RAILWAY IMPROVEMENTS.—The work of repairing the line of the Salem Consolidated Street Railway Co. from the corner of Chemeketa and Fourteenth streets to the Willamette hotel, is rapidly nearing completion. Archie Mason's force of men were today busy repairing that part of the track at Bush's corner, the narrow rails being replaced with broader rails and new ties taking the place of the old ones. The track is being planked from Gray Bros. corner to the Hotel Willamette. When that part of the line has been repaired, the force of men will devote considerable time to the track between the old power house on East State street and the state penitentiary. When completed the repairs will have been the most substantial that have been made for some time and the excellent service of this company will be more appreciated than ever.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.—This morning, while adjusting the trolley of the depot car, Walter Johnson, an employe of the Salem Consolidated Street Railway Company, came near being hurt. The trolley rope had become wrapped around the gong on the roof of the car, and in attempting to loosen the rope, Mr. Johnson pulled the gong, which was attached to a huge piece of hard wood, loose. The movement of the rope pulled the gong off the roof of the car, and it fell, striking Mr. Johnson a fearful blow on the right arm. The gong attached to the wood, weighed fully 25 pounds, and had it struck Mr. Johnson in the face, would undoubtedly have bruised it quite painfully.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN

After Falsely Slandering and Misrepresenting

DAVID BURR CHASE OF SALEM

Refuses to Do Him Justice in That Irresponsible Sheet.

MR. CHASE'S REPLY.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:—Will you kindly allow me space for a few words in regard to a communication which appears in your issue of the 17th inst., signed David Burr Chase? On the communication itself it is not necessary to comment further than to say that it is exactly the sort of thing which one might expect to emanate from one of those straw silver men which the goldite editors daily find so much childish satisfaction in constructing, and to the immediately subsequent demolition of which they then apply themselves with such fierce and fiendish joy. All that interests me in the letter in question is that the signature is so plainly a "garbled version" of my own, over which some unobtrusive articles have appeared in the Capital Journal, of this city. I would like to suggest to our friend that there are numberless signatures in common use, one of which he might have used without encroaching on private preserves,—for instance, "Republican," "Workingman," "Farmer," "Sound Money," "Many Voters," "Constant Reader," "Vox Populi," etc. However, if the poor fool has any clear idea of what he was driving at, and will kindly endeavor to explain what it was, I will cheerfully forgive his wrongful lack of good manners.

DAVID BURR CHASE. EDITOR JOURNAL:—Above is a copy of a letter mailed to the Oregonian on August, 19th. It has, so far, failed to appear in that veriestimable sheet, and if you think it worth while to give it publicity you may do so. D. B. C.

LOST FOR FOUR DAYS.

Thrilling Experience of Two Men and Their Wives.

WALLA WALLA, Aug. 25.—John Lamb, returned from the mountains a few days ago, and he tells quite an interesting story of a serious misadventure or Mr. and Mrs. Harry Turner and Dr. and Mrs. Frank Rees, who are camping near the Tanks. The four started out on a little hunting and fishing tour expecting to return to their camp before night. In some manner they lost their way and were unable to get their bearings. They wandered long after night seeking to strike a familiar path, but in vain. That night they built a fire and stood around it till morning, fearing to lie down to sleep on the cold ground as they left their blankets behind. They had no food except a little cornmeal and a few potatoes. The next day they wandered aimlessly about hoping to stumble onto some familiar landmark but another night came upon them still as hopelessly lost as ever. They spent another night about the camp fire taking turns in sleeping.
