TARIFF HUMBUG.

On the tariff question, as well as on the finance question and all other questions, there is such a thing as possible bounds of reason and consistency. When political expediency to win votes proceeds beyond all such bounds it is time to expose the humbug.

There is nothing more certain than the failure to raise the prices of farm products by an excessive tariff, when the article is largely exported and depending on the foreign market. For instance, tariffs affect the price of wheat and corn to no appreciable extent.

Oregon is interested in a tariff on fruit, wool, wheat and hops. But Oregon is not interested in having these articles tariffed to our own detriment, as would seem to be the case from the following letter sent to a Salem business house by a reputable Eastern commission dealer in hops:

NEW YORK, Feb. 12, 1897.

DEAR SIRS:—It is announced that the ways and means committee has concluded to raise the duty on hops to 15 cents per pound. The suggestion came from a certain congressman from this state, acting entirely upon his own initiative, and not in the request of his constituents.

An effort is now being made to induce the growers to believe that it will result to their advantage, and if they are so gullible as to be deceived by such buncombe, the effect will undoubtedly be to again stimulate the production of hops in New York state. The corresponding injury to the Pacific coast growers is of course manifest. The business of raising hops in New York state is being gradually abandoned, but the sensational advance in the market this season has given the growers some encouragement, and it will take but little to give them the hop fever again.

May I suggest to you that you write your representatives in congress opposing the advance, and use your influence with hop growers in your state to the same end.

The above circular letter is worthy of consideration by the Oregon hop growers, who are not interested in the over stimulation of the eastern states at the expense of the west.

To illustrate what we said about the inefficiency of a wheat or grain tariff we quote the following:

With corn in use as fuel in the big grain belt, and begging for buyers at 12 cents a bushel where net in such use, how impressive to the average rural mind must be Mr. Dingley's proposed advance in tariff "protective" rate from 15 per cent ad valorem to about 50 per cent on corn! And "humbug" is written all over the proposed agricultural schedule quite as legibly. But it is to be said in behalf of Mr. Dingley and his tariff revisers that the farmers evidently want to be humbuged.

The humbug of an agricultural schedule of import duties to "protect" exports ought to be apparent to any man who is not tariff blind.

MITCHELL'S MANIFESTO.

"In view, however, of the present status," etc., etc. With these words John H. Mitchell follows the detailed statement of his difficulties in procuring a caucus nomination, and makes a confession of his failure to secure the pledges he claims were freely given.

A candidate who really believed he had sufficient pledges to elect himself would not issue such a manifesto. His statement that he is the victim of a minority of obstructionists is false. Mitchell had a minority of the members in his caucus; he had a minority of the house in the house caucus; the Benson house has been a minority house as its own rollcalls will prove. The Mitchell joint assemblies have always been minority assemblies. He has been trying to dictate to a majority of this legislature, both as to organization of the house and the election of a senator. The records prove this to all who are willing to take facts as they stand.

Mitchell's manifesto not only lies when it says a minority is seeking to dictate to a majority, but when he charges the opposition with a tendency toward anarchy he is guilty of an un-American charge against his equals that only a low, coarse politician will resort to.

The Davis house has complied in the strictest terms with the letter of the constitution. Its organization and its conduct are recognized as legal by the senate, by the state officials, by the greatest lawyers in Oregon, and by the best informed public men. Its proceedings are based on precedent and law.

But the Mitchellites themselves confess the illegality of their Benson house. They stopped their own committee from taking a test case into court. Now Mr. Mitchell's organ announces again the intention of "the the Benson house to test the legality of that organization in the courts at the earliest practicable date." That is just what the Benson house once appointed a committee to do but in the interest of Mitchell the committee did drop the matter. Why did not Senator Mitchell put that in his manifesto?

WINDBAG AND LIGHTWEIGHT.

The Statesman says of Brownell's speech to the Mitchellites Friday night:

"He roundly scored this unholy alliance and made a masterful appeal to the Republican members to take their seats in the joint convention."

That the Mitchell push should go wild over the most notorious lightweight and windbag in Oregon abusing Governor Lord and Secretary Kincaid is only a natural consequence. The Statesman showed a little sense in not printing Brownell's frothings. They were a positive injury to Mitchell's cause and did not hurt the men they were aimed at. Nothing more is needed to open the eyes of the people to the true character of the Mitchell management, and to the petty calibre of the men to whom Mitchell would turn over the politics and government, of Oregon, in case he succeeds.

The conservative attitude of Governor Lord throughout this great strain that has been brought upon this state by the pressure and greed of Mitchell's hordes of hired lobbyists has won him the respect of men of all parties. That he has not lent himself to their schemes is to his credit, and draws upon him the vituperation of the irresponsible mouthpiece of Mitchellism.

It is humiliating that pioneers and independent citizens, like Lord and Kincaid, who have spent their lives in Oregon, and whose political records open to the critical inspection of friend or foe, should be subject to villification from an iteinerant mounte-bank who has displayed little or no regard for public or private obligations.

Confidence Pudding.

ED. JOURNAL—I see you have a woman's department in your paper. I want to give you a recipe which a friend sent me from Missouri, where he says it is now very fashionable. It is called confidence pudding. For the benefit of my unemployed brothers I will give them the following receipt:

Take three gallons of confidence one peck of international agreement, one quart cf gold standard, seven tablespoonful of prosperity, two quarts of sound money, and one pound of protection. Boil it with twelve months of no-work for an hour and eat while hot.

HIGHEST

Standard for Salem Milk.

Dairy Commissioner Luce Makes Some Tests.

The following report is made by Food and Dairy Commissioner H. B. Luce, who came to Salem rather unexpectedly last week. While here he made some tests of milk, which speak highly for our town. The fraternity of milkmen were caught unawares, and the test was made on their "everyday" product.

Mr. Luce's test and remarks concerning the Westacott & Irwin dairy, which furnishes all the milk for Strong's restaurant, speak in the highest possible terms for that institution, and will be of especial interest to the public:

MR. LUCE'S REPORT.

ED. JOURNAL.—At your request I send you statement of some milk tests I made at Salem last week. I visited Salem with the intention of visiting dairies and testing the product of all the dealers in milk in your city, but the bad weather prevented. The next time I hope to make more thorough work. Here are some tests of men who retail milk from the wagon except Westacott & Irwin, who use all in their restaurant business:

Westacott & Irwin, 4.4 per cent butter fat.

R. P. Boise, 4.4 per cent butter fat.

H. Walker, 4.2 per cent butter fat.

O. N. Learned, 3.6 per cent butter fat.

Silas Fletcher, 3.8 per cent butter fat.

Wm. Ansley, 3.4 per cent butter fat.

It will be seen that these milk men furnish a very good quality of milk, when it is known that the per cent of butter fat required by the law is 3 per cent, or three pounds of fat to the hundred pounds of milk. Some of these are nearly up to the best herds that supply Portland with milk. W. S. Ladd's herd of 90 cows in Portland tests 5 per cent, Leonard Gerts 4.9 and some smaller herds go above 5 per cent.

Milk at Strong's restaurant in Salem tested 4.4 per cent, which is above the average by 2 or 3 per cent of the milk furnished guests at restaurants. I tested milk at a very aristocratic hotel in Portland that showed only 1.5 per cent and had the manager arrested for adulteration, but a Populist commissioner wasn't a circumstance in that suit. [The case was dismissed by the district attorney without a hearing.

I wish to commend the method that the proprietors of Strong's restaurant have adopted for giving their guests good milk. When the milk comes fresh from the dairy they pour a large number of glasses full of milk and set them away on shelves to be served to the guests when needed, so that every guest gets the same quality of milk, and his tumbler of milk will have a nice layer of yellow cream on top. I commend this plan to those who serve milk to the table at eating houses. By the old plan of serving guests with milk, that by dipping or pouring out of a can or pitcher, the best milk is served to the first comers, and those who come last get skimmed milk.

H. B. LUCE.
Dairy and Food Commissioner.
Portland, Feb. 17, 1897.

One of the men who is and can well afford to be proud is Mr. R. Pargeter, manager of the old reliable Boise dairy in North Salem. The test of his milk stands as high as the highest, and far above the standard of most dairies. The Boise dairy has long been known to the Salem public at Salem, and the new manager is improving its old-time high standing.

Mr. R. Pargeter took hold of the business less than a year ago, and by close attention to all the little details which are so essential to the success of the dairy business, has won the highest place accorded by the official tests. Mr. Pargeter by his methods has more that doubled the number of patrons in less than a year, and includes among his customers the Willamette hotel and other heavy consumers. Persons wishing the best are given an infallable guide by this report of the dairy commissioner, and are enabled to know just what they get. Mr. Pargeter is to be congratulated upon his record, and will no doubt continue in the methods which have given him this fine record, until the quality of his product is forced up still higher in the scale of excellence.

A. F. Calvert, a West Australian mine owner, was offered a year ago $5,000,000 for his claim by a British syndicate. He refused it. He has just sold the properties for $325,000.

STATE NEWS.

The sheriff's tax roll in Benton county has been completed. The roll has been completed two weeks earlier than usual. The total amount of all taxes to be collected, including state, county, city and school, is $64,257, of which about $22,000 is for county purposes.

Another dividend of 20 per cent will be disbursed by the receiver of the Pendleton bank. This is the fourth payment. In all about 80 cents on the dollar.

La Grande is to have the first beet sugar factory, work to commence in the near future. A very low rate has been secured from the railroads on all beets raised within 200 miles of La Grande. The rate is from 25 cents per ton to $1.

La Grande will elect a new city council and Mayor on March 5, also a city treasurer. A mass meeting is called for February 27 to place ticket in the field.

The dwelling house and drug store of Dr. Karten, at Viola, burned Wednesday, entailing a loss of $1500. The property was insured for $750. Dr. Karten is also postmaster, and the postal supplies and mail matter were the only property saved.

Only 24 out of 28 who applied for certificates at Oregon City were successful. Only one first grade being issued.

W. W. Cardwell, attorney, has presented an order from J. Nelson, the alleged check swindler now in jail at Roseburg, for $60, the amount of money found on Nelson's persons when he was searched after being arrested. Sheriff Agee refused to turn the money over on the order, and Cardwell has sued him for it.

The Beauty of Health

Features don't matter so much. Most any features will do if the complexion is clear, the eyes bright and the lips rosy. Hearty, healthy wholesomeness is better than mere beauty of features. A face full of the glow of good health—full of the kindliness and good humor that health brings, is bound to be an attractive face—a face that will make friends. The face tells the story of the whole body. "Murder will out" —and so will "female weakness" and nervousness and other disorders peculiar to women.

If there is a drain on the system and strength, the record of it will show in the face. If there is nerve nagging "bearing-down" pains, dragging and pulling at the most sensitive organs in a woman's body, the face will show it. Abused nerves draw lines of care and worry on the face. Nervous prostration writes its warning on the face long before it comes. Sleeplessness, nervousness and debilitating drains make more wrinkles than age.

Nine-tenths of the sickness of women comes from some derangement of organs distinctly feminine. Nine-tenths of this sickness can be cured and avoided by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. There is nothing miraculous about the "Favorite Prescription"—nothing supernatural.

It is the result of rational thought and study applied to medicine.

It has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years. It has made thousands of women healthy and happy, and has brought joy to thousands of homes.

In "female weakness" it acts directly and strongly in healing and strengthening the parts that are most severely tried. It clears out impurities and promotes regularity at all times.

A SURPRISING ADMISSION

PHYSICIANS AND DRUGGISTS TALK ABOUT PROPRIETARY MEDICINES.

A Well-known Man Tells a Wonderful Story, to Which He Makes Affidavit—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured Him of Rheumatism. Many Others Have Obtained Relief.

From the Nugget, Chehalis, Wash.

A reporter for the Nugget dropped into the popular drug store of Dean & Clark, of this city recently, and there found Mr. Dean, one of the proprietors, and several other gentlemen, one of whom is a reputable physician with an extensive practice in this vicinity, discussing topics of interest to the druggists. The subject of proprietary medicines particularly was under consideration. One gentleman questioned the accuracy and truth of the published testimonials. He did not believe that a case could be cited where an individual had obtained genuine and permanent benefit from any of these remedies.

Mr. Dean combatted this idea quite vigorously.

"We probably sell as many dollars worth of patent medicines in the course of the year as any other firm in south-western Washington," he said. "Our customers belong to every class of people. I think that I can name a dozen persons of your own acquaintance," he asserted to the gentleman who had spoken, "who have bought patent medicines from this store, and have been cured of various ailments. There are some standard remedies. There are some of them that are scientifically compounded. They have been discovered and used by successful practitioners. They are put on the market by reliable companies, companies that do business on business principles. They are articles of real merit, and it is their genuine worth that sells them. I can name a few that I would as soon pin my faith to as to a regular physician's prescription."

"Well," said the gentleman who was down on patent medicines on general principles, "name some of them."

"One of the first I should name," replied Mr. Dean, "is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I name this remedy because I can refer immediately to corroborative evidence that they are a meritorious article."

The physician here remarked that many cases had come under his own observation where Pink Pills had accomplished splendid cures. A surprising admission, coming as it did from a regular practitioner.

The reporter asked Mr. Dean whether there was much demand for the Pink Pills.

"It is probably the best selling article of the kind we have," he said. "All classes of people buy Pink Pills, and some surprising cures have come under my observation. I can name half a dozen of my customers who have been cured by them of various ills, and who constantly send me new customers for them."

Mr. Dean referred the reporter especially to Mr. Harry Frazer. He named several other persons, but as Mr. Frazer is the most prominent, and was easiest of access, the result of an interview with him is here given.

Mr. Frazer is well known to the people of this vicinity. He is a resident of Centralia, five miles distant. He is one of the most popular citizens of that place, and his word is as good as his bond all over the country. He is chief of the Centralia fire department, a leading secret society man, and proprietor of a large livery barn at Centralia, and of the Chehalis-Centralia stage line.

On the day following the conversation with Mr. Dean, the reporter met him, intending to question him about the statements Mr. Dean had made.

"Whatever Mr. Dean has told you about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," he said, "has my indorsement. The man who makes them is a friend of humanity. He is doing much to alleviate the sufferings of men and women, and the man who causes two blades of grass to grow where only one grew before, is no more of a benefactor of his race than he."

"What did Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do for you, Mr. Frazer?" inquired the reporter. This inquiry was made with a certain degree of hesitation, for if there is a round and rubicund picture of health on the coast, it is Mr. Frazer himself.

"Cured me of rheumatism," was the reply.

"I look like a healthy man," continued Mr. Frazer, "and I am. But I have not always been so. I have spent days of torture and sleepless nights of agony with rheumatism. Probably there have been worse cases than mine, but if so I pity the poor victims. The experience I had a year ago was enough for me. I had rather face anything short of certain death than undergo it again."

"And Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured you? I have always understood that rheumatism was incurable."

"They cured me. I don't know anything about the philosophy of it, but I do know that when I got down with rheumatism I employed a skilled physician, and he did everything in his power to help me. But I got no relief. He admitted he could do nothing for me. Then a friend recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I sent to the nearest drug store for some and from the hour I began to take them, I commenced to improve. In a short time, I was a well man again. Since that time I have had one light attack of rheumatism, brught on by the exposure which is necessary in my business, but in a short time, with the aid of Pink Pills, I was able to rid myself of the disease."

Mr. H. D. Clark, of this town, who is in charge of the Sunset Telegraph and Telephone Company's business here, and who is a personal friend of Mr. Frazer, states that he is conversant with all the facts in this case, and that they are truthfully presented.

Mr. Frazer was asked if he had any objections to making an affidavit regarding the facts for publication. He replied that he would do so cheerfully, and going to the office of John M. Kepner, a Notary Public, he made the following statement under oath:

STATE OF WASHINGTON, } ss.
COUNTY OF LEWIS. }

H. H. Frazer, being first duly sworn upon oath deposes and says that he has read the above interview, and that the statements therein attributed to him were made, and are in every way true and correct.

(Signed) H. H. Fraser.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 8th day of June, 1896.

J. M. KEPNER, Notary Public,
In and for the State of Washington, residing at Chehalis.

This ceremony being over Mr. Frazer thanked the reporter for affording him the opportunity to place himself on record regarding Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

When this article was shown to Mr. Dean he stated that without a doubt he could, if the reporter desired, send him a dozen witnesses within a week to testify to the wonderful curative powers of the Pink Pills. This is a manufacturing point, where several hundred men are employed in the mills and factories. The largest furniture manufacturing plant on the coast is located here. The employes of these concerns are among Mr. Dean's best customers, and he said that only a day or two ago the wife of one of them who has been suffering from excessive nervousness, told him that the Pink Pills had done more for her than all the other medicines she had ever taken.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.
