There are 66,835,880 rails used to cover this ground.

There are 533,365,000 ties used to bind these rails together, but no such amount, however, is required to bind the hearts of the traveling public to the fact that the Wisconsin Central lines furnish superior facilities on all their trains between St. Paul and Chicago which form close connection with all lines to the east and south.

Make a note of it.

LIVING WHIST.

Dancing whist is certainly the most unique and interesting entertainment ever presented in Salem, and those who did not witness it have missed a treat. The spectacle of pretty maidens tripping about in time to music, dressed in voluminous, airy dresses and shot in dainty slippers is always pleasing, but when their trippings take such fantastic courses as in playing living whist, the effect is grand. The dresses of the ladies added to the beauty of the scene, as they were very prettily made, displaying plump arms and throats, and the skirts often appeared like wings as the wearers grasped the folds with their fingers and fluttered about, butterfly like.

Many of Salem's handsomest girls and women took part in the performance, and all were noticeably good dancers. The gentlemen also presented a fine appearance, and danced well.

The dancing of Miss Helen Copeland was exceedingly graceful, and she received applause in the midst of the dancing of that figure.

Several of the tricks received an encore, among them the one composed of four little girls—Nettie Beckner, Minnie Sherman, Connie Holland and Lena Hirsch. The eleventh trick, in which Basil Wagner, Mrs. Hugh Thompson and Misses Ethel and Kay Thompson figured, was noticeable for the grace of the participants, as was also that composed of Mrs. Henry Myers and Misses Grace Dismoor, Hortense Levy and Lou Hirsch.

The grotesque make up of the Janks and their comic performances provoked much mirth from both spectators and performers, and their skirt dance at the close was most laughable, as they spun around top-fashion.

The game was played by Mrs. Wm. England and Messrs George Collins, H. B. Holland and A. Klein.

It was a pleasing sight to see Mr. Holland, whose hair is snow-white, wend his way so light-footedly among the cards as the deck was shuffled. The figures of the march the cards were shuffled, were most bewildering.

Everyone carried out his or her part to perfection, and every detail was well finished.

SALEM SOCIAL CLUB.

It is evident that Salem is going to have a social club and from the character of the men who are going to join or have already joined it will be as strong an organization as any in Portland. It will not have as much money as some down there, for the simple reason that Salem has not as many men of easy circumstances. Portland has five such clubs, and one hears nothing of the pastors taking them up and handling them without gloves. If I am not misinformed some of the Portland ministers belong to them. Governor Lord of Salem is an honorary member of three of them. If the club were able it could maintain a well equipped club house, with lunch room, billiard room, whist room and a ladies room, where ladies could make appointments down town to meet one another. There is no more convenient place in a big city for two gentlemen from different parts of the state to make an appointment and have a private chat than at a well appointed club room. The club has become a feature of social life in all cities and an evidence of civilization in all countries. The social instinct that draws men together, the underlying principle of god fellowship that binds gentlemen together far stronger than any free masonry, is at the bottom of club life. I take it there is nothing immoral in this. In England the club is not confined to the city, but exists in the towns, villages and country. If the Salem club can be maintained it will prove a strong factor in the development of the common interests of the city and its influence will be felt even in the state. The four gentlemen most concerned in getting up the Salem social club are Attorney General Idleman, F. R. Anson, A. I. Wagner, and one other whose modesty forbids the use of his name. Salem men never did a wiser or more wholesome thing than to organize a social club.

INDEPENDENCE PARTY ATTENDS. A small party from Independence, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fennell, Mrs. William Patterson, Mrs. J. A. Van Ness, Mrs. T. J. Lee and Mr. and Mrs. Clare Irvine, drove over yesterday evening, and attended "Living Whist." They returned this morning.

ANOTHER RE-UNION. At the Moody residence Thanksgiving day all but one son and his family assembled to spend the day, there being present Malcolm A. and William and family, of the Dalles, Ralph E. and family, of Portland, and Miss Edna Zenas A. Moody, the absent son, resides in Southern Oregon, and could not be present. As is usual on such occasions, all were happy at being together.

SURPRISE PARTY. At the home of Mr. E. B. Irvin, Miss Iva Irvin was delightfully surprised by a party of about thirty of her young friends, who came well provided with a luncheon as well as with light hearts. The evening was spent in merry jest, with the variation of recitations, music and games, and everyone, surprised and surprised, enjoyed themselves until a late hour.

NOTES. The Milford, Delaware, "News and Advertiser" is published by a brother-in-law of the governor of Oregon, H. L. Hynson. The issue of November 29, 1895, copies from the Milford "Index" this item about Governor Lord's parents: "Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lord, of Camden, enjoyed their 61st wedding anniversary on Friday. They were married at Philadelphia by a Presbyterian minister, November 19, 1834, and with the exception of a few years at Dover, they have resided here the entire period. For her years Mrs. Lord is a remarkably active, brilliant and healthy woman. Mr. Lord is less fortunate, and at times suffers severely. Both are members of the M. E. church, with membership dating back to 1830. Mrs. Lord is yet an active member and worker in the Mite society and other kindred labors of her church, and is loved by all who know her." Governor Lord is not a churchman and never asks a man what his religious belief is. His mother was raised a Quakeress.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moody and children left this morning for their home at The Dalles, having spent Thanksgiving at the parental home of Ex-Governor and Mrs. Z. F. Moody.

Mrs. Geo. Sauter and Miss Edith Pamondien, of Spokane, arrived in Salem last evening, and will be the guests for some weeks of Mrs. M. A. Pamondien and Mrs. C. B. Irvine.

Mrs. B. J. Sharpe will give a musical recital by her classes on next Wednesday evening at her home on Twenty-first street, between Ferry and Trade.

Gardner, banker, one year; Scott Bosorth, clerk, one year; John W. West, escort; F. J. Many, watchman; W. F. Cole, sentry; J. M. Lawrence, manager eighteen months. Doctors D. F. Lane and U. H. Robertson were recommended as physicians for the ensuing year. Mr. Bosorth has been elected to the office of clerk since 1892.

THANKSGIVING AT ALBANY. Prof. Z. M. Parvin, formerly of Willamette conservatory of music, but now musical director of the Albany college, had charge of the musical program on Thanksgiving day. Friday's Herald contains the following regarding one of Salem's finest singers:

"The choir rendered two of the most beautiful selections rendered in Albany for a long time, 'Father Oh Hear Us,' with solos finely sung by Miss Edith, Mr. Lundell, Miss Maude Halbert and Mrs. Wandell. The second anthem was a Thanksgiving anthem, 'Praise to God Immortal,' written by Miss Alderson, now of this city, and sung for the first time on such an occasion. As in the first anthem the solos were sung in an attractive manner by Mr. Dickson, Miss Alderson and Mr. Akers." Miss Alderson is a graduate from Willamette conservatory of music under Prof. Parvin.

THANKSGIVING AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH. Thanksgiving services were conducted at St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Laurence Sinclair delivering an appropriate discourse. An offering for the benefit of the Salem hospital fund was received. Besides a generous donation of money, a great many jars of fruit and a large quantity of vegetables, as well as bed and other linen was pledged for the room in the hospital which the ladies of the church intend to endow.
