Wheat at Salem is 53 1/2 cents.
Silver has gone up to 70 cents an ounce.

Important: The Statesman don't like McKinley.

Our foreign wars are all equally successful up to date.

Who will take Bill Nye's place? We mean in this world.

With corrupted primaries what good is the purified Australian ballot?

It is your privilege to join it if you can or find fault with it if you can't—the Illinois club.

It must not be forgotten George Washington was a good man and a good politician.

Just how nearly representative the present congress is of the people can better be judged ten years hence.

Talking about whether tariff or finance is the greater issue, it isn't to be forgotten that bossism is the boss issue in Oregon.

In these days the cat-in-a-bag politician is growing himself to get into the next legislature and make what he can out of it.

It will be just as sensible for the Stayton people to say Salem has too many newspapers as for a Salem paper to say Stayton has too many.

If the taxpayers of Lincoln county do their duty at the primaries the old ring that has cursed that young county will be taught a lesson.

The Oregonian has Congressman Ellis of Eastern Oregon, safely beaten. It is now the duty of the people to confirm its orders at the primaries.

The great majority of the present congress were never heard of before, were nominated when their election was not expected, and will never be heard of again.

When a congressman represents the people on all questions it is high time he were retired. Mr. Hermann, of Oregon, should know better than go on the way he has.

Merchant Key, of Perrydale, was in the last legislature. His friends want to make him senator. If the men with muddy boots do their duty a few sidewalk politicians with pointed-toed shoes will not down Key at the primaries.

Mr. Dolph, you would make friends and perform a graceful act that would give you not a little popularity if you would now move to make John H. Mitchell's election to the senate unanimous.

A prediction that the Salem politicians who are using one man to throw down former friends with, will throw him down harder still when they are through with him. But these things are too common.

THE ISSUE IN OREGON.

The political issue in Oregon is not silver or anti-silver, McKinley or anti-McKinley, Mitchell or anti-Mitchell. It is whether the political machine with headquarters at Portland and a few paid parasites in each county shall govern this state, control its legislature, and dictate its federal patronage for the next four years.

These influences in the past have been in control too much. These corrupt influences in the last legislature were defeated on all their pet undertakings. They should not be put in control this spring at the bidding of the old Portland ring. They will not be if the masses of Republicans assert themselves.

They were giving us a state government that cost twice as much as it should. They were scattering costly institutions over the state that were not needed. They were creating places for their pets and favorites for life. They promised reforms two years ago which they never intended to carry out. They have control of the state and county and congressional committees and many of the party newspapers. They now propose to regain their grasp on the necks of Republicans and make them to do their bidding for four years to come.

The fight is not on the silver question. Republicans should not be deceived by that cry. It is a matter of record that men who were supporting Dolph last winter were willing to throw him down at any moment if they could gain by it. Jo. Simon was nursing the silver votes in hopes to displace Dolph himself. There is not a ring Republican at Portland or Salem who would not have taken an election at the hands of the silver men in the last legislature, could he have gotten it. Several promised in advance to be good silver senators if elected. The ring politician has no principles to annoy him. Mr. Dolph we believe is a squarer man on this question than his managers were in the last legislature.

But the fight is not over silver. It is for control of party patronage. It is the true interest of the Republican party to break up the old machine completely and throw party power and patronage into other hands than those of life-long professional office-holders. That is the real issue in Oregon. It is the old gang and an appropriation or an office against the people and good government.

TEACHING WAR.
Mrs. Frances W. Leiter, superintendent of the physical culture department of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, is sending out urgent letters to arouse public sentiment against the Carter bill pending in congress to secure military training in the public schools. Her arguments are sonna. The public schools are not the place to teach war. Intelligence and humanity are the prime motives that should underlie all public education. Military education and discipline are valuable to any young man, and can be obtained in the militia organizations of any state in the Union. But the public schools are to furnish children the rudiments of education, not of war.

OREGON AND DAKOTA.
The per capita indebtedness of North Dakota was $21.03 in 1890. Of South Dakota it was $20.11. Of Oregon in 1890 it was $7.90. While Oregon's state debt was nothing else the Dakotas owed about a million. Oregon's assessed valuation per capita in 1890 was $329.14, North Dakota $482.73, South Dakota $426.25. We have no figures as to cost of government in the Dakotas, or the tax levy there, or basis of assessment, but we believe Oregon will compare favorably in these respects. If Editor Fletcher, who is rather severe on Oregon in his criticisms at times, would print the facts we will copy them.

NOTES ON WHEELING.

The American League has 30,000 members.
A wheel of tasteful design stamps the rider as a person of refinement.

Thus early in the season the number of new wheels and new lady riders is quite large.

A bicycle is like a boy sent on an errand by his mother—it runs best when blown up hard.

The League of American Wheelmen has spent $120,000 since its organization to advance the cause of road improvement.

The Black Mfg. Co., Erie, Pa., sends out an art catalogue in black and brown upon yellow. It has forty pages beside the cover to set forth the merits of the "Tribune" wheels and the interests of wheeling in general.

Roads in Oregon have not been so bad as usual the past winter. Last year saw a great improvement. But the greatest benefit will come when owners of property realize that no better investment can be made than a good road in front of it.

Wheel Talk for February says: The woman who takes a morning spin on a wheel puts a velvety bloom on her cheek—not found at the druggists. The rider who, in his racing, is all head cannot expect to get there, while the one who is all legs cannot be expected to stay there.

The daintiest '96 catalogue is by the Eclipse Bicycle Co., Elmira, N. Y. One illustration shows sixteen men on a long plank laid over the top of a wheel—total weight 2,448 pounds. One of these wheels Tom Winder rode around the rim of the United States—21,000 miles.

The delivery bicycle is a machine such as anyone engaged in merchandising of any kind will find ready use for almost every hour in the day; being especially adapted for laundrymen, clothiers, department stores, and in fact all kinds of trade.

Morgan & Wright, Chicago, will no longer send out Wheel Talk free, but have decided to offer it at $1.50 per year, or at 75 cents for six months. All the illustrations, outside and inside, also the illustrated "Wise and Otherwise" heading, are changed every week, and each copy during the year will contain a large card bearing the portrait of a well-known racing man—fifty-two during the year.

The Peerless Mfg. Co., Cleveland, Ohio, sends out one of the largest catalogues for 1896, "The Story of the Bicycle." It concludes with this eloquent peroration for the wheel as a health giver: "Out of the valley of sickness and despair many an invalid has ridden into health and that keen enjoyment of life which health alone can give. It is a sovereign remedy for the 'blues.' Dull care mounts not behind the saddle of this new steed, which paradoxically increases the weight of the thin and decreases the avoidpous of the stout; while it is of the greatest value as a remedial and tonic agent in numerous ailments."

AN OPEN FIGHT.
Besides several anonymous attacks on Hermann, the Salem Statesman has this in a long article by "Republican":
I have no hesitation in declaring my belief that the next congressional election in this state will demonstrate the fact that three out of four of our national law makers from Oregon are today openly misrepresenting the sentiments of the Republican party in Oregon on the question of silver coinage.
Will the Statesman say who it wants for congressman and senator, and who for the legislature.
The public understands who it don't want.
Will it please tell who it does want, or is it ashamed to advocate what it wants openly?
A little candor is good for the soul, brother.
