Fleming last night, for the benefit of the Salem hospital. The spacious parlors were crowded by a select audience, and all were highly pleased with the splendid program rendered, which was opened by a piano duet by Miss Maud Hirsch and Mr. Whian, rendered in a highly finished manner evincing unusual skill, and receiving marked approbation. A vocal duet by Misses Huelat and White was sung in a charming manner, the voices of the young ladies blending most harmoniously. Miss Marie Vandorsol again displayed her powers as an elocutionist by reading an humorous selection, and in response to a hearty encore favored her hearers with a second. Mrs. Ella McDowell's vocal solo was up to her usual high standard, and received an encore. A guitar duet by Misses Haas and Sperry was beautifully played, and received a persistent encore, which was kindly responded to. In response to an informal request Master Ernest Vandorsol recited a humorous selection very ably, also responding to an encore. A vocal solo by Chas. Ford, one of Salem's finest tenor singers, received an encore, the response closing the program, which was certainly composed of fine talent.
