BURGLARY.

The Eola Postoffice Entered And a Quantity of Stamps and Canned Goods Removed.

Tuesday night the United States postoffice, at Eola, was entered by burglars and a quantity of stamps together with about $25 worth of canned goods were carried off.

Postmaster Brunk arrived in this city, early this morning, with the news of the burglary. An entrance was gained through the front door by means of a properly fitted key.

The till fortunately contained no money, with the exception of two pennies which the "midnight" callers did not disturb. One hundred and fifty two-cent stamps are missing, but in their evident anxiety to leave the place the burglars overlooked a small quantity of stamps of larger denominations. Besides carrying away the stamps, the burglars also removed from the building about $25 worth of goods, consisting chiefly of canned fruit.

There is no clew as to who committed the burglary and it is possible the guilty parties may never be apprehended.

Swamp Lands in Oregon. WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—In the supreme court an opinion was rendered by Justice Gray, in the case of the Harney Valley Stock company vs. Hoke Smith, secretary of the Interior and S. W. Lamoreux, commissioner of the general land office, in favor of Smith and Manbreux.

The principle object of the suit was to compel them, by mandatory injunction, to issue lists to certain swamp lands in Oregon. The court dismissed the case without going into its merits.

A Phenomenal Singer Dead. Passes Away While On the Stage in Western New York.

Salemities will be startled to learn of the tragic death of Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, whose wonderful voice was heard in Salem recently. The advertiser and Union, of Jan. 8, 1897, a weekly publication, issued at Dunkirk and Fredonia, Chautauque county, Western New York, contains the following relating to Miss Yaw's very sudden and unexpected death: "The tragic death of Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, the noted singer, well-known in Cattaraugus county, is reported from Binghamton, this state. Her death was sensational and sudden. She was singing before an audience and in reaching the high notes—for which her voice is noted as being higher than Patti's ever reached—the jugular vein in her throat burst and she bled to death on the stage before her audience. Miss Yaw was able to reach the highest note of any cantatrice in the world, which was due to a peculiar formation of her throat.

In straining to get this note, muscles of the throat were pressed against the jugular vein and injured this by abrasion, until the membrane was worn through, causing hemorrhage. She had been warned by the best vocal masters that the result would be so if she persisted in singing so high, but their warning was not heeded. Miss Yaw was about 30 years of age. She was a cousin of Mr. C. T. Mason, of Franklinville and a sister of Richard Yaw, a hotel keeper at East Otto."

MARKETS. Talkington, Bottger & Co's., circular for Jan. 11, 1897: WHEAT. Market opened higher on better tone of cables and light receipts. These items were not sufficient to check further liquidation and the selling pressure became very pronounced. Many stop loss orders were reached on the decline and offerings were increased on the announcement that English stocks were 3,000,000 bushels greater than on Oct. 1. Clearances were moderate and the average of the past few months, continues to be well maintained. There is no change in the general situation and we look for a sharp recovery in prices. Chicago, May wheat opened on bid today at 81 1/2 and closed at 79 1/2. Cash sales 7 1/2. Liverpool futures for January at 68 9/16 to 68 9/16.

Klamath Lands. WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The report of the Klamath boundary commission has been submitted to Secretary Francis and will be transmitted to congress. The commission consists of W. P. Coleman, of St. Louis, chairman; B. P. Hammond, of California, and I. D. Aplegate, of Oregon. The issue of the investigation, which was begun early in October, is an Indian claim for land outside of the present reservation in Oregon, on the north and east boundaries, probably aggregating 1,250,000 acres. The commission reports that the survey made by the United States government in 1871 was defective and not in accordance with the lines described by the treaty making the reservation. The commission found no difficulty in harmonizing the testimony of the Indians and the language of the treaty for the western boundary, where the surveyor made his first errors. Here the Indians lost 75,000 acres. The northern boundary line, claimed by the Indians, is rejected. The error on the west line caused a loss of about 75,000 acres more to the Indians on the north line, which the commission now restores in rectifying the north line. The main point of controversy was a large amount left on the east side of the reservation.

HOME DYEING MADE EASY.

HANDSOME COLORS THAT NEVER FADE. Hard Times Increased the Sale of Diamond Dyes—Black for Cotton, Wool and Silk that Does Not Croak—Makes Old Cloaks, Gowns and Suits Look New.

"It is really marvelous," said a Commercial street druggist, "how the hard times have increased the sale of diamond dyes. Ladies buy one package as an experiment, and find the dye so easy to use that they color all their old clothing, and come out with new gowns, cloaks and suits for the whole family. The diamond dye blacks seem especially popular. I often sell half a dozen packages to one customer."

Diamond dyes are put up for every color, with special dyes for cotton and are so simple and easy to use that even a child can dye a perfect color with them, one that will not fade, croak or wash out, equal to the handsomest shade made by the professional dyer.
