

EDITORIAL. Bryan's arrival disturbed the Statesman's equanimity, or horse sense, if it had any. It did all it could to keep the crowd down to normal proportions, and even to intimate that he would not speak here. Then its editor interlarded his report with personalities about Marion county men he don't like. We say editor, because the editor honored Bryan with close attendance and a handshade, and Bryan immediately said: "Yes, I remember, you were connected with the state fair management at the time." Since then the Statesman has lost its state fair management and its world's fair management and its state reform school management and other sources of revenue, and its good temper. THE JOURNAL'S special Christian Endeavor issue was very much appreciated by the literature committee. It contained Col. A. I. Wagner's article in the San Francisco Cal, a better setting forth of our resources than the Statesman ever published. Col. Wagner did not tax the community a penny for his labors on the board of trade, while Mr. Irvine drew his thousands out of the public treasury for his state fair and world's fair offices. He lobbied a resolution through the last legislature to keep himself at work a year or two compiling newspaper clippings about the world's fair and to publish a volume at public expense but Secretary Kincaid set his foot on the grab. While supporting Dolph for senator in that session he was personally at work undermining him in the interest of another candidate. The Statesman was probably supporting Mitchell the same way. For a paper that has drawn its thousands annually out of the public funds, the question is, what has it done with it? Only the inherent meanness, smallness, rapacity, treachery and unreliability of the manager can account for its present broken-down financial condition. Our sympathy is with the community and the friends he pretended to serve. After bleeding a man like Judge Terrell, and pulling his leg for all sorts of contributions, and even a $500 grab at once, it turned against him when in trouble, not because it loved common honesty in public affairs but to cloak its own robber methods. The Statesman should turn over a new leaf, stake a new claim, restore its credit and not humiliate the friends it may still have by a further course of unprincipled conduct. This advice will be lost. Its herring-headed Missouri Democratic turncoat editor has no more comprehension of conduct along a line of principle than a dead horse has of Shakespeare.

turned so far as farm labor is concerned. But we must not blame the farmers. They cannot pay more under present conditions and keep possession of their lands. They must compete in the open markets of the world with their surplus products, in competition with the cheapest labor of countries that are not on the gold standard, while they must pay debts and taxes still on the basis of good times prices. Taxes and the public expenses and rates of interest have increased while the products of the soil have grown less and less a purchasing power as expressed in dollars. Public expenses, taxes, interest and principal, life and fire insurance, all commodities that can be put under the operation of a trust, are fixed charges that the farmer must meet in dollars and have not been reduced, while the purchasing power of his products has been reduced. Hence the laborer and producer must bear the big end of the burden and go without employment or lose their lands. The laborer or farmer who votes for the gold standard must realize that prosperity may come for others but cannot come for him along that line. We intend in a future article to show why dead capital cannot be relied upon to increase prosperity of the masses.

It is to be hoped the Republicans will not insist on making the chairman of their Republican county central committee, a member of the school board. To do so is to bring the schools of our city under control of the present party machine and it has about all it can attend to. The Republican party cannot afford to officially assume any responsibility for the management of the public schools. The people are hoping for the time when all the politics can be eliminated from public schools in place of injecting more into them. They cannot with safety to the interests of the community be made a matter of politics, and it should not be done. Mr. Davis is a good citizen and means well, but he is being used in this matter as the tool of designing people. He lives in the extreme south end of the district alongside of a member of the board and there is no evidence that he follows politics for anything but what there is in it, or is anything more than an intensely bitter partisan. That class of politicians should not be placed in control of our public schools.

THE WILLAMETTE The Willamette is located in the business center of the city, also in the same building as the Wells, Fargo & Co's. office. Ladd & Bush banking house one block north. The electric street cars terminate and leave this hotel every few minutes for all public buildings and other points of interest. Every and all conveniences are offered to our patrons. The Willamette is headquarters for all public men. It is one of the largest and best equipped hotels in the Northwest.

A. I. WAGNER, Prop. Three more hop contracts were filed at Oregon City, being in favor of Lillental Bros., of New York. D. C. Bailey and J. Oswalt, of Molalla, agreed to sell 9000 pounds; W. and T. Garret, of Marquam, agreed to sell 6000 pounds, and J. W. Moreland and G. J. Trullinger, of Union Mills, 10,000 pounds. The price in each case being 9 1/2 cents, though in the latter two contracts were posters, with the provision that the hops may be had for their market price at the date of their delivery.

CONGRESSIONAL. The Day in the Senate.

Morgan Spoke in Support of Harris' Resolution. WASHINGTON, July 19.—Senator Morgan occupied most of the time, Saturday, in support of the Harris' resolution relating to the Union Pacific road. He severely arraigned the executive officials connected with the sale of the government interest in the road. Final action on the resolution was not reached.

Quay made the point of no quorum as soon as the journal had been approved. Only 40 senators answered to their names, and, on motion of Jones, of Arkansas, the sergeant-at-arms was instructed to notify absentees that their presence was required.

The senate conferees on the tariff bill were summoned from their committee room and swelled the attendance to a quorum. After the usual routine business connected with the presentation of bills and memorials the senate went into executive session.

The doors were opened at 2:30 p. m. and Morgan then took the floor in support of the Harris resolution. He presented figures to show that the loss to the government, if the pending Union Pacific settlement was carried out, would be $25,000,000, and he commented upon the fact that in doing this the Union Pacific would secure property which they proposed to capitalize at $202,000,000. The senator declared that the agreement for the sale of the government interest in the Union Pacific was in violation of the statutes. Morgan argued that the agreement by which the reorganization committee would bid $45,000,000 for the government interest was expressly designed to put other bids out, as it permitted the committee to use the $17,000,000 sinking fund in the treasury as a part of their bid, while other bidders had no access to this $17,000,000. He presented a series of points showing, he said, the "monstrous fraud" and the "scheme of extortion and oppression" constituting the "most audacious plan of railroad wrecking ever devised."

The senator said President McKinley could not afford to carry out the agreement concerning the Union Pacific made by President Cleveland; he could not afford to become the administrator of the bonds of an act of the Cleveland administration so offensive as to wreck any man.

Morgan had not concluded when, at 5:25, he yielded for an adjournment.

"The Twelve Temptations." Charles H. Yale's "The Twelve Temptations," which is to be the attraction Wednesday night at Reed's opera house is said to be the crowning glory of Mr. Yale's career and a miracle of beauty, novelty, and ex-cruciating fun. From "The Village of Wulna" to "Lavy Jones' Locker" the most wonderful and surprising of all transformations sets, every stage picture, is beautiful and brimful of extraordinary brightness and originality, while the trick scenes have never been excelled for originality and mirth-provoking effect. The costumes are also marvels of dazzling splendor, and in fact, all the varied paraphernalia is sumptuous and costly in the extreme. The ballet is well represented by a vast troupe of youthful female dancers, headed by the great Italian premieres Signoritas Ferrero and Basseggio, while the ballets themselves are absolutely stupendous.

A PROUD FATHER.—A dog ranging in Mr. A. Bush's pasture assailed a flock of young white holland turkeys, and the mother hen defending her brood was killed. It is presumed the father gobbler came to the rescue, drove off the intruder, and has ever since proudly brooded and tended the orphans. Mr. Bush has suffered much annoyance, loss and damage from such dogs, and while his large natural park is open to all and especially children. Persons owning dogs should keep them out.

Scott's Emulsion. of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, can be taken as easily in summer as in winter. Unlike the plain oil it is palatable, and the hypophosphites that are in it aid in digestion and at the same time tone up the system. For sickly, delicate children, and for those whose lungs are affected, it is a mistake to leave it off in the summer months. The dose may be reduced if necessary. We recommend the small size especially for summer use, and for children, where a smaller dose is required. It should be kept in a cool place after it is once opened.
