How We Celebrate.

The small boy with the annual work of the children is ahead in the city, and although this is the first year in generations that Salem has had no celebration, the town is alive with the spirit of the day. There have been three runaways, and several more attempts. The heavy truck team of the Salem Truck and Dray Co., took a run and landed fat on the cement sidewalk in front of the Williamson Hotel. When the team was harnessed, the harness was broken, but no other damage was done. A few crackers also went off. J. O. Ostrom's laundry wagon went flying to the stable, and the dog delivery house of the hotel was broken. The dog delivery house of the hotel was broken. The dog delivery house of the hotel was broken.

CHURCHES.

Churches.—Dr. Dunsen is at noon, 12, Eldridge block, until July 10, prepared to perform work in his line. The editor of the Red Staff News says of him: "He is a skillful man in his business. We know it. We have tried him, and are sure he will please you if you have any trouble with your feet, such as corns, bunions, calluses or ingrowing toenails. He gives a guarantee cure. He has hundreds of first-class testimonials. Call at once and give him an opportunity to cure you."

LARGEST BY RAIL.—Chief of Police A. C. Dilley went to Portland this morning to get J. W. Smith, who was arrested there yesterday charged with larceny by bailer. Smith purchased goods to the amount of $35 at Free Union second hand store which he was to pay in installments. Before making all the payments Smith suddenly disposed of the goods and left Salem for Portland where he was arrested just as he was boarding an outgoing steamer.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.—Salem is becoming noted for its numerous beautiful flowers. It was the first city in Oregon to hold rose shows and chrysanthemum shows; and this year leads all for sweet peas. One of the finest beds of this popular bloom is that of Mrs. A. N. Bush, on Capital street.

EX-RAYS.

On the Madroot Politicians.

Independent Comment on People in State and Nation.

The reporter on the Oregonian, who writes personal, might have a good deal to say about the politicians in the state and nation.

There was a man named "Mr. J. A. Burlington" of Eugene, a prosperous farmer of Lane county, who is taking an active interest in the educational work of that city, is a guest at the "Farmers' Union" of the Oregonian.

Banker B. Bush, don't pay any dividends. He pays deposits. But he has about the most field of sale in the Williamson valley.

The Oregonian explains why they were appointed collector to Alaska. He was one of those small creatures who fought from himself in the old standard between June and July.

It doesn't pay to be a little thief. A Lane county man goes to the pen a year for stealing a pair of trousers. The Eugene ex-postmaster got away with $2000 and is a free man.

Unatilla county will thresh out four or five million bushels of wheat as easy as rolling off a log.

Nehalem Times: When a young man begins bargaining for a house-keeping outfit it is generally about time to begin rustling up the cans for a second.

Isn't it about time the Republican party quit putting into office so many small men with big collars on?
