EDITORIAL.

Business is bound to feel the stimulus of rising prices for wheat and fair prices for hops and fruit. There will follow an advance and increased market value of cultivated lands. As soon as it is known what are the prospects for a wheat crop in 1898 in South America and Australia, there there will be a marked advance in wheat, or the price will remain at a standstill. It is almost certain that wheat will bring a fair price next year, as it will be impossible to restore the world's supply inside of two years. What the American wheat farmer has most to fear is the early completion of the Siberian railway, opening a hitherto untouched wheat supply.

Those who have left Salem to try their fortune in other towns return to say they are satisfied this is the best business town on the North Pacific coast. We produce the "crops" and that is what counts.

Low prices of real estate continue, and it is doubtful if there will be much advance even with better times. But good residence property and good farming property is growing more in demand. It will not deteriorate in value and may find buyers. The chief obstacle to sales is lucubrations at high rates of interest, which with high taxes will keep many "property poor." To reduce the large rate of taxes and the oppressive burden of taxation that seems constantly growing heavier, must be the first object, if we are to improve property values. Investments will be made principally by people who want to make homes for themselves.

In New York last week were recorded two transactions which indicate the terrible sloughing off of city real estate values. Property sold at execution sale for a mortgage debt of $90,058.66 brought $30,000. Property mortgaged for $285,000 sold for about $100,000. These are execution sales in New York City, reported in the New York Mail express, a paper that flies the McKinley prosperity flag at the top of its columns. But no intelligent person will blame McKinley for the shrinkage in property values, and all are ready to admit that the president is doing all in his power, as he understands his duty, to restore better conditions for all property. Those who complain that such publications as the above are calamity howls have no conception of the real condition of our country, and rely upon a little cheaper politics to take out their ignorance. Restoration of property values will be a slow tedious process.

Oregon has a speculative minister who is also something of a liar. He came in contact with a man who holds some state claims and at once proceeded to negotiate for paper. He told the holder among other things that Secretary Kincaid had ruled that there was no law whatever to authorize payment of a deputy or guards for conveying insane or convicts to Salem. The holder of the claims was alarmed and proceeded to inform himself and found Mr. Kincaid nor anyone connected with his office had ever made such a statement or anything like it. He confronted the minister who, when cornered on the proposition, admitted that he had never even heard anyone say that such a statement ever had been made by the secretary of state or anyone else. "Then why did you say so?" asked the man. "Just to put you on your guard," was his reply. Just the same he didn't get the claims. There are but few such ministers. The average minister is probably as conscientious as any other class of professional man.

Every day sport in the hop yards or Rabbit stew, the great national fish of the French people had a blond cast on its character recently: Paris has been panic stricken! Bombs, attempts on the president's life, Latin Quarter disturbance, never frightened her citizens so much as the theft of a number of rabbits kept at a hospital for the culture of cholera, plague, diphtheria and other germs. When thieves broke in the hospital and carried off the infected animals, it was naturally presumed that the rabbits would be subsequently offered in the markets for sale. For several days the famous lapin saute was at a discount!

One of the most prominent American girls is Miss Bessie O. Potter, one of the group of Chicago girl sculptors, has been studying the art of working in marble in Rome during the past summer. This fall she will spend in Paris, where she will make a statue of the "Divine Sarah" in pose from some classic play. Miss Potter achieved her first success in her portrait-statuettes of Chicago belles and babies. These statuettes were modeled in clay, rarely over a foot high, and sometimes colored after the fashion of the early Greek statuary. Miss Potter is a woman with a genius for making friends, and her studio in Chicago, in the Athenaeum Building, is a veritable salon, where the great writers and artists of the Windy City meet at least once a week during the winter months.

The people have no candidates under the present system of politics. The people do not nominate. The political managers make up a ticket, more or less acceptable to the people. It has been an almost unbroken custom to give an official who does fairly well a second term. Politicians who are actuated by merely personal interests or vindictiveness may seek to cut off an official who has made a really good record with one term. It is doubtful if the Republican party, in its present condition of hostilities, will renounce the men who deserve second terms. But the people sometimes elect men to office without the consent of the managers.

The biography of the fall season will be the life of the poet Tennyson, by his son. The greatest biographical work of the early part of the year was Prof. Sloan's Napoleon. Now the great English poet's life is to be published by the Macmillan company, of New York, and will be entitled: "Alfred, Lord Tennyson. A Memoir, by his son." It is to be supplied with many illustrations, photographure portraits, and will fill two volumes.

In addition to the portraits of Lord Tennyson, of Lady Tennyson, etc., and facsimiles of portions of poems, there are illustrations by Mrs. Allingham, Richard Doyle, Biscombe Gardner, etc. The insertion of poems never before published, and of letters to friends of the poet, to which a less closely related biographer could not have access, will make this life of Lord Tennyson finally authoritative.

The price of this edition will be $10. Of course, other biographies will appear, but none will take the place of this one in the estimation of Tennyson lovers. A more popular volume would be an accurate biography and critical analysis of his poetical works.

Congressman Hooker visited the sites of the completed government works at Astoria and The Dalles, and also the sites of some big feasts. A New Yorker could not be expected to take an interest in the development of Oregon harbors and the improvement of Oregon rivers. He is a New Yorker and the rivers and harbors committee of congress is in control of New England and the South. The commerce of the Pacific ocean will be awakened from the sleep of centuries by the completion of the Siberian railway and the construction of the Nicaragua canal. Then the great western coast will no longer play second fiddle to the little end of our country.

For the information of country readers it is announced that the editor of this paper has not killed anyone the past week nor eaten alive any of the innocent and unsophisticated people who inhabit a state capital.

Every day sport in the hop yards or Rabbit stew, the great national men's healthful employment, teaching them habits of industry and laying up money which will come in play very nicely in the long season ahead when no money can be earned.

This month would be a good time for all the road supervisors to go over their lines of road and put on a few finishing touches that will leave the roads in better shape for winter. But how many will do it?

There are some good stories, too good to be told and mention the names of the parties. Up at the Corvallis Agricultural college the other day some one remarked that the superintendent of the dairy department had returned and brought a cheese plant with him. "A cheese plant!" said one of the literary professors. "Has that ever been tried in Oregon?" A general laugh followed. "Oh, I thought it was some new kind of milkweed," only made matters worse. This was nearly as bad as the story told on Wallis Nash in the early days of the college carrying on negotiations to purchase a lot of pure-bred mules in the south, to introduce breeding of those useful animals in Oregon.

The suit of one Sarah Ann Angell for possession of the Jay Gould estate, on ground of a previous marriage April 16, 1853, has collapsed, and the projectors of the suit are to be prosecuted for criminal conspiracy. The suit has resulted in a search of the records and correspondence tracing his life in the minutest details, from his birth on a farm in Delaware county, New York, to his death as one of America's greatest millionaires. Though a careful and scrutinizing examination of family and other letters and account books containing entries in his writing, which have been preserved, and recollections of witnesses, the whereabouts of Jay Gould have been traced week by week from 1850 down beyond the period of the alleged marriage to Mrs. Angell. This evidence shows conclusively that Jay Gould never was in the northern part of that state until long after 1855. In January, 1853, he was married to Miss Miller in New York City, and down to the time of his death, in 1892, and for several years afterward, no claim was ever made by Mrs. Angell that she had been married to Mr. Gould.

Mrs. Angell waited 44 years to set up her claim of marriage, and the falsity of her claim is so completely established that she has confessed the whole thing was an invention to extort money. If Gould had died a poor man the suit would never have been brought.

The Portland Welcome gives a chapter in the life of a 17 year old girl who went to Portland from Albany eight months ago. She went to the bad. Tuesday of last week her brother arrived in Portland from San Francisco, and that night by chance went to the same place where his sister was. He saw her with astonishment, and naming her said "Let's go home. In the name of mother and heaven, we have no business in such a place. I never knew before what it was to meet a woman in such place until I found my sister here." And the next train took the two to their parents home.

HER LIFE TRULY SAVED.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Does It. Mrs. Chas. La Pointe, a well-known resident of Denver, praises this wonderful remedy. Her testimony should convince all as to the worth of the New Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine. Her letter dated Sept. 18th, 1894, reads as follows:

Mrs. La Pointe, 217 Humboldt St. "Typhoid fever left me with heart trouble of the most serious nature. Nothing the doctors gave had any effect. I had severe pains in the heart, and was unable to lie on my left side for more than three minutes at a time. My heart seemed to miss beats, and I had smothering spells, in which it seemed every breath would be my last. We accidentally saw an advertisement of

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine, and purchased a bottle of each. After taking the remedies a week, I could be lifted in a chair and sit up an hour, and in a short time I was able to do light household work. I shall be ever grateful to you for your wonderful medicines. Truly they saved my life. MRS. CHAS. LA POINTE. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1.50 bottles for $5, or it will be sent prepaid on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Restores Health.

Growing Children

One-third of all the children die before they are five years old. Most of them die of some wasting disease. They grow very slowly; keep thin in flesh; are fretful; food does not do them much good. You can't say they have any disease, yet they never prosper. A slight cold, or some stomach and bowel trouble takes them away easily.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is just the remedy for growing children. It makes hard flesh; sound flesh; not soft, flabby fat. It makes strong bones, healthy nerves. It changes poor children to children rich in prosperity. Book about it free for the asking. No substitute for Scott's Emulsion will do for the children what we know Scott's Emulsion will do. Get the genuine. For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00. SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.
