BRUTAL ATTEMPT AT MURDER. WEYLER'S ORDERS APPROVED. HON. W. T. RIGDON TALKS

The Bloodthirsty Turks Are Still The Tug Dauntless Suspected of The Fallacies of Mr. Geer's Speech Shown Up.

Saturday evening at the armory was held the first public meeting of Bryan forces in Salem. Alderman W. T. Rigdon spoke on request of some friends of silver in reply to T.T. Geer. Although but little advertised, it was the best attended political meeting held in the Capital City this campaign, all classes being represented. Attortorney John Bayne presided, and presented the speaker, who needed no introduction to the people of Salem or Marion county. With a view to accuracy of statement Mr. Rigdon read the greater part of his speech from manuscript, but withal proved a pleasant speaker. He started out by dissecting Mr. Geer's boasted prosperity during the Harrison administration. This, the speaker said was An aged Spaniard, named Felipe the season of plenty brought on by state convention of gold Democrats Maderas, a peaceable citizen residing going in debt, and that as soon as pay day came the hard times came.

Our friend answer we charge that his efforts are directly in the interest of the bondbolder, for we have Mr. McKinley's word for it that the bondholder must have his money dollar for dollar in gold coin; that is he is just as much entitled to his gold as was the soldier who fought the battles for freedom. I believe that we should keep faith with the bondholder just in proportion to the faith the bondholder kept with the government, and the faithful performance of the soldier I see no justice in paying the soldier with a dollar worth 50 cents and paying the bondholder with a dollar worth 200 cents. This great solicitude for the bondholder is born of a spirit Assman, secretary; J. D. The Day's Doings in Political Spanish Forces Victorious The Silver Campaign Opened Fearless Denunciation of the Single Gold Standard - What Is Meant by the Term Sound Money.

[From the speech of John H. Mitchell in the United States senate Janu-

Much is said these later times about "sound money." The terms are iterated and reiterated in message, in document, in newspaper, and in public speech. And what does it mean? If it means that the gold dollar and its multiple can only be rightfully denominated sound money, ther. I most emphatically deny the proposition. If it means to imply that either a silver dollar or a legal-tender dollar, whose purchasing and debt-paying power is equal to the gold dollar, is not sound money, then I deny that. If it means, furthermore, that a gold dollar, which has appreciated from 30 to 50 per cent, and to that extent has reduced the price of farm products and every other [commodity, is a better dollar, a sound dollar, or even as good a dollar or as sound a dollar as is the nondepreciated silver dollar which passes at par in every part of the Union, or a legal-tender dollar, which is kept at par and redeemable on presentation in coin, then I deny that.

If, moreover, by the term "sound money" is only meant that kind of money that passes in coinage form as money in all the single gold standard countries of the world, then I deny that the terms are properly applied, as I believe a great nation like ours, with a vast territory, its 70,000,000 people, Its immeasurable resources, its internal commerce, and its almost unlimited amount of business, is not only capable of having, but in the interest of all concerned, in my judgment, should have a domestic money of its own, kept at par and good as a home-purchasing and debt-paying medium in every state and territory in the Union, and upon every foot of American soil. With such a domestic circulating medium, in sufficient but not in redundant or inflated quantity, coupled with a protective tariff, the industries of this country would no longer languish, the wheels of its factories would be put in motion, labor would find profitable employment, our home market would be enlarged, and our farmers would receive a fair price for their products, and thus be enabled to pay their taxes, something they are unable to do now.

If, furthermore, by the terms "sound money" the impression is intended to be conveyed that all values must be measured by a single gold standard. and only this is sound money, and that the principle of bimetallism-or the double standard, as it is sometimes erroneously, as I think, called-is wrong was demonstized the farmer's and and should be repudiated as unsound, then I deny that, and I protest that such a doctrine was never yet declared by any of the great parties of this country in any national platform during or since the days of Washington, share grew larger, until at present the and it is, moreover, in flagrant conflict with the policy enunciated in every lauding President Cleveland as the of his family are connected with farmers' and laborers of the land had national platform of every party heretofore adopted in this no profit left, and capital is making country, and particularly that of the Republican party, which is pledged unalterably to the policy of bimetallism and against the single gold standard -to the policy of the use of both gold and silver as standard money.

His occupation has long been suspected by the laborers on the water front, and they set a showed a lot of money in Brown's presence. Then Sailund reclined on a stringer and went to sleeep. "Blinker" deftly inserted his right hand into the sleeping man's pocket, and grasped the coin. When he attempted to withdraw his hand, he found himself caught on several fish-hooks that had been sewed in Sailund's pocket. "Blinker" yelled with pain and surprise, and the harder he pulled the faster he was held. Finally a policeman arrived and carried him to jail.
