LITERARY NOTE.

The open meeting given by the young ladies literary society, at the university, Friday night was a success, as far as a good time and a large crowd were concerned. An excellent musical and literary program that had been prepared by the young ladies, was nicely carried out. The vocal and instrumental duets by the little Misses Flowers were especially good and elicited hearty applause from the audience. Neither of the Misses Flowers have reached their teens yet and their playing and singing was remarkably well executed. Miss Esther Collins recited and Miss Agnes Brown read a poem, a story of the society in poetry—which was composed by herself. The dialogue "Surprised" by Misses Beatty, Buckhart, Burcham, Bahlrae, Shepard and D. Gans. The Misses Raymond sang a very pretty duet. At the conclusion of the program a season of social intercourse was enjoyed by the young folks.

A PLEASANT EVENT.

Friday night the members of the Sunday school class of John Moir Sr., accompanied by their wives or husbands, as the case might be, tendered their teacher a pleasant surprise at his home, corner of Water and Division streets. Social intercourse was indulged in during the early part of the evening after which numerous games were enjoyed by those present. At the proper time refreshments were served the ladies being loaded with good things upon their arrival. Later in the evening Rev. Hutchison, in behalf of the Sunday school class, after a few remarks, presented Mr. Moir with a handsome gold combination pen and pencil. Mr. Moir responded in a few well chosen remarks.

Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Hutchison, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Biggar, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Beggs, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simmons, Mrs. J. W. Crawford and daughter Miss Mamie, Mrs. W. F. Boothby, Mrs. E. F. Osburn, Mrs. C. D. Purdy and Rev. E. S. Holt, of Portland.

Call at Sonnemann's grocery and inspect his Christmas novelties.
