

The Oregonian continues to show to its own satisfaction that the only way to stop the outflow of gold and avoid further issues of bonds, to replenish the treasury, is to retire the greenbacks and treasury notes and substitute bank notes.

Mr. D. W. C. Farrington, of Lowell, Mass., shows in the July number of "Sound Money" that the cry for the retirement of the paper money in the interest of the National banks is injurious to business, because it is based on the assumption that every dollar of silver and paper money is not as good as a gold dollar, unless the gold dollar is back of it to redeem it with.

"In my opinion the government should issue a new uniform paper currency, which should take the place of all other, except gold, and be legal tender for all debts, dues and demands, both public and private.

In reply "Sound Money" points out the "evils of government paper currency." The very idea that it shall be as good as any other dollar and that all dollars shall have the same debt-paying power is not what the gold standard National bank trust wants.

The Marion county commissioner's court meets under peculiar circumstances. Its methods have been indicted by a majority of the grand jury. If left to itself, without outside pressure or political interference, the indictment would have been unanimous.

The Iowa State Register and leading papers of that great Republican state ridiculed the work of the bimetallic commission sent abroad to hunt bimetalism by an international agreement.

It is not usual in Oregon to have rains after the 9th of July. We are not going to predict settled weather for a few days yet.

For Western and Eastern Oregon was never better, taken as a whole. We do not look for high prices for wheat or hops. The latter will require the best of care and treatment to get the contract price.

The supreme court is going through the farce of hearing and deciding the suit brought to compel Secretary of State Kincaid to audit and allow claims against the state in performance of his duties as recording and auditing officer of the state.

"No money can be drawn from the treasury except in pursuance of appropriations made by law." "The secretary of state has no authority to audit any claim and draw a warrant upon the state treasurer for the same in the absence of an appropriation made by the legislature for its payment."

Secretary of State Kincaid has firmly done his duty in refusing to violate the plain mandate of the constitution. The court may evade the issue but a strict construction of the fundamental law of the state will sustain the secretary's position.

It is doubtful if the supreme court has any jurisdiction in the case. There is no conflict of laws for them to adjudicate. They cannot create new duties for the secretary of state.

"The secretary cannot, by his warrant, unlock the vaults of the treasury and wipe out the great public crime of locking up and keeping locked up in these vaults for the next two years more than a million dollars of the people's money which they placed there, many of them at the sacrifice of the comforts of life in order to preserve their homes.

"Nor can he relieve the people of the burden of paying 8 per cent on that vast amount of their own money for the next two years and the added burden of from 10 to 20 cents on every dollar's worth of supplies furnished them for that period."

Why should we not have good times again? Natural conditions are as favorable. We still have millions of acres of the finest land in the world lying idle.

Does any one suppose that those immortal signers of the Declaration of Independence foresaw these things? If they had, they might not have been so ready to cement the foundations of this government with their blood.

Yet "the masses" are expected to quietly submit to the perpetuation of conditions that grow worse year by year. Will they do it? Don't for one living instant allow yourself to think it.
