Heul at her home, No. 400 Cottage street. After the usual amount of business that had accumulated during the past month had been disposed of, a pleasant social chat was indulged in after which delicious refreshments were served. GREATEST OF ALL PHYSICIANS.
 Discoverer of Paine's Celery Compound to Whom Thousands Owe Their Life and Happiness.

"Excepting its handful of magnificent statesmen and its military heroes" says the most recent writer upon America, "the people owe more to Dartmouth's physician-teacher than to any one man."
 "In every walk of life, among the highest officeholders at Washington, in the homes of the best people in the large cities, among the every day folks of the country, families in comfortable circumstances, families that 'live from hand, to mouth' and could not, if they wished, afford the services of any but an ordinary physician—everywhere I have met people to whom Paine's celery compound has been a blessing."

The story of the life-work of this giant among men has been often told and is familiar to most readers. The likeness above is probably the best portrait of him yet printed.
 It was the world-famed discovery by Prof. Phelps of an infallible cure for those fearful ills that result from an impure nervous system and impure blood which has endeared the great doctor to the world, and made his life an era in the practice of medicine.
 Prof. Phelps was born in Connecticut and graduated in medicine at Yale.

His unusual talent soon brought him reputation and prominence among his professional brethren. First he was elected to the professorship of anatomy and surgery in the Vermont university. Next he was appointed lecturer on materia medica and medical botany in Dartmouth college. The next year he was chosen professor of the chair then vacated by Prof. Robby, and occupied the chair, the most important one in the country, at the time when he first formulated his most remarkable prescription.

In view of the overwhelming testimony to the value of Paine's celery compound that has recently appeared from men and women of national reputation, the picture of Prof. Phelps is particularly interesting.
 The fact is Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine; it is not a sarsaparilla; it is not a mere tonic; it is not an ordinary nerve—it is as far beyond them all as the diamond is superior to cheap glass.
 It makes people well. It is the one true specific recognized and prescribed today by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system. Prof. Phelps gave to his profession a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For all such complaints Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

 No remedy was ever so highly recommended, because none ever accomplished so much.
 Today Paine's celery compound stands without competition for feeding exhausted nerves and building up the strength of the body. It cures radically and permanently. The nervous prostration and general debility from which thousands of women suffer so long that it finally gets to be a second nature with them—all this suffering and dependency can be very soon removed by properly feeding the nerves and by replacing the unhealthy blood by a fresher, more highly vitalized fluid. A healthy increase in appetite and a corresponding gain in weight and good spirits follow the use of Paine's celery compound.
 Paine's celery compound is the most remarkable medical achievement of this last half of the nineteenth century.
