Make Salem a better home market. The way to build up Salem is to make this town a better home market.

Queen Victoria will not abdicate. The modern monarch neither dies nor resigns.

For the glory of being served by Republican officials you pay $2 to Marion to $1 in Linn as taxes.

Wm. J. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan are enjoying Yellowstone Park. He is refusing to make political speeches.

Judge A. S. Bennett, of The Dalles presided at the organization of a Bi-metallic league. It is proposed to organize the county.

The mowing season is pronounced with the long suns in both hemispheres. Most people are worried more about getting there than about the pronunciation.

The true interpretation of that peculiar brand of statesmanship known as Oregon Republicanism means an office for life with appointments for all relations.

Of course, there will be no liquor permitted to be sold in Alaska under the McKinley administration, but no one imagines that anyone will go dry in such a wet country.

It is refreshing to know that a $1400 federal office has been provided for Hon. John P. Ward, of Oregon. He is a veteran and knows how to round up a Portland primary with or without bowieknives.

Dr. Benjamin Andrews has been removed from the Presidency of Brown University for advocating free college. That ought to put a flea in the ear of all scientific biometrists.

The Oregonian asks the one free coinage banker in Oregon, whose bank shut down without paying depositors, to pay up; it should include all the gold standard bankers in its demand and we will second the motion.

It is gratifying to know that Emanuel Hermann has a federal appointment in Alaska. All the Hermann's, male and female, will have places under McKinley. Those arriving of sea will have places provided. None shall be missed.

A few dollars invested now in giving your children an outing, if it is only on some farm for a few weeks, will save doctor bills. The city Salem was not cleaned up last spring, and typhoid fever and malaria have been frequently experienced.

Portland politicians are managing to have beetles out over the state promoting three separate parties as against the Republicans, who will then elect any yellow dog ticket they put up. Of course, no reforms can come from any source but a People's Union. Reforms always come from the people. They never come from the politician.

Hard times drives people to all sorts of economy, but how to increase incomes is a problem not so easily solved. The more modern methods of doing business involve quick cash sales, turning a stock over rapidly, no accumulations of dead stock, making goods sell themselves by price marked on them, and no haggling.

The best, cleanest, most capable and most conscientious religious man in Oregon would stand no show whatsoever for a federal appointment in Oregon as against a ward hummer and political bunko stealer like Ward, of Portland. Presidential campaigns draw to the front the worst elements in the Republican party and they must be rewarded.

The unsuccessful merchant sits down and does not advertise, relies on people coming to him and asking him what he has and, when they find it, are required to pay forty to fifty per cent profit. Character and accommodation no longer count so much as small margins and apparently cheap prices. We are living in a cheap age and it begins to look as if we were not soon to get out of it.

The progress of women into the legal profession is being wonderfully expedited by the large number of women who are learning to become stenographers and typewriters. Skillfulness in that work qualifies a woman to enter the legal profession for better than some would think. They become expert at drawing pleadings, taking testimony and unangling accounts.

It would be a great improvement for our city if the ordinance against hitchhiking terms on the principal business streets were enforced. Electric cars and other causes lead to many runaways in the course of a year, and it is only by good fortune that fatal accidents to pedestrians and people driving have been avoided. One street should be set aside for speeding and driving. It should be smoothly graded and rolled and sprinkled and then cased with fine screened gravel and rolled again. That would make a smooth street for the tourists and fast stylish roadsters. But our city may never outgrow dumping down a foot deep of river gravel and calling it a street.

The German emperor has been visiting in St. Petersburg. The character of the emperor is singularly like that of the czar in many respects. It is to be a question whether the Russian monarch is not the more enlightened, progressive and less despotic of the two. The German press severely condemns the Dingley tariff bill and that ought to suit the German farmers, because they are clamoring for measures to exclude American products. But there is strong evidence that organized capital controls the German parliament, as it does in our congress. The defeat of an anti-trust bill demanded by the farmers proves this. Prince Bismarck is in the best of health and the German people seem to be entering upon a quiet and uneventful summer.

State politics is talked a great deal already. In the Republican party there is still division over the senatorial question, and the bitterness between the Mitchell and Corbett factions is not allayed. The Salem Statesman (Mitchellite and McBride) parades the expense to the country and state for the appointment of Corbett. The Mitchell faction will carry its war into state politics.

One thing is certain: the dominant spoils element has no more use for men like Kincaid and Lord, and intends to throw down both of those gentlemen. No man who dares to make a record for the people can receive the support of the partisan for revenue, and Lord and Kincaid are slated for retirement by that element. The struggle Barkley and Craig had to get a re-nomination will not be a circumstance to the efforts it will take to give Lord or Kincaid a second nomination. The wisest thing the Republicans could do would be to re-nominate their whole state ticket, and put up a man for treasurer who was not in the state treasury ring. The better part of such a ticket might be elected. The danger now is that the worst and weakest will be re-nominated and Lord and Kincaid will be thrown down hard.

Southern novelists are becoming quite prominent. John Fox, Jr., is running his "Kentuckians" in Harper's as a serial.

The Blue Grass state has been the scene of most of James Lane Allen's works, and his latest book is a story of Kentucky's early days. The leading character is the young schoolmaster, John Gray, a type of pedagogue, strong in character and high in ambition, not uncommon in the then far West. The young Scotch-American is in love with Amy, the beautiful niece of Major Falconer, a settler. He is badly injured in a fight with a panther, and during his illness is carefully nursed by the Major's young and noble-hearted wife, who has long been his friend. Amy does not love to see him, and on his recovery he learns that she is to marry another, and at the same time finds that he has fallen in love with Mrs. Falconer. Then follows his struggle to conceal his feelings from her, his departure to the East, his many troubles there, the part friendship of the letters that passed between him and Mrs. Falconer, the Major's death, Mrs. Falconer's receipt of the news of John's marriage in Philadelphia, and to her for she secretly longed for the time to come when he would return and marry her. John's success as a lawyer and Mrs. Falconer's later life in the mansion she had prepared for him, bring to a conclusion this and story, full of disappointments for both here and hereinafter. Interwoven with the tale is a thread of the history of Kentucky. In vivid language Mr. Allen has told of the conqueror of the great West, of the life of the hardy Anglo-Saxon pioneers, who wrested "the dark and bloody ground" from the red man.

THE WHEAT CROP.

Some Estimates of the Crop in Marion County.

McKinley & Frost, the Silverton grain dealers, who operate twelve different warehouses and are the proprietors of the Silverton mills, expect to handle a large amount of grain this season. Mr. McKinley, who has had a wide experience in handling grain, gives the following figures and places it as a conservative estimate of the wheat crop now to be harvested in this county:

Table with 2 columns: Location and Estimated Crop. Locations include Jefferson, Marion, Turner, Annettsville, Stayton, Salem, Enger, Switzerland and Geneva, Silverton, Gervais, Brooks, Fairfield, Woodburn, Hubbard, Aurora, Butterville, Champoz and vicinity, Monitor, Scotts Mills, Mt. Airy, Downs Station, McKee and contiguous places, and Total.

The above estimate omits some large shipments by boats from the river landings. There are a number of warehouses along the Willamette river that handle as much grain as some of the railroads. The warehouses at Sidney, Judson's Landing, St. Paul and other points will handle large quantities of grain that never see a railway station. All the grain raised about Prospect Hill, seven miles south of Salem, goes to warehouses at the river. The wheat yield of Marion county this year will exceed a million bushels, and the oats crop will be nearly as much more, if the above figures are anywhere nearly correct.

The rains came too late to give the grain full development. While they give it growth, it was too far along to stool out properly. Lack of moisture also prevented the heads filling. The rains set up the heads but there was not enough moisture to fill. In many fields nearly ripe there are to be seen

When a man goes to war he will die and knowingly takes his life in his hands. Death waits for him on every hand, and he goes to meet it calmly and fearlessly. He has offered his life, and he is willing to give it. In ordinary affairs, a man's life is pledged in another way. He assumes obligations that he must live to fulfill. Carelessness of health in this case is worse than undue carelessness would be in war. It is every man's duty to preserve his health to the fullest, and to live as long as he can. The sick man can't do a man's full duty in the world. A man who is weak from loss of flesh, whose nerves are run down, whose blood is impure, who shows from his sunken cheeks and hollow eyes and lingering cough that he is on the direct road to death or consumption, can in no way perform the full duties of a man. If he lets these things go on, it is because he prefers disease to health—death to life. He can be cured surely and quickly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Thousands and thousands of people have testified to the wonderful effects of this most marvelous medicine. Dr. Pierce's Great Work, "The People's Common Sense Medical Advice," may now be obtained gratis, absolutely free, by any man who will send in recent stamps to pay the cost of mailing one to the World's Dispensary, 261 North Second Street, Buffalo, N. Y. If you desire further details, enclosed crosses, send in cents extra if you wish to have more handbills and more substantial reading.

of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, can be taken as easily in summer as in winter. Unlike the plain oil it is palatable, and the hypophosphites that are in it aid in digestion and at the same time tone up the system.

For sickly, delicate children, and for those whose lungs are affected, it is a mistake to leave it off in the summer months. The dose may be reduced if necessary.

We recommend the small size especially for summer use, and for children, where a smaller dose is required. It should be kept in a cool place after it is once opened.
