregon would be witnessed here this year.

CONGRESSMAN BRYAN

The great leader and champion in the cause of bimetallism is in California talking in the largest cities and writes Senator Myers that he will leave for Salem so as to reach here Thursday. He will spend a few days shooting and visiting and will speak on the coinage question next Friday and Saturday.

MANUFACTURERS.

The Portland Manufacturers Association is represented in the city today by J. C. Goldstein, and a special train bearing the association will arrive in the city on the second day of the fair—the 26th inst. This has been selected by the Manufacturers' Association of Portland as its special day and special trains bearing its members and other Portlanders will be run. A great time is promised to the visitors.

A speaking program is arranged for the pavilion in the evening.

"The Leader" Opening.

The opening of the "Leader" millinery store attracted the crowds today. Mrs. M. E. Frazer, assisted by Miss Alta Robinson, recently of St. Joseph, Missouri, and Miss Dahl of D. B. Fisk and Co., Chicago, were kept busy showing their wares to the first people of the city. The predominant colors of gold and green were featured while cut flowers and potted plants in profusion adorned the handsome interiors at 265 Commercial street. Fifty imported patterns bedazzled and bewildered the beholders, while the show of between 500 and 600 trimmed hats occupied the attention of visitors in the most agreeable manner.

The show was a great success and the ladies feel justly proud of their effort. The proprietor, the imported Modistes, and force of employees, consisting of Misses Lena Huber, Jennie Anderson, Besse Sherman, Alice Norton, Pearl Hinton and Gerlie Jakes, were all photographed amid their gorgeous and artistic surroundings and made indeed a charming picture.

Under the illumination at night "The Leader" will present a still more attractive appearance.

Free Show Tonight.

A grand free entertainment will be given tonight on the vacant lot corner of High and State streets opposite the Cook hotel at 8 p. m. sharp consisting of musical acts, singing and comic farces. NAME CHANGED.—At the quarterly conference of the South Salem Methodist church Saturday night the name of the society was changed from South Salem M. E. to Leslie M. E. The reason for the change was that strangers sometimes become confused, thinking the society to be that of the South Methodists. Letters have been received by the society addressed: Pastor South Methodist church, Salem, Oregon. The ground upon which the church stands formerly belonged to Father Leslie.

THE STATE FAIR.—For 1895 will no doubt surpass any previous effort made for the entertainment of the people of the State. We are positive of one thing—none of the clothing on exhibit will surpass that to be found at G. W. Johnson & Son's. They lead for five clothing.

MILK IN HOT WEATHER.

Best Way For Farmer and Shipper to Take Care of It.
Give in a few simple rules the best way of handling milk in hot weather: 1. To keep it sweet for shipping to town. 2. To get the best results for butter making. Describe the plan to be followed where you have ice and modern conveniences and also where these are lacking.

When milk is to be shipped for city consumption, it should be most carefully and thoroughly strained immediately after milking. It should next be aerated thoroughly by any process at command, but some method is essential if we are to have it in the best possible condition. As soon as it is aerated it should be cooled. Most milk shippers have a supply of ice and a large tank into which the cans of milk are set. Ice is put in the tank, and the milk is rapidly cooled, being stirred at frequent intervals to prevent the cream from rising. Where ice is not at hand, a spring of cold water, standing at 48 or 50 degrees, will answer, though it is not so reliable.

Many Orange county (N. Y.) milkmen rely on springs, especially where they can have a stream of the spring water running into the tank, but even then, in very hot weather their milk will, on occasion, spoil en route to the city. Thorough aeration will do much toward keeping milk sweet. When milk is to be made into butter, aeration is not desirable, unless in cases where vegetation imparting disagreeable odors to the milk has crept into the pastures.

In such a case, a slight aeration would improve the flavor of the butter with only a very small loss of cream. Where a creamery is at hand, the milk is at once put into it and thoroughly iced. This brings the cream rapidly up. Ordinarily it will be ready for skimming, if desirable, in eight hours. No butter maker today is in a situation to compete with the best trade if he is obliged to do without ice, though there are many dairies where no ice is used that turn out excellent butter.

Springs can be used with deep cans as in the case of milk or it may be set in shallow pans on racks in the coolest cellar at command. In neither case will success be so complete as if ice had been used. The milk will, however, mature before the cream is separated, and there is consequent loss. It is important when cream is raised in the old-fashioned pans that the cellar be as well ventilated as is compatible with coolness. It should be used only for a milk cellar—dairies else.—Rural New Yorker.

Mexico's Burro Postage Stamps.
The following from Mexico City will interest the multitude of cranks who collect postage stamps: A new series of postage stamps is in process of engraving by the Mexican government and will make its appearance for sale in September. This is the first issue of pictorial postage stamps ever issued in Mexico. They will be in the usual denominations, 1 cent, 2 cent, 4 cent, 5 cent and 10 cent, and will represent by cleverly executed drawings the various stages of Mexican mail transportation, showing the motive power of man, burro, stage and steam train.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Poor, Dear Things!
The Duke of Westminster is asking the sympathy of his friends because, under the terms of the death duties in the pending budget, his estate at his death must pay to the government a tax of no less than $6,000,000. This will compel the poor heirs to get along with only $50,000,000.—London Truth.

To Remove Substances From the Eye.
To remove the solid particles from under the lids, it is sufficient to pull the lid away from the eye and to wipe the body with a piece of moist paper or the corner of a handkerchief. If it is under the upper lid, grasp the lid firmly between the thumb and finger, lift it from the eye ball and draw it down over the lower lid, and then allow it to slide slowly back to its natural position. The foreign body will be scraped off on the lashes.

The operation may be repeated several times. Or lift the lid from the eyeball, allow the tears to accumulate beneath the lid and forcibly blow the nose. Or place in the eye a few grains of flaxseed, which, forming a mucilage, will promptly bring relief. Or place across the upper lid the point of a pencil or bodkin, and turn the lid back over it. In this way the foreign particle is brought into distinct view and can be readily wiped away.—Washington Star.
