

PRESIDENTIAL TICKET.

For Independent American Bimetallism and People's Government. For President, WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, of Nebraska.

A MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

Hon. H. R. Kincaid, secretary of state, has shown himself to be a man of the people in the battle he has just fought and the decision he has made.

Secretary Kincaid swept away all unreasonable technicalities and allows each set of electors to appear as the conventions and parties nominating them intended they should appear.

In sending out the official ballot he refused to disfranchise the Silver Democrats of Oregon, as demanded by the gold standard Democrats.

"Enclosed herewith please find certified statement of all the candidates for offices to be filled by the electors of the state at large whose certificates and acceptances have been duly filed in this office for the next general election, and a TRUE STATEMENT OF THE NAMES, RESIDENCES AND POLITICAL DESIGNATIONS OF SUCH CANDIDATES AS REQUIRED BY LAW to be placed on the official ballots for the general election to be held in the state of Oregon on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in November, 1896, to-wit: on Tuesday, November 3, 1896."

FROM A GOLD MINE.

But it Produces Silver and Other Metals and Employs Laborers. ANIDEM, OR., Oct. 5, 1896. We, the signers of this contribution believe in the free coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Further, that at present we have the gold standard; we denounce it as the primary cause for the falling off of values, labor and prices. We appreciate that among the nations we are the largest producers of silver, and cannot have silver discontinued as a money of ultimate redemption.

Table with 2 columns: Names and Amount. Lists names like W. B. Lawler, Dr. E. O. Smith, C. W. Moor, etc., with their respective contribution amounts.

ANOTHER LIE NAILED.

A Salem Man Who Knew Wm. J. Bryan's Father Well.

Editor Blade:—As many of my old comrades do not take the National Tribune, I ask you to publish the following printed in the last issue. It is an editorial from the Lawrence, Kan., Journal:

"The Journal has become weary of hearing and reading the praises of old Judge Bryan, father of the Democratic candidate for president. He has been pictured as a saint, a man of irreproachable character and of deep religious convictions. It has been said that he always opened court with prayer and closed it with a benediction. As a matter of fact, Judge Bryan was an old scoundrel, who put in his time talking treason, organizing lodges of the Knights of the Golden Circle and making speeches abusing the soldiers and the government. He narrowly escaped lynching several times at the hands of the soldiers, and he richly deserved hanging. He lived in the hottest hot-bed of secession north of Mason and Dixon's line, and he prided himself upon being a leader of the worst of the K. G. C.'s, whose business it was to encourage treason and murder soldiers. He was one of the rankest and vilest of copperheads that infested Wabash county, and because of his superior abilities was one of the most dangerous men in the county. Knowing these things, as the JOURNAL does, the constant singing of the virtues of the old rascal has a tendency to make one weary."

The above article appeared in the Toledo Blade of October 1, '96, of which Mr. J. Morlock, a resident of Salem and formerly a resident of Santobal, Marion county, Ill., the home of Mr. Bryan's father and he says the article is a lie, a piece of whole cloth, upon the character of a man who has been dead for 17 years. He was personally acquainted and a neighbor of Judge Bryan for many years. He never in his life made a speech abusing the soldiers, though he lived in a hot-bed of copperheads. During the many hot secess meetings held in his county he was never known to go or attend one of those meetings much less to speak of the Union cause in derision.

Judge Bryan was an honest, honorable gentleman, and a good, true faithful citizen and when he was state senator in the Illinois legislature the Illinois Central Railroad sent him a check for $20,000 to vote to do away with the tax which that company paid the state of Illinois; (7 per cent of that railroad's earnings.) Judge Bryan manfully returned the check and voted in the interest of the people. He was uncorruptable and scorned the cinch politician as well as the unfaithful citizen.

Such rot as the above is resorted to by the enemies of Mr. W. J. Bryan in the hope of making votes and is being printed by many of the goldbug papers. It is to be hoped that all honest citizens give it honest judgment.

DRAIN NORMAL NOTES.

Last Friday closed one of the most successful months of the Drain Normal school. The music class was organized last Thursday, with twelve members. Miss Steward, of Creswell, arrived last Thursday, and has joined the music class.

Prof. Barzee gave the students a reception last Friday evening, in which every one had a jolly good time. Miss Faucet, of Myrtle creek, entered school last Monday. Miss Lena Symons and Charles Remington, both of this place, entered school this week.

Prof. Barzee gave a short talk last week on the subject of "Little Things of This Life," which was enjoyed by all.

Neal Campbell, of Gardner, visited school this week. A self-improvement society was formed last Saturday evening, and elected their temporary officers, Prof. Barzee presiding, and Mr. Patterson acting as secretary. The following program is to be rendered next Saturday evening: Vocal solo, Miss Warner; recitation, Mr. Nighswander; remarks, Mr. Looney; instrumental music, Miss Bessie Johnson; select reading, Miss Jennie Hefty; recitation, Miss Edna Cowan; ex-temporary speech, Mr. Chaney; instrumental duet, Conway brothers; recitation, Mr. Faucet; German song, Mr. Patek; oration, Prof. Barzee; song by society. The meeting then adjourned until next Saturday, when permanent officers will be elected.

WINTER DAIYING IN SAKOTA.

It Pays Even When the Thermometer is Below Zero.

The barn was not an expensive one, but would hold 100 head of stock and was cut into a bank with a slope so that the drainage was perfect. I jot down what the dairyman told us during the afternoon while he was caring for his stock. Every cow seemed to know her owner as a friend—no haste, no rude noise, started her. "Last summer," said the farmer, "I raised some corn fodder, millet and oat and pea hay, with some carrots and sugar beets for a change of food. I contract only for my bran and buy it cheap. My cows all come in fresh in September and October, going dry through flytime. I begin feeding them at once to keep up their flow of milk while butter is high. I never sell for less than 25 cents, and often 40 cents per pound."

"I put my cows up nights as soon as frost comes and feed millet, hay and bran. Now, during the cold of winter I get up at half past 5 in the morning, go to the barn and give the cows their grain feed, consisting of bran, ground oats and peas in the proportion of eight quarts of bran, four of oats and one of peas, or often change to one of new process oatmeal. Then at 6 o'clock we milk, running the milk through a hand separator, feeding my calves and pigs the new sweet skim milk. Then I give a good feed of corn fodder and let my cows alone till noon, when I water them. They finish up all the fodder or millet in their mangers and lie down to chew their cud till half past 4, when I again feed them a smaller grain ration supplemented with four quarts of chopped roots, and at half past 5 go to milking, finishing in one hour."

"Myself, boy and hired hand do the milking. I treat the milk as in the morning and then fill the mangers with millet or oat and pea hay, first cleaning out every bit of rubbish left in their mangers, using it for bedding. I neglected to say I clean their stables every morning, hauling the stool and litter out on the field and scattering from each load."

He was asked if his cows ought not to be fed often. "No," said he, "cows, with their quadruple stomachs, need much longer to digest their food. Neither do I rouse them up at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning. I find from observation those hours are their very best for sleeping. Neither do I let them out through the winter unless it is on some especially bright, sunny day. Then I find they are ready to return to their stalls for their evening meal."

"But do you not find your feed pretty expensive?" "No, not very. I feed about 40 pounds per day of rough stuff. One-half is cheap straw, costing nothing but the hauling, as I trash the cuts and pens out to use for grain. I figure that my grain feed and roots cost me 20 cents per day; hay, 5 cents—a total of 25 cents per day. My skim milk and manure more than pay all care and other expenses. I feed extra heavy, for this is a cold climate, and I want much milk for my calves. My cows average me 500 pounds of butter per year, besides a fine calf. They are all high grade Holsteins, crossed up from the best dairy cows I could find. I clear $75 on each cow yearly. My pigs, calves, chickens, etc., pay all expenses, so I can lay up for my work about $2,000 per year. Besides my farm is getting better yearly from the large amount of manure spread each winter."—W. P. Wade is American Agriculturist.

Domestic Protection. One day in the Cumberland mountains, as I rode up the bank of a hill, I came to a house with a genuine cyclone pit in the front yard. At first I thought it might be a springhouse or a cellar, but a little closer inspection only confirmed the original conclusion. It was a cyclone pit and nothing else, but what was it there for? The man of the house was hoeing corn in the field adjoining, and I hailed him. "By the way," I said to him after asking how far it was to my destination and the nearest way there, "is that a cyclone pit there in the yard?"

He gave a queer little nod of affirmation. "You don't have any cyclones up here in the mountains, do you?" I asked in evident astonishment. "Well, no, mister, not perzactly."

"Then, if you please, I'd like to know what the dickens you have the pit for?" "He came over to the fence and put his hand up to his mouth as if of a speaking trumpet. "I reckon you never see my wife, mister," he said and dodged back to the row he was hoeing as if somebody had thrown a skillet at him.—Detroit Free Press.

The Difference Slight. "What's this?" demanded the guest, pointing to one of the side dishes the waiter had brought. "Sausages, sir," answered the waiter. "I didn't order any." "I thought you did, sir." "I ordered sauce. Can't you tell the difference between sauce and sausages?" "Yes, sir," said the waiter, gathering up the rejected dish with unflinching dignity. "Between sauce and sausages there is merely a difference of age. Wish coffee, sir?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Discovery Saved His Life. Mr. G. Calloutte, Druggist, Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Fred A. Legg's Drug Store.

CHANGING PIANISTS.

An Incidental Performance That Proved Interesting. "As interesting as anything I've seen in this town," said a visitor to the city, "was a change of pianists that I saw in a variety theater. There was a man on the stage singing a song, and the pianist was playing the accompaniment. I happened to see the pianist glancing to the left once, and I looked in that direction myself and saw coming down the aisle a man that I judged must be the relief pianist, and so he was. I imagined that he would sit down for a moment and wait, but, dear me, I was very slow."

"He was approaching the piano at the base end of the keyboard. When he had almost reached the corner of the piano, the man who was playing began gently sliding off the seat to the right, still playing. By this time the relief was abreast of the bass keys, and these the first player, who was still sliding steadily to the right, now relinquished to him, and then the newcomer, still standing, struck in in perfect time and tune."

"There was a brief time, a second or two, when both men were playing—the retiring pianist the treble and the oncoming player the bass—and for the fraction of a second they were both standing. But now the new player is fairly opposite the center of the keyboard. He settles into the seat, and now it is his hand that strikes the treble, and now the whole piano responds to his resolute touch."

"In fact, there never was a minute when the piano had anything to say about it. There never was a minute when the men were not completely masters of the situation. There never was an instant from the time the relief approached until he was firmly settled in his seat when both men were not continuously in motion, but the change was made without a jar or a slur in the music and without the omission of a note."—New York Times.

She Was Too Devoted.

Fig—I don't see Grimsby with that Lutestring girl lately. Fogg—No, when he spoke of marriage she frightened him off. She said in an impassioned manner, "Harry, I will be wholly yours—where thou goes I will go." And he says she meant it too. When he came to think of the times he might want to have a quiet little game, or something of that sort, he felt that such devotion as hers might fall on him and so he let the matter drop.—Boston Globe.
