FRUIT

Hops and the Bad Weather.

Picking In Progress In Many Yards Sunday.

The amount of rainfall of the past few days will have a serious effect on all crops. Prunes, hops, grain in the shocks and many garden vegetables will be injured.

It has practically put threshing machines at a standstill. Some farmers say much wheat will be damaged. Rain has fallen in all sections of the state and has put the land in fine shape for plowing.

Fruit growers do not generally claim that a great amount of damage has been done, though some prunes that were farther along than others, are more or less cracked.

The clear bright morning of today caused many fruit men to feel more cheerful about the situation. Picking and drying will be in full blast soon and everything will be done to save as much damaged fruit as possible. With fair weather the damage will not be so serious as at first anticipated.

Returns from fruit shipped from other valley points are anything but favorable to the grower and do not tend to encourage further shipments.

The Earl Fruit Company, of Eugene, has been receiving unfavorable reports from several cars of fruits shipped, some of which did not pay expenses. As a consequence, packing has been suspended by this company. It has shipped 19 cars. C. B. Jeffries & Co., are still packing and shipping, with a limited force.

Returns received at Corvallis, from a carload of Bartlett pears sold in Philadelphia show that the sales averaged from 85 cents to $1.10, and Silver prunes 45 cents a box. The shippers expect to realize practically nothing for their product.

Local growers have realized handsome returns from all shipments from Salem, a fact in which they find reason to feel pleased with the fruit shipping industry, which was purely an experiment in many instances.

Two cars of fruit packed by the O. F. & P. company, at Albany, passed through Salem, Sunday, for the Eastern markets. Packing has been practically suspended at Salem for the present. Apples and dried fruit will next be shipped.

The heavy winds of last week caused a great deal of fruit to fall from the trees, apples and prunes especially.

AMONG THE HOP YARDS.

The yards about Salem suffered considerable loss from the rain and wind of the past week.

The Beardsley yard, being operated by W. H. Holmes, is said to be in very bad shape from lice and mold, and will be abandoned, while the lower yard, which is being operated by Gilbert & Patterson, is somewhat better. It has been sprayed, and the greater part of it will be picked, although there are some worthless spots in it.

At the Holmes yard, south of Salem, about five acres were blown down and will be mostly lost.

At the Pettyjohn yard the price for picking has been advanced to 40 cents a box. The majority of the yards are paying 40 cents now and some few 50 cents.

Prominent hop men think the hop crop will be cut short about one-half on account of the late rains.

At Dallas considerable anxiety is felt among the hop men as to the result of the rain on the crop; but the general opinion is that the rain will not increase the mold to any great extent, and the yards that are comparatively free from lice will be benefited.

In most of the yards along the foothills, and in that vicinity the hops are too green for picking is rather favorable than otherwise. There will be plenty of pickers at the price now offered, 40 cents.

The heavy rains have much delayed hop picking in Yamhill county, and should it continue a few days longer there will be hundreds of acres near Dayton that will not be harvested.

The pickers have lots of pluck, and pick in the rain in order to save the crop, but the scarcity of pickers makes picking rather slow work.

Lane county hopmen report no considerable damage to the crop on account of rain, and all are rushing picking as fast as possible. There is a good prospect for saying all that was properly tended and carefully sprayed prior to picking time.

Hop picking in D. A. Osburn's yard at Corvallis, has been finally given up on account of the rain and mold. One thousand boxes, or about one-fourth of the yard, has been picked; the remainder will be a total loss.

Picking was in progress in the Beardsley, Hayden and Gilbert & Patterson yards in the vicinity of Eola Sunday and many a "box full" was gathered in the course of the day. The ruling price is 40 cents but a few growers are obliged to offer 50 cents to get their crop picked. Some growers refuse to pay more than 35 cents but the pickers in those yards talk of going elsewhere.

The bright sunshine this morning produces a more cheerful expression on the faces of not only the growers but also the pickers. With two weeks of favorable hop picking weather, the Willamette valley crop will have been gathered and many thousands of dollars placed in circulation.

IN BUTTEVILLE VICINITY.

County Clerk L. V. Ehlen spent Sunday on his farm near Butteville. He has eight acres of hops, the picking of which will be completed by Thursday of this week. Mr. Ehlen reports mold spreading very rapidly. Mr. Ehlen's father, J. W. Ehlen, has seven acres of splendid hops. Frank Teller's yards, aggregating about 70 acres, and Jacob Miller's 20 acre yard are yielding an excellent quality. Mr. Ehlen reports the greater part of the grain threshed in the vicinity of Butteville. Grain that has not been threshed is all stacked. There is some grain between Salem and Gervais in the shock and will be more or less damaged by the continued wet weather.

IN CLACKAMAS COUNTY.

The fact cannot be disguised that the wet weather has already brought great loss to the hop growers. Throughout the hop country bordering the line between Clackamas and Marion counties, the choicest and most important hopgrowing section of Oregon, the rain has caused great damage during the past week, the loss being conservatively estimated at between 25 and 35 per cent of the hops that were merchantable a week ago. Comparatively little picking has been done, on account of the wet weather, and the lack of pickers. In many of the yards, poles have been blown down by the wind, and the loss is not inconsiderable from that cause, it having been impossible to attend to the prostrate vines while the rain was falling. Sunday the weather was suitable for picking, but the yards were so muddy from Saturday's rain that pickers could not get about at their work, so no picking was done.

Assuming that the weather shall be unfavorable all the coming week, the damage already begun will continue to grow rapidly, and not only yard will escape it. If there were pickers enough to push the dry houses to their full capacity, it would assist materially in saving the crop. But more pickers are leaving the hop yards in disgust and returning home than are going to the yards, and the lack of pickers will be apparent in good weather than it has been yet. There are intimations of a rise in the price of picking, the prospect of a stiffer market through decreasing yield, and the stern necessity for prompt action in caring for the crop warranting such an advance. In Butteville, Sunday, growers who had hitherto offered but 35 cents were offering 38 and 40 cents and it was predicted that a few days of fair weather would see the price for picking go up to 50 cents per box.

A very bad feature of the situation is that the best hops standing may yet be entirely ruined. If there are any hops that have wholly escaped damage, even to this date, the growers do not reveal the fact.

A FRACTURED ARM.—While playing about the yard at the home of her parents on North Liberty street, Alice, the 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Clough, fractured her right arm Sunday afternoon. One of the bones in the forearm is fractured at a point about midway between the wrist and the elbow and the other bone was badly bent. Dr. Reynolds was called and reduced the fracture and made the little sufferer quite comfortable.

BURIED SUNDAY.—Funeral services over the remains of Cecil Parr, only child of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. L. Basnett, were held from the family home on Summer street at 3:30 p. m. Sunday, Rev. Wm. Magnan, of St. Pauls Episcopal church officiating. Interment was had in City View cemetery.

Police Court.

H. R. and J. W. McDowell were arrested Sunday night, on Commercial street, for fighting. Each deposited $5 cash bail for his appearance at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Haying failed to show up by that time, their cash bail was forfeited.

HARRITT & LAWRENCE

PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR ARRIVES.

Rev. H. A. Ketchum Delivered His First Sermon Sunday Morning.

The large auditorium of the First Presbyterian church was comfortably filled Sunday morning by members of the church and congregation who had gathered to welcome their new pastor. Rev. H. A. Ketchum, who arrived last week from Berkeley, Cal., and who has accepted the pastorate of the local church for the ensuing year.

Rev. Ketchum is a gentleman of pleasing appearance and an excellent speaker. His sermon Sunday morning from the text John 12:28 "Father glorify thy name," was a wholesome and practical address and most appropriate as an initial discourse upon beginning his labors in this city. The gentleman does not use notes and is an able and fluent speaker.

One object of the Christian religion is to bring men together. The world's idea of the chief end for which man is created, is for self but the Westminster shorter catechism defines man's chief end "to glorify God and to enjoy him forever."

God should be glorified because he alone is glorious. The prevalent disposition is to glorify man. Alexander the Great and Napoleon were both great men but they labored only for self. Again men of wealth are worshipped. In a large degree wealthy men are influential. Again intellect is glorified. The head is extolled and the heart neglected. To train intellectual powers wholly, and to disregard the heart is a big mistake. It is proper to pay proper respect to famous military generals, wealth persons, and to rejoice in intellectual opportunities, but praise should be bestowed upon Him through whom life and immortality are made possible.

It is only by glorifying God that man can be glorified.

Christ's prayer should be your prayer and mine and our supreme prayer and purpose should be "Father Glorify Thy name." We should recognize our filial relation with God and should love him. The supreme command is to "Love thy God." That we obey God is essential that we may glorify him. Obedience to God glorifies Him.

Christian workers should be fruitful. There is no joy equal to that realized upon bringing a soul to Christ. We should glorify God by praising him. Let us inscribe upon the banner of the Salem Presbyterian church the supreme power and purpose; "Father Glorify Thy Name" and all labor to that end.

Rev. Ketchum and family hope to be settled at No. 405 Cottage St. near Marion street in a few days, when they will be pleased to meet the members of the church and congregation.

BORN.

PARSONS.—At the family home in New Park, September 4, 1897, to Rev. and Mrs. John Parsons, a son.

PUTMAN.—At the family home in West Salem, Sunday, September 5, 1897, to Mr. and Mrs. Marion Putman, a son.

DIED.

REDDEKOFF.—At the family home near Dixie, Polk county, at 9 p. m., Saturday, September 4, 1897, Mrs. David Reddekoff, aged 56 years, of cancer.

Funeral services were held today, Rev. Peter Gerrey, of the Mennonite denomination, officiating.

VIERANI.—In Portland, at 11 a. m. Sunday, Sept. 5, 1897, Joseph Vierani, aged 79 years, 11 months and 17 days, of congestive chills.

The deceased was born in France and has been a resident of Oregon for about 40 years. His death occurred suddenly and very unexpectedly.

Besides a wife, the deceased leaves one son and a daughter, viz: Louis and Anna Vierani.

The remains will arrive in Salem on the Roseburg mail Tuesday morning and funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's Catholic church, immediately thereafter, Rev. J. S. White officiating.

The remains will be interred in the Catholic cemetery, beside those of a daughter whose decease occurred several years since.
