A. P. A. AND M'KINLEY

Their Opinions of the Orders Are Modified.

WAsHINGTON, May 14.—Today's session of the House of Representatives was chiefly devoted to the consideration of the bill of a joint committee providing for a commission to investigate the return of votes at the late presidential election. A general statement of the orders of the day made by Speaker Reed, of Vermont, was warmed in its perusal. In view of the arguments of the members of the committee, the amendment was declared to be in order. Speaker Reed said the orders of the day were not subject to debate, and the debate could not be started on the amendment. The amendment was then laid on the table, and the bill returned to committee of the whole for further consideration.
