

Strong Nerves

Nerve just as surely come from the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla as does the cure of scrofula, salt rheum, or other so-called blood diseases. This is simply because the blood affects the condition of all the bones, muscles and tissues. If it impure it cannot properly sustain these parts. If made pure, rich, red and vitalized by Hood's Sarsaparilla, it carries health instead of disease, and repairs the worn, nervous system as nothing else can do. Thus nervous prostration, hysteria, neuralgia, heart palpitation, are cured by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

W. J. BRYAN'S SPEECH.

when it was passed; it was not unconstitutional when it went to the supreme court for the first time. It did not become unconstitutional until one Judge changed his mind, and we cannot be expected to know when a Judge will change his mind. The income tax is a law.

"It simply intends to put the burden of government justly upon the backs of the people. I am in favor of an income tax. When I find a man who is not willing to pay his share of the burden of the government which protects him, I find a man who is unworthy to enjoy the blessings of a government like ours.

"He says that we are opposing the national bank currency. It is true. If you will read what Thomas Benton said, you will find he said that in searching history he could find but one parallel to Andrew Jackson; that was Cleo, who destroyed the conspiracy of Cataline and saved Rome. He did for Rome what Jackson did when he destroyed the bank conspiracy and saved America. We say in our platform that we believe the right to coin money and issue money is a function of the government. We believe it is a part of the sovereignty and can no more with safety be delegated to private individuals that can afford to delegate to private individuals the power to make penal statutes or levy taxes.

"Mr. Jefferson, who was once regarded as a good Democratic authority, seems to have had a different opinion from the gentlemen who have addressed us on the part of the minority. Those who are opposed to this proposition tell us the issue of paper money is a function of a bank, and that the government ought to go out of the banking business. I stand with Jefferson rather than with them, and tell them, as he did, that the issue of money is a function of the government, and that the banks ought to go out of the government business.

"They complain about the plank which declares against life tenure of office. They have tried to strain it to mean that which it does not mean. What we oppose in that plank is the life tenure being built at Washington which excludes from participation in benefits the humbler members of our society. I cannot dwell longer in my limited time. [Cries of "Go on!" "Go on!"]

I ask him if he will apply his logic to us, why he does not apply it to himself. He says he wants this country to try to secure an international agreement. Why does he not tell us what they propose to do if they fail to secure an international agreement? There is more reason for him to do that than for us to fail to maintain a parity. They have tried for 30 years—for thirty years—to secure an international agreement, and those who are waiting for it most patiently do not want it at all.

"Now, my friends, let me come to the great, paramount issue. If they ask us here why we say more on the money question, then we say on the tariff question, I reply, that, if protection has slain its thousands, the gold standard has slain its tens of thousands. If they ask us why we did not embody all these things in our platform which we believe, we reply to them that when we have resorted the money of the constitution all other necessary reforms will be possible; and until that is done, there is not a reform that can be accomplished.

"Why is it that within three months such a change has come over the sentiments of this country? Three months ago, when it was confidently asserted that those who believed in the gold standard would frame our platform and nominate our presidential candidate, even the advocates of the gold standard did not think we could elect a president, but they had a good reason for suspicion, because there is scarcely a state here today asking for a gold standard that is not within absolute control of the Republican party.

"But note the change. Mr. McKinley was nominated at St. Louis, upon a platform that declared for the maintenance of the gold standard until it should be changed into bimetalism by international agreement. Mr. McKinley was the most popular man among the Republican party, and everybody, three months ago, in the Republican party, prophesied his election. How is it today? What about that man who used to boast that he looked like Napoleon? That man shudders today when he thinks that he was nominated on the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo. Not only that, but as he listens, he can hear with ever-increasing distinctness the sound of the waves as they beat upon the lonely shores of St. Helena.

"Why this change? Ah, my friends, it is not the change evident to any one who will look at the matter? It is no private character, however pure; no personal popularity, however great, that can protect from the avenging wrath of an indignant people. We go forth confident that we shall win. Why? Because upon the paramount issue in this campaign there is not a spot of ground upon which they will dare to challenge battle. Why, if they tell us the gold standard is a good thing, we point to their platform and tell them that their platform pledges the party to get rid of the gold standard and substitute bimetalism. If the gold standard is a good thing, why get rid of it?

"These very people, four months ago, were open and avowed advocates of the gold standard, and telling us that we could not legislate two metals together, even with all the world. I want to suggest this truth: That if the gold standard is a good thing, we ought to declare in favor of its retention, and not of abandoning it; and if the gold standard is a bad thing, why should we wait until some other nations are willing to help us to let it go?

"Here is the line of battle, and we care not upon which issue they force the fight. We are prepared to meet them on either issue, or on both. If they tell us the gold standard is the standard of civilization, we reply to them that the most enlightened of all nations of the earth have never declared for the gold standard, and both parties this year are declaring against it. If the gold standard is the standard of civilization, why, my friends, should we not have it? More than that, we can tell them this: That they will search the pages of history in vain to find a single instance in which the common people of any land have ever declared themselves in favor of the gold standard. Mr. Carlisle said in 1878 that the struggle was between the holders of idle capital and the struggling masses who produce wealth and pay the taxes of the country. My friends, it is simply this question that we shall decide—upon which side shall the Democratic party fight, the side of the idle holders of idle capital, or upon the side of the struggling masses? That is the question that the party must answer first, and then it must be answered by each individual hereafter.

"It is the issue of 1776 over again. Our ancestors, when they had 3,000,000, had the courage to declare their independence of every other nation on earth. Shall we, their descendants, when we have 70,000,000 declare that we are less independent than our forefathers? No, my friends, it will never be the judgment of the people. Therefore, we care not upon what lines the battle is fought. If they say bimetalism is good, but we cannot have it till some nation helps us, we reply that instead of having the gold standard because England has it, we shall restore bimetalism and then let England have bimetalism, because the United States has it. If they dare to come out in the open and defend the gold standard as a good thing, we shall fight them to the utmost.

"Having behind us the commercial interests, the laboring interests, and all the toiling masses, we shall answer their demands for the gold standard by saying to them: 'You shall not press down upon the brow of labor this crown of thorns. You shall not crucify mankind upon the cross of gold.'

The conclusion of Bryan's speech was marked by the most enthusiastic demonstration of the convention up to that time. The whole convention sprang to its feet, and 20,000 throats roared while twice 20,000 arms waved frantically. Handkerchiefs and flags flew wildly. Hats were hurled aloft. Umbrellas were waved. Men shouted like maniacs. From every quarter of the hall came the hoarse roar. Suddenly the Texas delegation uprooted the banner of the Lone Star state and

A queen is only a woman after all, and every woman is a queen if she be a perfect woman. The crown of womanhood is motherhood. There is no higher thing than this. There is no better thing than that which a woman can do than to be a mother of bright and happy children. That is the best and highest thing that anybody can do in this world. It cannot be achieved by a woman who isn't healthy, who suffers from any of the weaknesses or disorders peculiar to her sex. A false idea of modesty which prevents the acquisition of knowledge, and the carelessness which prevents an application of knowledge are the most prolific causes of this kind of sickness. Thirty years ago, knowledge of the prevalence of such disorders induced Dr. R. V. Pierce, then as now, chief consulting physician of the Invalid Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., to devote a great amount of time and study to the preparation of a remedy that would invigorate and strengthen the perfectly and positively all forms of female weakness—that would take the danger away from childbirth, and greatly lessen the pains of labor. This remedy is called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That it accomplished the object for which it was intended is proven by its remarkable and continued success for 30 years. Women will gain much knowledge by reading Dr. Pierce's great thousand page "Common Sense Medical Adviser." A free copy will be sent on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

carried it to where stood the standard of Nebraska. Above the roar rose piercing shrieks, which sounded like a volley of siege guns above the continuous rattle of 10,000 small arms. Other delegates grasped the staffs of their delegations and pushed their way to the Nebraska delegation. Soon the staffs of two-thirds of the states were grouped about the purple standard of Bryan's state. Only the standards of Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maine, Minnesota, New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Vermont, South Dakota, Rhode Island and Pennsylvania were left standing when the demonstration was at its height.

The awful roar from the galleries continued. The band played, but the music could not be heard above the Niagara-like tumult of sound. Like an angry ocean, it swept on, breaking and falling back, only to rise again. Delegates fairly jumped for joy. Some took possession of the aisles and marched. Suddenly the state standards, clustered at Nebraska, were borne away in single file through the aisles.

After fifteen minutes of this disturbance, the delegates and crowds sank back exhausted. When all were seated, Delegate Salsbury of Delaware, climbed on his chair. He and three silver colleagues of that state gave three cheers for Bryan, which were answered with a shout from the galleries of "What's the matter with Bryan for president?"

The recipient for all these honors made his way with difficulty from the stage. For ten minutes his friends had fairly smothered him with congratulations. When at last he reached his chair on the floor, he leaned back, seemingly completely exhausted. One of his colleagues fanned him, while the delegates hung affectionately over him and wrung his hands.

Feed the Nerves

Upon pure, rich blood you need not fear nervous prostration. Nerves are weak when they are improperly and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is thus the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.
