mouthpiece of God and shuts up God's book, it becomes the enemy of God. If this nation is to live, God must be in all its plans. The chosen people thought they could do without God but failed. Today they are as a result without nationality anywhere. Let this nation forget God and it can never stand. God must be in all its creeds.

Why are churches multiplying? It is ignorance leading men off into ebullient character. We find them under all names yet all claiming to be in Christ. But any creed that has not God in it—the trinity and unity—cannot live. If Christ be not the central object nor God the grand supreme it cannot exist, etc. Tyranny and ignorance sent the Pilgrims to Plymouth Rock. There will not in the future be an infidel or a scoffer in this land.

Less than this is a parody upon Christianity. This demands the intelligence of the people. May the hand be palsied that will attempt to pull down our public schools, the great bulwark of our freedom. Let from every school house float the star spangled banner, and let it be open to all. The bible will be the text book of the masses. I do not ask that religion shall be taught, but the bible shall be retained in our schools. The day is not far distant when the bible shall be open for the children in every American school house.

Legislation must step in and give us the remedy. Selfish politicians must stand aside and give us a chance to square everything by the grand principles taught by the bible, the book of the masses. We do not want the chained bible, but the open bible. It alone teaches men their true character and their responsibility. Some say all that men want is education, but there must be a cleansing and purifying that is alone proclaimed in the bible. There is too much conventional religion. It sees the multitude dying for salvation, but cannot help it. Christ's teaching unifies humanity into one fraternity, one brotherhood. God is the father; every man is my brother, and I should be every man's brother, that is what the Master taught, and that is what the bible does. This teaching blows out all transgressions.

"SOCIETY AS IT IS."
Mrs. Marion B. Baxter, leader of the noon-day meetings in the Woman's Temple, Chicago, last evening delivered a lecture on "Society As It Is," in the First Methodist church. She was greeted with a full house, nearly every seat in the large auditorium being taken, as well as those in the gallery. A short synopsis of the lecture is as follows:

This world is full of queer people. You have a great many in your Capital City. A great many wonder why the temperance work does not go on more successfully. You know the temperance wheel is in the rut. Then place your shoulder against it and help it out. The foundation of society is the home—the sweetest and dearest place on earth. Ex-President Harrison once said: "A blow at the home life of the nation is a blow at the nation itself." The next force in society is that which we call church. If you are a Christian don't you know it? What is the church but a light on a hill? What is the matter with the churches? A licensed saloon is at war with the church. While the churches of Salem succeed in saving one soul, the saloons of this city snatch ten precious souls from our very midst. The saloon is working harder than the church. It is the duty of the church to walk with God. The liquor business cannot be licensed without sin—a grand prerogative of the M. E. church to fight on. The body of the church says the liquor question is not a political matter. In the year 1865 the brewers and distillers of the United States met in convention and said: "Let us enter the political arena at once to protect ourselves against this temperance movement." You said this is not a political question? In 1865 another convention was held by the brewers and distillers and they said: "Let us enter the political arena and stay there. We will organize to protect ourselves from the temperance people. If the other parties do not place men in office that will do as we wish them to do, we will organize an independent party." Have you heard of an independent party being organized since? Liquor steals the inheritance of the church. Another convention of these liquor dealers was held later at Freeport, Ill., and they said: "We will not question any political party as long as they do not interfere with us." I am not here to criticize the church. If the nation is saved it will be accomplished by the church. At the last national election what do you think happened? Early in the morning the Democratic saloon keeper went to the ballot box and he is always there and voted the straight national Democratic ticket because it suited him. The pious Democrat awoke early that morning, got down on his knees and prayed "Dear Lord I know that my party ain't right on the whisky question but my father was a Democrat and I have to be too, etc." He voted the same ticket the saloon keeper did. The Republican saloon keeper and the pious Republican voted the same ticket. The former because it suited him and the latter because he was a Republican and did not care what was incorporated in the platform or what kind of men were placed on the ticket. The drunken man sees a pious voter cast a ballot that mocks in the face of God. A saloon man does not care how much you pray against him. They will have no war with anybody unless you have a war with them. How long before 4,000,000 Christian men of this nation will stand together and defeat the liquor cause? The next force of scotchy is the press. May God bless the editors! They never said anything bad about me that's the reason I like them. Prohibition was defeated in Pa. because 400 editors sold their editorial columns to the brewers and distillers. The same thing happened in Michigan and Nebraska. I am tired and sick of this editorial dishonesty. When I purchase a paper I glance at the editorial page the first thing. I should demand editorial honesty. Should I go to the legislature at any time, I should see to it myself that a bill was passed making it a crime punishable by death for an editor to sell the columns of his paper for a corrupt purpose. Whatever editors work for they can build and whatever they work against can be destroyed.

The next source of society is the school. In 1890 there were 90,000 school houses and a school population of 18,000,000, only one-half of whom were attending school. The remaining 9,000,000 were to be found in the alleys and tenement houses of our large cities. Thousands of children go about the streets of Chicago with scarcely anything to eat or wear, all owing to the liquor business. The nation never needed men as she needs them today. Men who will get up and pave the way for the incoming of the kingdom. Commence at the ballot box. Corrupt men are in power. They do not walk with God as they should.

The meeting was closed by an earnest prayer by Mrs. Cox, president of the W. C. T. U. of Washington.

Mrs. Baxter is the best lecturer in her line that has ever visited this city. Those who have not heard the lady should not fail to do so this evening as she speaks in the U. B. church in Yew Park tonight.

ATHEY, M. C. A. Evangelist Holdridge and Dickson, of Portland, conducted an interesting meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Sunday afternoon. The singing by Mr. Dickson was simply wonderful and held the audience of men spellbound as it were from the opening to the close of each selection. Evangelist Holdridge's theme was "What Falls and What Stands?"—Or an object lesson on character building.

It is human nature for man to want more," said Mr. Holdridge, "but unless the passion is controlled more leads to covetousness. Having coveted for some time a man will be found lying and finally stealing. Then follows irreverence and the awful curse of drinking. These times we are having, is God saying stop sinning; stop building character without God. After denial self-reform, good deeds, a righteous condition. It is easier to save a man from the gutter than one who is wrapped in the robe of self-righteousness. At the judgment day the man who has not been building character with God finds that he has been deceived and is lost. Build your character on faith, love and hope having for its foundation the Lord Jesus Christ."

A BAD MISHAP.—Chris Rich and family, who lives seven miles south of this city, met with a serious accident yesterday, while driving to town. After going a short distance, as they were coming down a steep hill the back strap of the harness broke, which threw the horse down and upset the vehicle. Mrs. Mary Broer, who was along, had her collar bone broken by the fall, and Mrs. Rich was severely bruised. The party came along to town to secure the services of a physician and returned home in the evening happy as could be under the circumstances.

COURT HOUSE NEWS.

In the Marion county circuit court on February 22, 1895, John Patterson secured a judgment against Clell Hayden as defendant for the sum of $2,000 and for costs and disbursements taxed $78.65 and for interest on both of said sums at the rate of 8 per cent from the above date. The plaintiff now asks the court to grant him an order of execution against the property of said defendant for the amount mentioned heretofore.

Mr. Chatman, of Butteville, was today committed to the poor farm by County Judge W. C. Hubbard. During his season the gentleman broke his leg at the ankle at the same time being badly poisoned by hops. The man is almost unable to take care of himself and was brought to Salem by some of his friends this morning with the above result.

T. D. Waldenschwiler and Thor. Meinhofer, natives of Germany, today took out naturalization papers at the county clerk's office.

"NOT GUILTY."—Was the verdict of the jury consisting of Fred Hurst, Warren Johns, Geo. Collins, H. A. Thomas, H. M. Branson and Esquire Farrar summoned to act as a jury in the case of State of Oregon vs. Dr. E. G. Brown for practicing medicine without a license. The trial took place before Justice H. A. Johnson Saturday afternoon. The state was represented and Prosecuting Attorney A. O. Condit assisted by P. H. D. Arce. R. R. Giltner, of Portland, was counsel for the defendant.

RECOVERING.—J. W. Mangus, the farmer residing a few miles east of Salem, who met with such a painful accident Saturday afternoon when passing through the penitentiary gate with a load of wood, is slowly recovering. Dr. E. B. Philbrook called on his patient this morning and found him resting easily. The doctor reports no broken bones nor dislocation and the prospects for the gentleman's speedy recovery are excellent.

SPECIAL MEETING.—The Christian church has needed it very much by putting down a new cement walk, new steps, etc., and now they have begun series of special meetings every evening this week and with good speakers. The home forces of the church are to be strengthened. Rev. Denton is a hopeful and hearty worker and should be well supported.

Jurors and others attending court will find it to their advantage to see about board at Strong's restaurant.

Married.
HOCKETT-FROMM.—At the residence of the bride in Yew Park, Sunday, October 13, 1895, Miss Maud Hockett to Mr. Frank Fromm, Rev. Reynolds, of the Yew Park United Brethren church, officiating.
GORDON-HOWE.—At their future residence on Front street, between Union and Division, Saturday evening, October 12, 1895, Mrs. Eda Howe of Yamhill county, to Captain Alexander Gordon, Rev. A. L. Hutchinson officiating.
CRABTREE-WELCH.—At the home of the groom's father, in Englewood, Sunday evening, October 13, 1895, Miss Bell Crabtree, of Scio, to G. S. Welch, Rev. J. Bowerman, of the Free Methodist church of North Salem, officiating.
HOW DEEP.—Any one wishing to learn the exact depth of Mill creek at the good fishing points need not sound the stream, but consult Henry Bell at the Palace. He knows more than he wants to on that subject.

RIVER NEWS.

The Grey Eagle arrived up from Mission Landing Saturday evening with a large shipment of hops besides miscellaneous freight. She remained at her dock in this city over Sunday and left for Mission Landing at 6 o'clock this morning.

The Gypsy left for Portland at 6:45 a. m. today with a load of flour for Portland besides a good passenger list. She will return to Salem Tuesday evening. At present the river is but .6 of a foot above low water mark and the boats are hauling as large loads of freight as that stage of the river will permit.

DISGRACEFULLY.—A disreputable Portland paper roasts a young female in a most unmerciful manner. It would be well to expose his associates who lead him into evil ways, while they cunningly assume the garb of being highly respectable society men. It would render Salem society a service best would be appreciated.

As the dry goods stock grows less the bargains are greater at the Palace clothing store.

Altona and Gray Eagle for Portland, leave Salem daily except Sundays, at 6 a. m. Quick time, regular service and cheap rates. Agent, M. F. Baldwin, at Salem dock.
