GOSSIP BY THE WARSIDE.

Letter from a Traveling Scribe Eastward Bound.

ON THE TRAIN FOR ST. LOUIS, July 18, 1896.

We are ripping along east down the valley of the Yellowstone. I have seen no very heavy crops anywhere, or any great evidences of prosperity. In the little mining towns of Idaho there was great enthusiasm for Bryan and Sewall. At one place the principal saloonkeeper had elevated an oil-painted 16 to 1 sign, covering the whole front of his building with immense portraits of Bryan and Sewall. No matter what people may say of saloonkeepers elsewhere, in mining regions they are respected and men of influence. That 16 to 1 Bryan saloon sign means a great deal to the close observer of American politics. It would be highly interesting if for once the saloons and the prohibitionist worked side by side in the cause of humanity. I do not believe the rank prohibitionists will support Bryan, because hard times has been the most potent ally of the Prohi. Men are learning to do without stimulants from force of habit because they have no money to spend for drinks. The scarcer the circulating medium the less money is spent in saloons.

At Missoula I inquired for my old friend Herr Baudmann, who played Shakespeare to empty houses at Salem in 1890. He is still running his horse and cattle ranch near here, and I asked the hotel keeper to give the old man my regards.

At Hope, Idaho, a man with a big red silk Bryan badge was at the depot. "Are there any Bryan men here beside yourself?" I asked. "Beside myself?" he exclaimed, his eyes dilated with surprise and his nostrils quivering. "If we find a laboring man or any man who expects to make his living off the people of this country who is not a Bryan man, we will sink him to the bottom of Lake Pen d'Oreille." This recalls what a Helena man said about voters in that town who wanted to vote to locate the capital at Butte. "First he had a few fights on the way to the polls, then a knockdown, and then he stayed in the calaboose till the polls were closed."

I came through with a man who was at Helena 25 years ago. It seems strange now to ride through the Yellowstone valley and think that back a few years those hills now fed over by peaceful Holsteins were black with buffalo. An occasional bear chained to a post in some railroad town is the last vestige of the savage life that once peopled these mountains. In Western Montana, one sees an occasional pointed tepee of the Sioux and Blackfoot Indians.

On the train was the woman who continually hector her little children. She could not allow them to eat, move, sleep, breathe, or speak without letting flow a continual stream of comment, gabble, correction and criticism. The children looked nervous, weary and irritated. There was no repose for their souls and naturally they were querulous and troublesome. A fowl can be turned out anywhere and it will eat what is good for it. A lamb at three months knows which ones of thousands of plants to eat. But a child that is a higher creation than the animals must be fed food like doses of medicine.

Horse plains is one of the prettiest farming valleys in Western Montana. It is twenty miles long and ten miles wide, with cattle ranges running off into the mountains each way. This valley is well settled up, but more are coming in. There is a market for steers from $25 to $35. One-year-old heifers are worth $17. There are some of the finest ranches in the state here. There are rich mining districts on Prospect creek and Thompson river. I was told the mercury seldom goes to zero here. Wheat is 40 cents a bushel.

On the train were a number of families, farmers and business men, leaving Western Washington, going back to Iowa.

A woman with two little children, who had been visiting a sister, was coming back to a Montana town. Her husband was a salesman in a dry goods store and had not kept sober or been true to her. She fled determined to never see him again. Now the baby was nearly a year old. The older boy, named after his father, talked about going to meet papa and his prattle cut the woman to the quick. Her mother-love for her children was carrying her back to meet a man whose memory was a mingled feeling of love and loathing! Let us pray that her pure affection for her children shall overcome all evil.

FOR FREE COINAGE.

John Clark Ridpath, the Historian, Repudiates the Gold Standard.

In a dispatch dated at Indianapolis, June 17, it is said that John Clark Ridpath, the great historian, who has been a life long Republican, will not support McKinley on the gold platform. In a letter to the chairman of the democratic state committee of Indiana, Mr. Ridpath says:

"There is just one great question before the American People and that is whether they will be compelled by the international gold conspiracy, having its bifurcations in London and New York, to transact their business, and in particular to pay their debts, with a cornered dollars worth two for one, and fraudulently substituted for the dollar of the law and the contract, or whether they (the people) will reclaim their right to contract their business and pay their debts according to the terms of the contract and according to justice. It is said by the conspirators of the gold propaganda that they advocate restoration of our coinage and money to the exact condition which it held prior to the act of 1873 is dishonest; that they wish to coin 50 cents worth of silver into a dollar and compel creditors to accept that in lieu of an honest dollar. Than this there never was a greater sophism and falsehood. What the people desire and what they intend to do is to coin a hundred cents worth of silver, that is, a dollar's worth, that is 37 1/4 grains of silver into a dollar, and by that act to break the corner on gold and reduce the exaggerated purchasing power of that metal to its normal standard.

"If any man dare say that 37 1/4 grains of pure silver are not a dollar's worth let him be challenged with the question whether that amount of uncoined silver will not purchase as much of the average of twenty-five of the great staples of the American market, including real estate and labor, as the same silver would purchase twenty-five years ago. Let him answer that truly, or forever afterwards hold his peace. As a matter of fact the uncoined silver in the American dollar will buy more of the average of our great staples than the same would buy in 1875.

"What then? The limited supply of gold in the world has been cornered by those who own it. They are few—very few—and the people are millions. The price of the cornered gold has advanced more and more, until it has become almost worth two for one. All the while coined gold has concealed the fallacy that is in it. The gold eagle still proclaims itself $10, although it has advanced in purchasing power until it is nearly $20. Under this obscure and fraudulent process all productive industries have been crushed to the earth. They who labor in fields and shops have been virtually ruined.

"The claim that gold coin is the 'sound money,' the 'honest money' of the world, and that silver money—real, primary silver money, on our old statutory ratio—is dishonest and unsound money is the most false, as it is the most adroit, proposition ever put forth by interested parties to defraud the people of a great nation!"

Your Boy Won't Live a Month.
So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill street, Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had lung trouble, following typhoid fever, and he spent $375 with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work. He says he owes his present good health to use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for lung trouble. Trial bottle free at Fred A. Legg's drug store.

Directed Upon Persons and Things by the Good Natured Man.

Gov. Fletcher looks extremely happy these days.

Strange that all the German socialist papers are flopping to McKinley.

Popocrat is not a bad word, and may prove very popular with the people.

Editor Calamity Billingsgate Moores of the Statesman, is doing some very fine work—in his way.

Farmers would like to have their crops redeemed in a sure thing, but they are the great class who must take their chances.

Don't bow down to anarchy; no, don't do it. Nor to the gold syndicate that wants to put a plaster on our country for all time to come.

The Statesman has in the past ten years built miles and miles of motor lines, and now it looks as though the Labor exchange was about to relieve it of that job.

Walter Lyon has gotten onto a bi-metallic basis. He can now write you a gold interview for the Oregonian or a silver interview for the San Francisco Examiner.

Two years ago Bryan refused a Democratic nomination for congress, and said that the party had left him, but he thought the people would endorse his action. Was he right?

The middle-of-the-road Pops are dandies now that they propose a presidential ticket of their own, but before that the gold bugs could hardly recognize them.

Germany today, besides the token silver coin, has 400,000,000 marks in old silver thalers (a thaler is equivalent to three marks, or 71 1/4 cents) legal tender to an unlimited amount and not redeemable in gold.

There is nothing strange in the St. Louis convention that nominated McKinley insisting that he ride the gold hobby-horse into the White House. There were one hundred and twenty bankers and 58 railroad magnates there as delegates.

Mrs. Thos. Platt, of New York, thinks the strain on her husband too great, and that unless he retires from politics his health will break down. The strain on politics is equally as hard, and with all respect for the lady, we might suggest that Mr. Platt retire before our country breaks down.
